DEATHS IN DUBLIN.

37 SEPTUAGENARIANS IN ONE WEEK.

During the week reviewed by the Registrar-General of the Free State in his latest return, forty-nine people who died in the Dublin registration area were aged sixty-five years and upwards, of whom thirty-seven were seventy years old, or over that age.

The number of girls born was one less than that of boys, and the number of deaths of females was four more than that of males.

There were 135 boys and 134 girls born, while 64 males and 68 females died.

Twenty-three people died from diseases of the heart, and eleven deaths were caused by cancer, nine by tuberculous disease, six by bronchitis and three by pneumonia.

Three accidental deaths were registered, one of which was caused by a motor vehicle. Sixteen of the deaths were those of children under five years of age.

The death rate per thousand of the population was 14.4 in the Dublin registration area, 13.5 in the Dublin County Borough, 18.6 in Cork, 14.5 in Limerick, and 11.7 in Waterford.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

JUSTICE AND DRUNKENNESS.

(BEFORE MR. O'SULLIVAN.)

John Moynihan, of Dame street, Dublin, described as a professor, was charged with being drunk in Westmoreland street last Friday night.

He denied that he was drunk, stating that the Civic Guard who charged him must have been labouring under a misapprehension. "I was quite sober," he said; "I was entertaining a man of international repute. I am a writer, and I have reported cases from this court."

Observing that neither doctors nor lawyers ever would come to a definite decision about what is and what is not drunkenness, the Justice told the defendant to put 7s. 6d. in the poor box.

Defendant—I guessed you would do something like that. I thank you.

DISORDERLY BEHAVIOUR.

Harry Cabrani, of St. Declan's road, and Thomas O'Brien, of Ballybough road, were charged with disorderly behaviour, using bad language, and violently resisting arrest, at Burgh quay last Friday night. Cabrani was further charged with assaulting a Civic Guard.

The defence was that the accused men were sheltering from the rain near the Fun Palace when the Guard ordered them to move away, and they did not see why they should be asked to "move on" when others were allowed to take shelter. They denied that they were guilty of any of the charges.

A Civic Guard said that he was asked to remove the defendants from the Fun Palace as they were disorderly there.

Cabrani was fined 40s. and O'Brien 30s.

MOTOR CAR OVERTURNS.

DUBLIN GIRL'S COLLAR-BONE BROKEN.

A motor car carrying three passengers and travelling to Skerries overturned at Santry early yesterday morning.

Maureen Acton, aged 19, of Whitworth terrace, Drumcondra, sustained a broken collar bone and head injuries, while Thomas Davidson, aged 26, of St. Michael's road, Glasnevin, received slight injuries to a knee. Both were taken to St. Vincent's Hospital. Davidson was discharged after a few hours. The driver of the car escaped injury.

The accident is believed to have been due to a skid.

CONCESSION TO VISITING MOTORISTS.

The Royal Irish Automobile Club announces that, as a result of representations which have been made by the club to the Irish Free State Revenue Commissioners, a very considerable concession has been granted to visiting motorists who rent residences in the Irish Free State for the purpose of pursuing such forms of sport as hunting, fishing or shooting.

Hitherto such persons were only permitted to retain their cars in the Irish Free State, without payment of duty, for a period not exceeding sixteen weeks in any period of twelve months, and consequently were unable in many cases to enjoy to the fullest extent the particular sport which might be the object of their visit.

Under the new concession visitors who maintain accommodation residences in the Irish Free State may import their motor cars temporarily for a period of six calendar months in any period of twelve months, instead of the sixteen weeks previously allowed. This is yet another instance of the desire of the Irish Free State Revenue Commissioners to afford to visitors, to the greatest possible extent, the sporting facilities which the Irish Free State has to offer.

NEW INCUMBENT OF WICKLOW PARISH INSTITUTED.

On Thursday last the Rev. John Edward Tomlinson, Incumbent of Ballinaclash, was instituted to the Incumbency of Wicklow Parish, Diocese of Glendalough.

In the absence of the Archbishop of Dublin, the ceremony was performed by the Venerable the Archdeacon of Glendalough (Archbishop's Commissary), in the presence of many of his brother clergymen and a congregation representative of Wicklow Parish.

The Service was very impressive. The new Incumbent was presented to the Archbishop's Commissary by the Rev. Canon A. Duff Moore, M.A., R.D. The required declarations were administered by Mr. W. H. Robinson, Registrar of the Diocese. The lesson was read by the Rev. C. S. Wylie, M.A. Rector of Newtown. An eloquent address, dealing with the long past history of the parish of Wicklow, the mutual responsibilities of pastor and people, and the importance of loyal sympathy in securing the desired conditions essential to happy parochial life, was given by the Venerable the Archdeacon of Glendalough.

COLOURS IN CLOTHES AND COSMETICS.

Liquid Rouge for My Lady's Lips.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Sunday.

THE changes in the mode since the Spring are not important enough for anyone to make a fuss about, although there are, naturally, some new notes in the matter of detail.

There is less unanimity as to hem-line than most of the critics would lead one to believe, and, although the most interesting frocks have hems that just miss the floor at all points, there are some that swoop lower at both sides of the back than at any other point, and a perceptible group in evening dresses flaunts fish-tail trains. However, these trains are being mostly hacked off by Parisian couturières for the dancing community.

The waist-line remains at normal, subnormal, and at Empire height, and is unfailingly accented by a narrow belt of the fabric, which usually closes by means of a striking and colourful buckle.

The neck-lines are usually a great deal higher in the front, and either form a moderate "U" behind or dip shamelessly in a low "V" to the waist.

Intricate seaming appears on all gowns which do not belong to the net or tulle persuasion. These have trouble enough retaining their simplicity in spite of being trimmed with ruffles, loosely appliqued flowers, and other extraneous decoration.

The Colour Card.

With regard to colour, beige is one of the leaders, as we expected. It is often combined with brown for country clothes. For both autumn and winter it will be mixed with green.

Red is a "goer" rather than a "comer," but no collection ignores it. Pink, in its pale shades, is very good in the evening just now, and a pink chiffon dress, trimmed with roses, and with shoes of the same colour and perhaps a scarf of the same, is a perfect get-up for a fair girl. There is a new cyclamen pink (new, of course, in a relative sense), which is being used very much for evening wear.

Black afternoon frocks often have cyclamen pink cuffs and pink-edged jabots. A new pink orchid-mauve has made its appearance, but this is an individual sort of a colour and not a "fashion." In several dressmaking-houses one finds a model in a colour like ink, sometimes slightly purple, sometimes slightly blue. It is strange, and becoming only to the very few. As to orange, it will probably hold through the summer, but will not continue very strongly for autumn.

Combinations of colour are in the highest favour, and sometimes combinations of the most unusual shades of colour are shown in one frock.

Pale greens are good for both afternoon and evening in summer dresses. It is an undoubted fact that there is a prejudice against green, with the exception of the pale shades, among the French, due to the superstition that "if you wear green you will have to wear black." Nevertheless, this is a colour that makes many people happy, though it is not one that everybody can wear with impunity.

A Word About Sweaters,

A word about sweaters: They are getting tired of being so obvious, and are sinking into inconspicuousness.

The newest are plain coloured, and in cotton and silk instead of wool. When there are patterns they are small and discreet. Modernistic splashes are kept to the domain of winter sports.

With regard to the cardigan, this is too useful a garment to leave the mode entirely. For really sports wear, and especially motor travel, it provides just what one needs for an extra wrap. But the little jacket of the same or different material from the frock has certainly taken first place away from the woven cardigan.

We put these jackets over everything. There are charming ones of flowered chiffon, red, perhaps, which are added to elaborate petal skirts of black chiffon, for out-of-door dining.

Girlish Lines.

The sophisticated, dignified wedding dress gives way this season to the more girlish style, simply styled and adorned. The basque gown, with waistline at its natural position, its skirt ankle length, with a little train, is a favourite type.

Delicate lace of the Princess variety is often used for wide, inserted bands, or festooned in tiers.

Silk net has been successfully revived as underlay for lace and for transparent hem borders. Ivory or dazzling white satin are most used, although taffetas is looming as a revival.

When taffetas is employed the robe-de-style theme is usually its accompaniment, and very little trimming is used. Many wedding dresses are being made with detachable sleeves. This enables the bride to wear her wedding dress for evening wear, since the vogue for all-white for formal affairs is decidedly the thing.

Little is seen this season of the flesh-pink wedding gown. White, cream or ivory is the invariable choice. Gowns made entirely of tulle, in youthful bouffant effects, constitute a delightful new note.

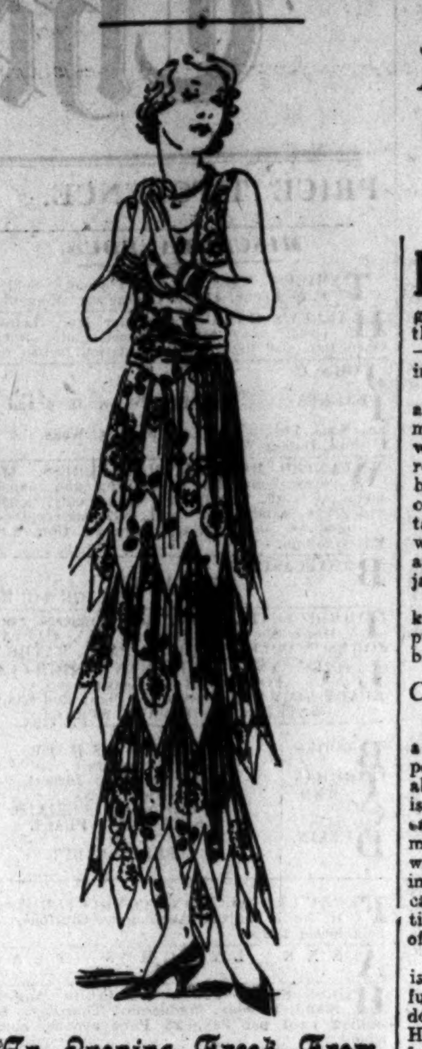
Cherry Lips,

Cherry lips that don't turn pale at a cigarette are now a feature in the Parisienne's make-up, and the lip-stick no longer lives in her vanity bag or in her hand. She smiles as ruddily after dinner as before; but she will never tell you how she does it, and the tiny flask of liquid rouge is carefully secreted from even her dearest friend in the recesses of her dressing room.

She is a changeable creature, the Parisienne. She has scarcely unpacked her trunks at the seaside resort she has chosen for her summer stay, and already she has flung all her last cosmetics to the winds and changed her colouring!

Having bleached her pretty dark hair to a delicate lemon blonde, she covers her face with white and pink powders, with a touch of réseda green for the shadows thrown by electric lights. She pays fabulous sums for her make-up.

"Is it really and truly adhesive?" she asks yearningly of her perfumer, handling the dainty box of her new powder, and waits till he has laid his hand on his heart and sworn that nothing short of hot water will take it off, before she pays the bill!



An Evening Frock From Paris.

In pastel flowered mousseline, with a three-tier flounced skirt, this exquisite evening frock has a tight-fitting corsage, finishing with a point in front, and lacing down the back—a new fashion feature.

Sketched in Paris.

Ten Pounds of Jam from Two Pounds of Fruit!

THIS sounds rather like a miracle, I admit, and when, a few years ago, a kind friend gave me the recipe, I was so little of an optimist that for a time I delayed testing it. Now, after a triumphant personal experience, I must say that the results were amazingly successful, not only giving an incredibly generous return in quantity, but a very delicious quality as well.

Here is the recipe, and make use of it as soon as you can whilst the fruit is in season: Take two pounds of black currants. Boil four pints of water and the currants together for ten minutes. Then add three pounds of sugar for this quantity, and let boil quickly all the time for 20 minutes longer.

A Simple Recipe.

Simple enough, isn't it? And quick, and cheap, and plentiful. Much nicer, too, than when made in the ordinary way. One had always thought of black currant jam as a very stiff, almost solid, mixture. But made in this way it is much more juicy and jelly-like, without being too thin. Made as above, and sufficiently boiled, it should be of a really nice consistency. Not the kind you are afraid to give to your children, because they are apt to sprinkle themselves and the table cloth with juice. I have seen this happen frequently with blackberry jam, and it must add considerably to the laundry bills!

To Thicken.

Most housewives know how sticky, messy, and tiresome it is to find one's jam or jelly insufficiently thick after pouring into the pots and letting it cool. To save much trouble in putting all back to boil again in the preserving pan, just place the filled jars in a fairly hot oven, and leave till of proper stiffness. You will thank me for this, I hope, and for this recipe for black currant jam. You should have ten or even eleven pounds of jam from your two pounds of fruit and four pints of water and three pounds of sugar only.

Useful Hints.

You will notice that I am more concerned to give you certain useful hints on preserving than a collection of different recipes, which can be culled from any cookery book. Mrs. Beeton, though always reliable, is much too generous in her estimates for these post-war days. She would doubtless faint at the thought of making 10lb. jam out of 2lb. fruit. Measure your water carefully—do not put in a spoonful more than the prescribed quantity—two pints to each pound of fruit. Of course, larger quantities of jam may be made, using the above proportions.

This recipe is for black currant jam only—I do not know if it would work with other kinds of fruit and I hardly think it would. One of Mrs. Beeton's recipes for black currant jam allows no water at all! Simply sugar and fruit boiled together—that would be a stiff and sticky concoction, and how hard to keep it from burning!

Cheap or Expensive,

Where one has to buy the fruit—so needlessly dear in Dublin—it is doubtful whether it is wise to make one's own jam, seeing it can now be bought so good and cheap in the shops. But home-made jam is always more tempting, and with above recipe it need not be dear. Also, you might throw out a "cadging" hint to your friends who own fruit gardens, seeing that black currants are such a plentiful crop, and that much of it will go to the birds this year.

Keeping Preserves.

Cover down your jams closely and store them in a dry place which is also airy, but neither hot nor moist. Some people like to cover down jam while still boiling hot, believing that in this way it is less likely to get mildewed. Good quick boiling is the best and saves time. Skim as necessary with a large silver or wooden spoon. Stir frequently to prevent burning, and do not put into pots until you find the jam hardening quite noticeably into a jelly-like substance on the sides of your spoon. Or test on a cold plate to see if thick enough; for the time given for jam boiling is not always reliable, and alters in results with different fruits.

Hints That Help.

The prettiest curtains can be devised to one's individual taste by using plain net, white or coloured, and fixing on the net, with the aid of ordinary gum, birds or butterflies or clusters of colourful flowers cut out from odd scraps of chintz or cretonne. When you want a change, or for laundering, peel off the ornamentations and affix an entirely new set, or change the position of the old ones.

* * *

When blending yolk of egg and oil for mayonnaise the mixture frequently curdles. You can start again by using another egg, but a simpler way is to stir in a teaspoonful of raw corn-flour. Mix free from lumps and continue adding oil and vinegar. It will thicken till it can be cut with a knife. The flavour will be unaltered, and twice the quantity will result.

* * *

When you cannot obtain cream you can make a good substitute by stirring a dessert-spoonful of flour into a pint of milk, simmer to take the rawness off the flour, stir in the yolk of an egg, well beaten, and strain through a fine sieve.

* * *

When about to cook a fowl, truss the legs the reverse way, and put the fowl in the baking tin on its breast. The fat in the back will run down and the fowl will not need basting.

* * *

If when frying a saucepan lid is placed over the frying-pan, and the steam kept in, the contents will be cooked more quickly and are more tender.

* * *

Never allow good rugs to be beaten. Just brush both sides and rub over quickly with a cloth wrung out of hot salted water. This process makes the rugs look like new.

* * *

When making lemonade use golden syrup to sweeten it, using one tablespoonful of syrup to each lemon. It is economical, and gives a good flavour.

* * *

Mignonette is an infallible remedy against flies and moths. They never enter a room where there is any of this plant about.

* * *

When boiling a piece of ham add to the water in which the ham is boiled two teaspoonfuls of sugar and a dessert-spoonful of vinegar. This improves the flavour and colour.

* * *

When boiling greens or rice fast a small lump of dripping in the water will prevent them from boiling over.

* * *

Similarly, to prevent milk from boiling over, grease round the top of the pan with buttered paper.

Remarkable Revival of interest in Gardening.

DEAR AILEEN,—I thoroughly enjoyed reading of your friend's beautiful garden. It is decidedly useful to have a garden large enough to entertain in. Even the most ordinary form of outdoor hospitality—to wit, "tea in the garden"—is a charming setting for any hostess.

At the same time, I have been present at al fresco "bun fights," where life was made temporarily odious by the buzzing of wicked-looking wasps and persistent "biting remarks of the midges." For the former the best remedy is to leave a nice shallow dish of jam (raspberry for preference) on a side table before tea starts. In this way the wasp world's attention is caught and held busy at a "side show"—as you know, wasps love jam above all things.

Some people find that cigarette smoke keeps midges away, but personally I always put my trust in oil of lavender or verbena, both of which they seem to avoid.

Comfortable and Pretty.

Garden tea party furniture is, as you say, a problem, since we demand comfort on all possible occasions. By far the most comfortable and pretty furniture, to my mind, is the cane table, often glass-topped, with easy chairs to match. What appeals most to me about this furniture is the fact that, while it is suitable and comfortable for use in the garden on these rare sunny days, it can earn its keep, so to speak, either in sittingroom, sun-parlour or bedroom all the rest of the year round.

It makes one other appeal to me, and that is that it can be turned out so very beautifully by ex-Service men. If you have any doubt on this subject visit their stall at the Horse Show this week, and you can judge for yourself. While there you can place any order you wish, and feel quite sure that your requirements will not only receive the best possible attention under expert supervision, but also (and this to me is most important) that the cane-work you buy in this way is actually supplied to you at a very reasonable figure. I have seen some excellent work done by the Enniscorthy Branch of the Legion Industry, and I know that they intend to exhibit at the Horse Show.

Gardening Revival.

Quite a remarkable revival of gardening has taken place as a result of the display of so many gardens in connection with the Jubilee Nurses' Fund. Rock garden enthusiasts abound, and their efforts are thriving. Some of the nicest and prettiest plants for rock gardens can be collected in wild, rocky districts. These plants are accustomed to such poor soil that they seem to transplant without the slightest effort.

Of course, the rock garden which can be planted beside a running stream is the loveliest of all—it is possible to get such beautiful little river plants, which need no later attention. Some time ago I tried to get the roots of water lilies which grew in abundant bloom in a lake nearby, but to my chagrin, I found that the roots were as deep as the lake itself, and quite inaccessible.

The country people in some parts of Ireland use the root of the water lily to make dye for their home-spun woollens, and believe me, the dye must be very good to hold as it does through the dreadful wettings that the clothes of these people have to endure.

Two More Games.

Here are two other "small garden" games which you can pass on to those enterprising friends of yours—the first is a "hidden treasure" game.

Allow the guests to "stake their claims" in any part of the garden with the aid of small stakes, which should be labelled with their names. One stake will do for each competitor, as he can claim, say, two feet around his stake belongs to him. Whoever is lucky enough to stake his claim nearest to the previously selected secret spot wins the prize.

The second game is to mark off the lawn in strips or squares, numbering each strip or square with quite different numbers so that, say, number ten would lie beside number two, and so on. Then allow each guest, say, five minutes in which to get the highest possible score by means of putting a golf ball into different squares. A prize must, of course, be provided for the best score, and an umpire, with pencil and notebook, must diligently "keep the score."

Hoping we will soon get some decent weather for all these garden activities.—
Yours, MARY.

Teas With Flower Fragrances.

When drinking tea few of us realise to what infinite trouble we have put blenders and tasters to provide us with the particular brand we favour. When in London recently I visited the shop of the oldest tea firm in Europe, and there saw, smelt and tasted fifty different varieties of teas destined to be made up into hundreds of different blends.

"Some teas," said the expert who showed me round, "have what might be described as a ropey aroma. Others have an aroma of currants, muscatels or flowers—particularly jasmine. The treatment to which the tea is subjected after it is picked has much to do with its aroma. Orange Pekoe, for instance, is produced by drying together alternate layers of tea leaves and jasmine petals, the latter being sifted from the tea when their scent has been sufficiently absorbed."

Other unusual teas are Flowery Pekoe (dried and delicate tea flowers), Darjeeling (so light yet strong that eighty cups may be made to the pound), and Gunpowder tea (which is made from tea flowers rolled into balls, and possesses the peculiar quality of counteracting lime in water.

HAMBURG STEAK.

Hamburg steak is a tempting dish to serve as a change from ordinary fare.

Mince some steak, season with chopped thyme, parsley and a very little onion. Shape into rounds on a floured board. Fry for a few minutes in hot dripping. Dish up with fried onions and fried potato chips.

CASTLE PUDDING.

Beat two ounces each of butter and sugar to a cream. Add two ounces flour, the grated rind of a lemon and one whisked egg.

Butter some small moulds, pour in the mixture, and bake in a moderate oven for three-quarters of an hour.

Serve with custard sauce.

CHEESE SOUFFLE.

Put into a small pan one ounce each of flour and butter and quarter-pint of milk, and stir over the fire till boiling.

Take off the fire and add a large tablespoonful of grated cheese, pepper and salt, and the yolk of an egg. Fold in the stiffly-whipped whites of two eggs, fill into a soufflé dish, dust with browned bread crumbs, and cook in a quick oven for half an hour.

A DAINTY SAVOURY.

A new savoury is always welcome. This one is particularly appetising. Gently cook—but not till brown—a finely-chopped onion in two tablespoonsful of butter.

Add two tablespoonsful of sifted flour, pepper and salt to taste, and mix well.

Add slowly a cup of milk, stirring all the time. When the mixture is smooth and thick, add three sliced hard-boiled eggs. Serve the savoury on well-buttered toast.

CHEESE TOAST.

Cover rounds of buttered toast with the following mixture:—Cut up 2 ozs. of Cheddar cheese and put in a pan with 2 tablespoonfuls of cream (or evaporated tinned milk), 1 teaspoonful of mixed mustard, pepper and salt, and stir over the fire till smooth without boiling.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD.

Rub together ½ lb. of flour, 2 ozs. of ground almonds, 4 ozs. of butter, 2 ozs. of castor sugar and mix with two yolks of eggs. Roll out rather less than an inch thick and cook in a fairly hot oven.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

LONDON STOCK MARKET FEATURES.

A FACTOR IN THE PRESENT WEAKNESS.

SOME GOOD BREWERY SHARES.

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.
59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Saturday.

It is probable that the fall in certain Industrial Ordinary Shares, which has been so unpleasant a feature of Stock markets for some time past, and was more pronounced than ever just before the holiday, has been accentuated by the action of banks in calling in loans. A good deal of speculation is conducted on borrowed money. The shares bought are paid for by a bank loan, and are pledged with the bank as security. While prices are maintained there is no trouble, but if pronounced weakness develops the bank is apt to become uneasy regarding the safety of its security, and may intimate that the loan must be repaid. Usually it is impossible to do this, and the bank sells the shares. Thus the weakness of markets due to other causes is increased, and the adverse effect becomes cumulative. The position is sometimes taken advantage of by professionals to sell short, thus depressing prices still further and producing such a condition of unsettlement among real holders that the latter are tempted to sell. Obviously, such a condition of affairs cannot continue indefinitely, and when the turn comes the rebound in prices will probably be very pronounced, a circumstance that should be kept in mind by holders of good shares.

OUTLOOK FOR GILT-EDGED STOCKS.

When there seems to be some prospects of dearer money here as a result of the persistent French demand for gold, gilt-edged securities kept up very well. Now that the monetary situation is much more promising they are not likely to go back. It is believed that the French demand for gold is now over, while the strength of the sterling-dollar exchange encourages a hope that in due course we shall receive substantial amounts of the metal from America. Another point is that, owing to the lower level of interest rates in New York and in London, our payments to America in the autumn, usually very heavy then, may be largely financed on the other side, thus obviating the strain upon sterling involved in making large remittances from London to New York. It now seems likely that we shall get through the year with the present 3 per cent. Bank rate, especially as a 2½ per cent. level rules in France, Belgium, Switzerland and New York.

FOREIGN RAILWAY PREFERENCES.

Naturally, there is little disposition to buy Argentine Railway Ordinary Stocks owing to the uncertainty regarding the dividends for the year ended June 30 last, but this is no reason why investors who require a good return upon their money, with reasonable assurance of safety, should not buy the Preference issues of the leading companies. In almost every case the interest on these stocks was well covered last time by revenue, and even if there is a substantial reduction in net profits for the past year, which, of course, is to be expected, the stocks will still be fully protected. Of the leading issues, the smallest yield is given by Buenos Aires Great Southern 5 per cent. and 6 per cent. Preferences—namely, a little over 5⅞ per cent. The interest on the 5 per cent. stock requires £400,000 per annum, and on the last occasion a sum of over £3,000,000 was available for the purpose. The 6 per cent. Stock, which ranks net, requires £480,000, and after meeting the 5 per cent. charge there was £2,765,685 available last time, so that in this case the interest was covered nearly six times.

OTHER EXAMPLES.

Another well-secured issue is Buenos Aires Western 5 per cent. Preference £10 Shares. The interest only takes £15,000; yet on the last occasion there was £1,449,000 available, and as the shares are quoted at 8¾ the yield is almost 6 per cent. The 4½ per cent. Preference Shares at 7¼ return 6⅛ per cent., and in this case there was a margin of over £1,300,000 beyond the amount required for the interest.

Central Argentine 4½ per cent. Preference yields practically 6⅛ per cent. at 70, with a margin of little less than £1,000,000 available for the payment, while the 6 per cent. Convertible Preference at 97 returns 6⅛ per cent. In the latter case the dividend takes £300,000, and on the last occasion £2,600,000 was available for the purpose. The highest return on the leading Argentine Railway Preferences is obtainable from Buenos Aires and Pacific 5 per cent. Second Preference, which at 71 yields 7 per cent. Only £50,000 is needed for the interest, and the profits for 1928-29 covered that sum fully nineteen times. The margin is still larger in the case of the 5 per cent. First Preference, which at 80½ gives more than 6⅛ per cent., while the 6 per cent. Stock, also well covered, returns fully 6½ per cent.

SOUND PURCHASES.

Even allowing for the fact that Argentina is at present experiencing a bad patch, and that railway traffics may continue to be poor for some time to come, the above figures suggest that the Preference Stocks of the leading railways are among the best purchases now available in the Stock Exchange. It should be stated, however, that, as a rule, the market supply of these securities is not large, and difficulty might be encountered in effecting purchases at the prices mentioned above. Still, even if a higher figure has to be paid, a purchase should turn out well. While on this subject attention may be directed to two other South American Railway Preferences—Central Uruguay 5¼ per cent. £10 Shares and Leopoldina 5¼ per cent. Stock. The former are quoted about 8¾, thus yielding 6⅛ per cent. The annual interest requires £44,000, and last year profits covered the amount four times over. Leopoldina 5¼ per cent. Preference Stock stands at about 73½, thus returning almost 7¼ per cent. The interest takes £156,492, and on the last occasion £639,934 was available for the payment.

BREWERY SHARES.

The Ordinary Shares of industrial concerns are for the most part under a cloud, but there is a prominent exception to this in the market for Brewery Shares. In some respects that section is still one of the most promising in the Stock Exchange. Of late we have had several annual reports, showing in all cases increased profits, while in more than one instance the figures represented high record. Further, the policy of rationalisation is steadily proceeding, as witness the offer by Taylor, Walker and Co. to purchase all the Deferred Ordinary Shares of the Cannon Brewery Co., and there is no doubt that the future will see further developments of this nature. A combination of interests, always assuming that the operation is not the pretext for an enlargement of the capital to inflation point, should result in reduced production costs and other economies. Broadly speaking, Brewery Shares are not over-valued, as shown by the returns obtainable on Guinness Units and Watney Combe Deferred. There are one or two cases where the yield is quite small. On Wenlock Ord., for example, only about 4¼ per cent. net is obtainable at the current price of 4¼, but the financial position of this company is exceptionally strong. Much less than the amount earned has been paid in dividends for several years past, and the chances are that before long there will be a bonus issue of new shares, for the present dividend could be paid on a very much larger capital.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

There are possibilities in the political and money situation which render it unwise to take liberties with the speculative markets. Now that values have fallen so low, there is more scope for a recovery than for a further decline, and the slightest sign of a change in sentiment would lead to a rapid revival, because of the shortage of stock. It is quite likely that this change will come with the return of the public from their holidays (writes The Sunday Times). While it is difficult to say from what direction the necessary stimulus will come, it is not to be expected that in a time of profound peace the trade of the whole world will remain depressed for an indefinite period. That over-production of commodities should be accompanied by a lack of purchasing power on the part of potential consumers is a state of affairs which must eventually be remedied when prices have fallen to a level that is within the means of the purchasers to pay. And as the real wealth represented by commodities becomes more widely distributed, the present economic crisis will gradually give place to more prosperous conditions.

IMPERIAL CHEMICAL ANXIETY.

A sharp set-back in the £1 Ordinary and 10s. Deferred shares of Imperial Chemical Industries provided a discouraging feature in markets during the week. For several months past the shares of this company have been falling. The movement last week, however, was particularly sharp, and it is stated that it was mainly due to the selling of a fairly large line on account of American holders (says The Observer). The price of the £1 Ordinary has now fallen below 19s., while the Deferred stand around 5s. Such prices are the lowest recorded since the shares of the combine were first introduced on the London Stock Exchange in 1926. The financial year of the company ends on December 31, but an interim dividend on the Ordinary share capital is usually announced in October. About a month ago the chairman, Lord Melchett, stated that the position of the company, financially and otherwise, was extremely strong, and that he had the utmost confidence in the future of the company. This failed to stem the downward course of prices for the shares. It is recognised that the company must have been affected by world-wide trade conditions. To what extent profits have been reduced the shareholders are utterly in the dark. There is anxiety regarding the fertilisers, ammonia, and synthetic products side of the business. Some light on the situation is due to the shareholders. It may be argued, and, in fact, it is maintained in several quarters, that the drop in prices has been overdone. The market position at the moment, however, does not suggest that the time for averaging purchases has arrived. An audited statement from the board would undoubtedly clarify the situation, and that is due to shareholders.

£1,000,000,000 COMBINE.

It was learned in New York on Saturday that public utilities companies, with assets exceeding £1,000,000,000, have been brought under a common banking sponsorship as a result of the affiliation between the Chase National Bank, the world's largest banking institution, and the Harris Forbes Company. Gas and electric companies serving the greater part of North America and Canada, as well as foreign countries and the possessions of the United States, have been brought within the same sphere as a result of the agreement. The new combine is reported to be planning European transactions of major importance.

BIG U.S. SHIPPING MERGER.

The Roosevelt Steamship Company and associated interests have acquired control of the International Mercantile Marine Company, according to the New York Herald-Tribune. It is expected that the Pennsylvania Railway and the Baltimore-Ohio Railway will figure prominently in the business policy of the new company, which, it is reported, will dispose of all foreign flag tonnage as fast as possible and concentrate on the development of powerful American services. Mr. P. A. S. Franklin will remain President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, while Mr. Kermit Roosevelt, President of the Roosevelt Line, will be Vice-President of the new company.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

CREDIT IN PLENTIFUL SUPPLY.

BILL RATES WEAK.

There was an ample supply of credit in Lombard street on Saturday, and advances over the holiday were freely offered at 1½ per cent. Old loans were also renewed at this figure, and weekly fixtures went on at 2 per cent.

Bill rates were still on the easy side, although there was scarcely sufficient business to test the market. The hot Treasuries were wanted down to 2⅛ per cent., and fine three months' bank bills were not better than 2¼ per cent. The banks bought October maturities at 2⅛ per cent.

At the Bank £8,746 in bar gold was sold.

Silver declined ⅛d., to 15⅞d. per ounce for spot and to 15 13/16d. for forward delivery, owing to lack of support. Gold remained at 84s. 11½d. per ounce fine.

In the Foreign Exchange market sterling reacted a little on New York, to 4.87⅛. French francs at 123.81 and reichsmarks at 20.37½ were firm.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

CHARLES ROBERTS AND CO.—Report to March 31 shows profit, after providing for interest on Debentures and all outgoings other than depreciation and income tax, of £60,125 (against £40,743). To depreciation of wagons £30,277 (against £24,501) and of buildings and plant £9,000 (£7,000). To income tax £4,100, Preference dividend for year to December 31, 1929, £16,250. Directors do not propose to pay dividend on Ordinary Shares for period. Balance forward, £8,464 (£7,966). Directors state that, after careful and prolonged consideration, they decided in October last to enter into an agreement with Wagon Repairs, whereby the wagon repairing section of company's business, including assets comprising repairing depots and out-stations, were transferred to Wagon Repairs, who also became tenants under lease of wagon repairing shops and siding at Horbury Junction, in consideration of which company became associated member of Wagon Repairs, and received payment in cash and shares in that company. Directors are of opinion that this transaction, eliminating wasteful overlapping, is of great advantage to both companies. Owing to change of company's financial year from June 30 to March 31, assessments to income tax for 1928-29 and 1929-30 have not been agreed, but provision has been made in accounts to meet outstanding liability.

D. AND J. FOWLER.—Gross profit to March 31, including dividends on investments, etc., after deducting trading expenses and bad debts, was £31,059 (against £40,163). To directors' fees and departmental remuneration £6,500, Preference dividend £8,250, final dividend 3 per cent. on Ordinary, making 8 per cent. (against 10 per cent.); forward £20,153 (against £19,843).

ELECTRICAL DISTRIBUTION OF YORKSHIRE.—Interim report states that during half-year to June 30 there was a large addition to the number of consumers and a substantial increase in demands for electricity in comparison with first half of 1929. Increased use for heating, cooking, and domestic purposes was very marked. An interim dividend of 4½ per cent. (same) has been declared.

FOLKESTONE WATERWORKS.—The accounts for the half-year to June 30 show a profit of £9,545, compared with £9,100 for the corresponding half of 1929. Full statutory dividends are to be paid on the Ordinary and new Ordinary at 10 and 7 per cent. per annum, respectively, and after Debenture and Preference interest £485 is added to undivided profit account. Proposals are expected to be made shortly for an issue of Debenture Stock.

ILLINOIS CAR AND EQUIPMENT CO.—Final dividend for the year ending 31st December, 1929, of 10 cents per share—equivalent to 5d., subject to tax.

RYLANDS AND SONS.—The directors of Rylands and Sons (manufacturers and general warehousemen) are postponing the declaration of a dividend on the Ordinary Shares until the close of the year. This decision has been necessitated by the general depression in trade, the depreciation of values in textiles and other commodities and the temporary dislocation of business caused by the building of the new warehouse. The interim dividend for the six months to June 30, at 8 per cent. per annum, less tax, on the Preference Shares, has been declared. Interim payments on the Ordinary have been made for several years past, 4 per cent. having been distributed a year ago on the £2,000,000 Ordinary capital. This was made up to 8 per cent. after the close of the accounts, the same as for the three preceding years.

YORKSHIRE ELECTRIC POWER.—Report for half-year to June 30 states that there was a substantial increase in amount of electricity sold as compared with first half of 1929, in spite of adverse trade conditions, particularly in woollen textile industry. Mains and sub-stations have been extended to meet new demands, and contracts have been placed for the extension of Thornhill Power Station. Interim dividend of 3 per cent. (same) has been declared.

WHITE STAR LINE AND IRELAND.

QUEENSTOWN-NEW YORK SERVICE.

BRITANNIC'S FIRST CALL.

The White Star Line's splendid new motor vessel, the Britannic, which has already made her maiden trip to New York and back, has now been permanently installed on the Liverpool-Queenstown-Boston-New York service. On the occasion of her first voyage outward, calling at Queenstown, the company invited a number of prominent Irish public men, as well as agents of the company in Southern Ireland, to a trip on the vessel from Liverpool to Queenstown on Saturday last. In addition there were on board leaving the Mersey port about a thousand passengers, cabin, tourist cabin and third, and an additional two hundred were taken aboard at Queenstown, so that for the voyage to America she was only a couple of hundred short of her full capacity.

SPLENDID ACCOMMODATION.

The Britannic, which was fully described in the Irish Times on the occasion of her trial trip some weeks ago, was universally admired as she started on her journey down the Mersey in beautiful weather and under most auspicious conditions. Those on board, who were privileged to go through all parts of the vessel, were struck with the excellent accommodation afforded in the various classes, and the air of comfort which prevailed. The heads of the company are all proud of the Britannic, in which they have combined the highest achievements of naval construction with artistic finish.

The party from Dublin was in charge of Mr. George Harris, the Dublin agent of the White Star Company, who left nothing undone to secure the comfort of the visitors. There were also on board several high officials of the White Star Company from the London and Liverpool offices.

SPEECHES AT DINNER.

At a dinner given on board the ship, Mr. H. Robbins, on behalf of the chairman and directors of the company, welcomed the guests. He said they felt they had a special interest in Irish business, which extended back to the start of business by the company, and they felt that that support which had been extended to them in Ireland justified them in placing a liner like the Britannic on the Cobh-New York service. The general manager wished him to express his appreciation of the efforts of the Irish agents to keep their service of steamers before the public. The support they received from Ireland in the past had been wonderful, and they hoped that it would continue in the future.

Mr. George Harris, as representing the Irish offices of the company, joined Mr. Robbins in wishing the guests a very happy time on board. They were delighted to have with them Mr. Richard Wallace, Chairman of the Cork Harbour Board, a board which was most progressive before he joined it, but which was more progressive still since he became its chairman. They were glad to have a representative of the British and Irish Steamship Company in Mr. David Barry, of the Great Southern Railways in Mr. Floyd, without the support of which companies they could not have got the largest share of the Irish business for their steamers from Cobh and Galway. He also welcomed Dr. J. C. Foley, as representing the Irish Tourist Association; Mr. Ferris, the United States Consul-General in Dublin; Mr. L. E. Woods, the United States Consul at Queenstown. He paid a tribute to the work of the Irish agents of the company, whom he described as most loyal and assiduous in the company's interests. He hoped when the new sister ship of the Britannic was put into the service they would meet again for a similar pleasant evening.

THE COMPANY AND CORK.

Mr. Wallace, in reply, thanked the company for the invitation to him as Chairman of the Cork Harbour Board. There was a wonderful affection and cordiality between the White Star Line and Cork Harbour. He found from the records that the White Star Line and Oceanic Steamship Company was established on the 27th September, 1869, and their first trans-Atlantic steamer, the s.s. Oceanic, of 3,807 tons register, calling at Queenstown, sailed from Liverpool on the 17th March, 1871. The new steamer, Brittanic, was 27,000 tons—progress exemplified. Transport knew no limits. Transport in that ship was well engineered and directed and administered by the brains of the White Star Co. As they could observe, there was no vibration on the ship. He concluded by proposing the toast of "Success to the new ship."

Mr. Ferris, Consul-General, in supporting the toast, complimented the officers of the White Star Company on the way in which they co-operated with him in securing the smooth working of the emigration laws and in getting candidates for admission to the United States to comply with the regulations. He suggested to them that there was a class of people who were now travelling who were neither emigrants nor immigrants, and whose interests were worth considering. Larger numbers were inquiring every day about travelling to Ireland, people who were anxious to see the country. There was good material to work on. There would be a sound commercial response to good accommodation, and he was sure there was commercial capacity to supply that accommodation.

PIONEER SERVICE.

Dr. J. C. Foley said he was there on behalf of the Irish Tourist Association. He congratulated the directors and the higher command of the White Star Line in having produced that beautiful ship. It was the best evidence that could be given by the company on the subject on which Mr. Ferris had spoken. They in the Irish Free State were anxious to keep their people at home for the development of the country, but they were glad that such ships as that were available for bringing back those of their kith and kin who were now anxious to return to the old land. He understood that the White Star Line was the pioneer service from the port of Cork to the United States. That being so there was a great bond of friendship between the Irish people and the White Star Company. He was glad that that inauguration ceremony of that fine ship would give a new lease of life to that friendship.

Amongst others who spoke were Mr. A. W. Hewitt, of Hewitt's Travel Agency; Mr. D. Barry, British and Irish Steampacket Company, Mr. P. J. Flood, Great Southern Railways Company.

TROPICAL PRODUCE MARKET STEADY.

PALM OIL CHEAPER.

FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.
LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

Tropical produce has been a fairly steady market throughout the week, with chief commodities showing but little change on those last quoted. Palm oil was not so much in the limelight, but in view of the holiday such a condition of affairs was to be expected. The Northern Continent, however, has bought a fair amount of material near at hand, at prices ruling practically 10s. less than was the case a week ago. Soft oils, spot and forward, can be bought at £23, which value also obtains for the September-October position. Earlier in the week £23 15s. was made for spot material bearing the transit option. Hards and mediums are also easier, without much inquiry for either.

Palm kernels have been a steady market, though business has at times moved rather slowly. August-September material made £12 15s., with October-November position done at £13 1s. 3d. To-day sellers ask £12 15s. for the first-named, and would take £12 18s. 9d. for September-October, but buyers' ideas are within 1s. 3d. of these levels. Hamburg paid £12 15s. for near material, and shows interest at anything under. Hull Consumers have only been moderately interested, and then when values suited. Compared with a week ago, prices are 1s. 3d. to 2s. 6d. higher.

Copra has moved rather erratically, and at the close the trend of values is in favour of buyers. Sundried Straits to Rotterdam August-September made £18 and £17 18s. 9d., a decline of roughly 10s. To-day the price is £17 18s. 9d. Dutch East Indies, August position, made £17 17s. 6d., and the same material to Marseilles was quoted at 7s. 6d. less.

Ground nuts have experienced a dull week, with prices about 5s. per ton lower. Coromandel machined August-September, made £14 12s. 6d. and £14 11s. 3d., September-October £14 15s. and £14 13s. 9d., and November-December £14 5s.

Cottonseeds have shown a hardening tendency, and have gained 2s. 6d., Brazilian f.a.q. making £4 15s. per ton for forward material. Linseed has also shot forward, £15 being paid for River Plate August-September shipment, against £14 17s. 6d. Seed oils hardened 1s. to 31s. 6d. for common edible, and 33s. 6d. deodorised nett naked ex mills.

IRISH FAIRS.

CLONES (CO. MONAGHAN), July 31.—Small cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being:—Store cattle 440, fat cows and bulls 30, springers and milch cows 340, calves 70, some 20 lambs, 20 fat sheep and 450 young pigs were also offered. The cattle fair was composed chiefly of young Shorthorn stores. Average attendance of buyers and all classes of store cattle with condition and quality were in demand at about late rates and some 60 per cent. were cleared. The majority of the fat cows and bulls offered were cleared. Springers and milch cows met a ready sale at improved values. The fat sheep and lambs on offer were chiefly purchased by local victuallers. Young pigs were in steady request, and over 75 per cent. changed hands. Calves—Under 6 months, £2 2/- to £3 5/-, av. £2 5/-. Store cattle—6 to 12 months, 1st class, £8 5/- to £10, av. £9; 2nd class, £7 to £8, av. £7 5/-; 3rd class, £5 10/- to £6 10/-, av. £6; 1 to 2 years, 1st class, £12 5/- to £13 10/-, av. £12 10/- (live weight average, 40/- per cwt.); 2nd class, £11 to £12, av. £11 10/- (live weight av. 38/-); 3rd class, £8 to £9 5/-, av. £9 (live weight av. 37/-); 2 to 3 years, 1st class, £14 10/- to £16, av. £16 (live weight av. 41/-); 2nd class, £12 to £14, av. £12 10/- (live weight av. 40/-); 3rd class, £10 15/- to £11 15/-, av. £11 5/- (live weight av. 38/-). Fat cattle—Cows and bulls, 2nd class, £13 to £18, av. £14 (live weight av. 33/-). Springers (cows and heifers)—1st class, £19 to £22, av. £20; 2nd class, £17 to £19, av. £18; 3rd class, £13 to £14 10/-, av. £14. Milch cows (down calved)—1st class, £18 to £20, av. £19; 2nd class, £15 to £17, av. £16; 3rd class, £12 10/- to £13 10/-, av. £13. Lambs (under 12 months)—Long wools, 30/- to 42/-, av. 35/-. Fat sheep—1 to 2 years, long wools, 48/- to 65/-, av. 56/-. Young pigs, under 12 weeks, 42/- to 65/-, av. 45/-.

MULLINGAR.—The pig fair on Friday was small; anything shown was bought up quickly at somewhat advanced prices. Bacon pigs averaged 75/- to 80/- per cwt. (d.w.); bonhams 30/- to 40/- each. Cattle—This being the principal beef and lamb fair, the show in the store department was very small. There was a good attendance of buyers, and nearly all cattle were sold. Considering the great depression of trade in England, and the fact that the greater portion of these cattle are exported to England and Scotland, the cattle disposed of made fair prices. The profits, however, would be smaller than last year owing to the dearness of cattle during the springtime, the price in spring being at least £2 per head dearer than the previous year. There was a big show of lambs, but trade seemed to be quiet. Anything of good quality, either for stores, shipping or killing met with good demand. There was a very good look-out for good heifer springers, and these were bought up quickly. Quotations:—Forward three-year-old heifers and bullocks averaged from £18 to £22 each; two-year-olds, £15 to £17; year and a half olds, £9 to £12; hoggets, £3 to £3 7/6 each; ewes, 50/- to 60/- each; fat lambs, 40/- to 50/- each. Store lambs of bigger range from 34/- to 50/- each; springers from £20 to £25 each; beef 40/- to 45/- per cwt. (live weight); mutton, 9d. to 11d. per lb.

THE COSSACKS AT DALYMOUNT PARK TO-NIGHT.

The name Cossack suggests wild, untameable spirits. The splendid abandon with which the Cossacks perform their feats of reckless horsemanship at Dalymount Park give us a good idea of how well the Cossacks deserve their name. Some particularly thrilling items on the programme include the Cossack charge, with the Cossacks standing on their horses. The little, the broad and the great pyramids, the inverted pyramid, the Elusive Scarf, Saltmortale, with sabre between teenth; the frantic Djighitovka, and the fiery furnace—what more appropriate finish to a day at the Show will be an evening at Dalymount Park?

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

Norwich—Store Cattle dear. Doncaster—Firm. Carlisle—Large show Irish Stores of good quality at slightly reduced prices.

CATTLE.

DONCASTER.—Some good three-year-old Irish bullocks on offer, which made £22, stirks £14 to £17 10/-. Right show English yearlings, £14; two-year-olds £16 to £18. NORWICH.—A larger supply of beef was brought forward, and with business the same as last week about 55/- per cwt. live weight was realised for best sorts. A small show of store cattle were dear, making from £8 to £17 a head. Business was not quite so good for mutton, which was in larger supply at 1/- to 1/2 per lb. Lambs were in shorter supply at 1/4 to 1/5 per lb. Fat pigs were a small market, with a very fair demand for cutting pigs and Londoners from 12/6 to 13/- per stone, and bacon pigs from 10/- to 11/- per stone. The bullocks were of particularly fine quality, many of them only requiring one month's finishing. Buyers were few, and business was slow at slightly reduced prices. MISCELLANEOUS.

LEICESTER WOOL.—This being the week prior to the holidays, there has been practically no business in hosiery, and none at all in raw materials.

HIDES AND LEATHER.
(SPECIAL REPORT.)

Under good competition values of hides at the Bermondsey auction were steady to slightly dearer. First clear, ox were unchanged, with seconds unchanged to ¼d. higher. First clear 70-79 and 90lb. up sold at 7½d. First cows were unchanged to ¼d. lower, with 60lb. up done at 4¾d. First warbled ox were unchanged to ¼ higher, with 90lb. up sold at 6½d., whilst seconds were unchanged to ¼d. higher. First warbled cows were unchanged in both firsts and seconds, and bulls also repeated previous figures. Calf was often dearer, the gains ranging up to ½d. for firsts in light and heavy, which sold at 10d. and 7½d. respectively. Foreign hides were in poor request, as sellers' ideas were much above those of buyers. Dry first Capes sold at 7½d. and Mombasas at 6½d. Conditions in the market for sole leather were very quiet and the small business transacted was at about recent rates. Bellies were in quiet demand at steady prices, whilst shoulders of stout character sold steadily at full rates. The demand for upper leathers was restricted, and apart from a limited trade in willow calf, brown glace and reptiles, very little was done. Suedes were neglected.

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW.

BUSINESS ON A QUIET SCALE.

(FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

With the near approach of August Bank Holiday, business in most departments of the provision trade has quietened down somewhat, buyers having covered their requirements over the holiday period. With the exception of butter, a rather strong feeling is reported in most departments, and at the weekly meeting of the Bacon Committee it was decided to advance the price of Irish by 5s., Danish and Swedish 2s. to 3s., but no alteration was recorded in Dutch. According to reports from Denmark a better tone prevails generally, with buyers showing a disposition to operate more freely. It is expected that consumption of bacon will materially increase at the prices now ruling. The Danish official quotation for butter has been wired three kroner lower and "top" now stands at 254 kroner per 100 kilos; at the corresponding period of last year the figure was 286 kroner; and in 1928, 305 kroner. In some quarters it was thought the recent advance of ten kroner was somewhat drastic and tended to check the demand. Considering the heavy stocks of Colonial butter still held in England, the market has developed itself much better than might have been expected, but Danish is now rather dear in comparision with other descriptions. The cooler weather is favourable to the trade, and, with steadily decreasing production, supplies clear readily and forward prospects are regarded as satisfactory. Eggs continue firm, with a good demand for all selections. Spot prices have advanced, but are still lower than at the corresponding period of last year. According to official returns, the total export of cattle (including calves) from Ireland to Great Britain in the first six months of the current year amounted to 431,000, an increase of nearly 34,000 or 8½ per cent. compared with the corresponding period of 1929 and over 84,000 or 24 per cent. in excess of the five years average. The rate of export has, in fact, been the heaviest recorded since 1924. Exports of cows suitable for dairy purposes have been 23,760 to date, which, although little different from the 22,455 recorded in the opening half of last year, is some 8,500 in excess of the average. Springers sent across from Ireland have numbered 6,723 this year, or rather fewer than in the corresponding period of 1929. Imports of sheep and lambs have been smaller than in the six months ended June, 1929. In spite of the variation in exports from year to year, it is noticeable that lambs have tended to form an increasing proportion of the total exports. There has been a recovery in the rate of exports of pigs from Ireland, and the total this year has been, with one exception, the heaviest recorded in the period covered by the table. The increase, compared with the first half of last year, exceeds 21,000, or 17 per cent., while, owing to the small exports in 1925 and 1926, the current year's total exceeds the average by nearly 60 per cent. The pigs sent from Ireland are almost entirely fat, exports of stores in the periods under consideration averaging about 3,000.

At Salford Cattle market on Tuesday Irish fat cattle were offered in rather larger numbers, but there was some falling off in arrivals of dairy cows and lambs. Fat cattle met a slow trade at easier prices, but lambs ruled firm and more difficult to buy. At the Manchester Pig market supplies were by no means heavy, but, with demand on steady consumptive lines, prices for anything useful ruled steady and occasionally favouring sellers. A quiet, but steady, trade has been experienced at the Manchester Dead Meat market throughout the week. Home-killed descriptions have generally showed little change, but imported was occasionally dearer.

A moderate inquiry is reported for dead poultry at about unchanged rates. Salmon quiet, but firm, large fish being quoted at 2s., medium 2s. 4d., and grilse 1s. 10d. per lb., wholesale.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

In most departments of the overseas dead meat trade there was a falling off in the imports during the past week compared with those of the previous seven days.

Seven vessels were engaged in the trade—the same number as last week—and the names of the steamers, with particulars of their freights, are as follows:—

La Rosarina, from Buenos Aires, with 18,592 mutton and lamb carcases, 1,185 cwts. and cases of pork products and carcases of pork, 1,887 boxes and cases of meat and sides of veal, and 37,498 fores and hinds of fresh beef; the Minnedosa, from Montreal, with 1,598 boxes of meat; the Samaria, from New York, with 36 boxes of pork; the Andania, from Montreal, with 485 boxes of meat; the Albertic, from Montreal, with 62 boxes of meat; the Elstree Grange, from San Julian, with 84,168 mutton and lamb carcases and 627 boxes of meat, and the Duchess of Richmond, from Montreal, with 1,491 boxes of meat.

The total arrivals amounted to 102,760 mutton and lamb carcases, 1,221 cases of meat and sides of veal, and 37,498 fores and hinds of fresh meat. Compared with the figures for the preceding week the numbers showed decreases of 117,904 mutton and lamb carcases, 1,204 boxes and cases of meat and sides of veal, 613 fores and hinds of fresh beef, and an increase of 186 cases of pork products and carcases of pork.

SUDDEN DARKNESS DURING A STORM.

CREW "TOO BUSY TO BE FRIGHTENED."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT
MONTREAL, Sunday.

An interesting feature of the celebration following the arrival of the R 100 at St. Hubert's Aerodrome has been the reunion of a member of the crew, Mr. F. Williams, a rigger, with his two sisters and his niece, who came from Toronto and eagerly awaited the arrival of the dirigible.

Mr. Williams's eleven-year-old niece was particularly excited and proud at the hazardous and stirring part that her uncle had played with the other members of the crew in effecting the necessary temporary repairs to the damaged stabilising fin while the giant dirigible rode out a terrific gale over the St. Lawrence River.

MOMENTS OF PERIL.

While the members of the crew are reticent, and treat the part that they played with characteristic British lightness, it is becoming increasingly clear that the storms through which the dirigible passed were very severe, and that the crew showed coolness, courage and resourcefulness.

"I thought my last hour had come," declared one man who was on important duty at the moment of greatest peril. "Suddenly it went dark—there were no lights—and I just hung on in the darkness. I felt her slipping, and then she started to climb up 3,000 feet in less than a minute. I was too busy to have time to be frightened."

THE WORK OF REPAIR.

Wing-Commander R. B. B. Colmore announces that the repairs to the R 100 should be completed by Wednesday night. Workmen belonging to the Vickers' plant in Montreal worked all Friday night to complete the patch to cover the rent. The announcement concerning the proposed flight in the Dominion will be made on Monday.

Newspaper correspondents congregated here have telegraphed almost a million words on the historic feat of the R 100 to their papers throughout the world.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The Air Ministry in London has received the following message from the R 100:—

"All materials have been delivered, and the work of installing it on the fin is proceeding satisfactorily.

"The ship is refuelling and taking gas on board. It is hoped that repairs will be completed by Wednesday night.

"An announcement about the programme will be made on Monday."

AIRSHIP AS LETTER-CARRIER.

MR. MACDONALD'S BELIEF.

Letters from Mr. Macdonald, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Lord Thomson and the Lord Mayor of London were carried to Canada by R 100.

The letter from Mr. Ramsay Macdonald to the Canadian Prime Minister read:—

"MY DEAR PRIME MINISTER,—I take the opportunity of the maiden voyage of the R 100 to Canada to send you and your colleagues my very best wishes, and to express the hope that this flight will be the forerunner of a regular airship service which will draw even closer the bonds which link our two countries together.

"There is no more urgent need to-day, with the growing importance of our political and commercial relations, than that for improved and accelerated communications between the different members of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Already the air is doing much to break down the barriers of time and distance, and we have watched with interest the remarkable development of civil aviation in Canada during the past few years.

"It is my confident hope and belief that what has been already achieved in the air in the past decade is as nothing to the potentialities now opening before us."

LARGER AIRSHIPS COMING.

Lord Thomson's letter, which was also addressed to the Prime Minister of Canada, stated:—

"MY DEAR PRIME MINISTER,—I take the opportunity presented by R 100's first visit to Canada to send to you and, through you, to the Canadian Government and people, a message of most cordial good-will. With characteristic energy and vision Canada has already put herself in the van of aeronautical progress, but I venture to express the opinion that not the least significant of her contributions to the development of Empire air communications has been the erection of a mooring mast near Montreal at a time when airships were still in the experimental stage.

"The arrival of R 100 at that mast is an event which will go far to justify your confidence in British engineering skill and enterprise. Like her sister ship R 101, R 100 is not the last word in airships. Larger and swifter vessels of this type will be constructed in the future if the experimental programme—one of whose most important features is this flight to Montreal—fulfils our expectations. Then all your great cities will regard a mooring mast as indispensable to their equipment, and leviathans of the air will cross the Atlantic as punctually and safely as ocean liners.

A NEW FIELD OF INDUSTRY.

"This prospect must appeal to the most callous imagination. It offers a new field for industry and employment, an outlet and a vehicle for that spirit of adventure which made our race predominant on the seas, and only needs encouragement to secure a like advantage in the air. Above all, it will establish closer contact between two great peoples whose destinies, if united are assured.

"In conclusion, may I, through you, thank Canada for her co-operation in a great experiment, so fraught with precious possibilities for the British Commonwealth of Nations?"

MR. THOMAS'S MESSAGE.

Letters from Mr. Macdonald, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Lord Thomson and the Lord Mayor of London were carried to Canada by the R 100.

Mr. Thomas, writing from the Dominions Office to the Acting High Commissioner in Canada, stated:—"I cannot let the great opportunity afforded by the voyage of the new airship to Canada go by without taking advantage of it to send a personal message to you as representative in Canada of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom.

"I hope that this will be the first of many successful airship voyages, and will be looked back upon as the beginning of a development of much significance to the British Commonwealth of Nations and to the United Kingdom in particular.

"Each improvement in the means of communication provides an additional link between the parts of the Empire concerned. Each increased facility should in its turn help to assist the flow of trade. Therefore, I specially welcome the achievement in this country, as well as the cordial assistance of His Majesty's Government in Canada, which have made this voyage possible. It seems to me to be of happy augury that the voyage should take place on the eve of our approaching discussions at the Imperial Conference on our mutual economic problems and interests."

LORD MAYOR'S GREETING.

The message from the Lord Mayor of London (Sir William Waterlow) to the Mayor of Montreal was as follows: "It gives me great pleasure to send by the R 100 the hearty greetings of the City of London to Your Worship and your fellow-citizens. We are glad to know that Montreal has been selected for the first airship base in Canada, and the hope is everywhere entertained over here that your historical city will become an important link in the chain of imperial air routes.

"I am pleased and interested in knowing that the Montreal base is being established as a civil aerodrome for both aeroplanes and airships, and that the Canadian Government are erecting a suitable mooring tower. All these facts indicate that the name and fame of your great city will be further permeated by these activities of the future."

THE LAMBETH CONFERENCE.

CANADIAN ELECTIONS.

ANOTHER CONSERVATIVE RETURNED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
OTTAWA, Sunday.

The constituency of Yamaska, Quebec, the last riding to remain in the doubtful column on the ballot recount in the recent general election, has returned a Conservative member, with a margin of only one vote. In spite of the small majority, the addition of a new Conservative member in the Province of Quebec further stresses the remarkable change in the Federal political complexion of that province. The Conservatives have 139 members in the new Parliament, Liberals 86, other parties 20.

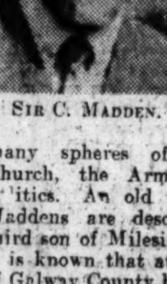
Floating Gardens.

Two or three years ago some Europeans who were enjoying a house-boat holiday on the Dal Lake in Kashmir were surprised to find, after a stormy night, a large piece of land floating on the water just outside. This was one of the raft gardens so common in that district, and it was claimed very soon by an excited owner, who towed it away behind his small boat. Kashmir peasants who do not own any land have hit upon the happy plan of dragging up some of the fertile mud from the bed of the lake, by means of special long-handled tongs. This soil is mixed with twigs and dried in large lumps. When the maker of the garden has enough of these lumps he binds them together with reeds, thus making a raft that floats upon the surface of the lake, and is tied to a boat or to stakes driven into the lake-bed. In this garden he then sows his vegetable seeds, melons, cucumbers, tomatoes, and other plants. They all flourish there; for the necessary moisture is drawn from the lake below, and no laborious watering has to be done. Similar raft gardens are seen on a Mexican lake, and, perhaps, we may look forward to the time when would-be market gardeners in Ireland, lacking a suitable place for their labours, will establish floating vegetable patches on the waters of some of our numerous lakes.

The King's "Double."

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Charles E. Madden, Bart., who has been placed on the Naval Retired List, is an Ulsterman who bears a remarkable resemblance to King George. Once, at Scapa Flow, when the King was expected to be present, the guard turned out in error on the appearance of Sir Charles, and played the National Anthem.



SIR C. MADDEN.

Sir Charles Madden is a member of the family of Madden, of Hilton, an old county family of Monaghan, who came to Ireland from Oxfordshire before the Plantation of Ulster, and became prominent in many spheres of life, including the Church, the Army, the Navy and in politics. An old writer claims that the Maddens are descended from Heremon, third son of Milesius, King of Spain, and it is known that at one time a large part of Galway County belonged to them.

Sir Charles is the son of the late Captain J. W. Madden, an officer in the King's Own Regiment, and he joined the Navy in 1875. He secured rapid promotion, and before the European War he held the command of the Second and Third Squadrons of the Home Fleet. On the outbreak of the war he was appointed Chief of Staff to Lord Jellicoe, his brother-in-law, and in 1917 became Second in Command. He was mentioned repeatedly in despatches, and received many honours, including a baronetcy, and a parliamentary grant of £10,000.

Johnsonese.

The style of English writing invented by Dr. Samuel Johnson, and imitated by many others, did not, fortunately, last long enough to have a serious effect on the language. It was ousted by the direct and forcible prose of Hazlitt, which still remains a model of expression; but anyone who struggles through the diaries and correspondence of the late eighteenth century cannot fail to observe the Johnsonian influence, and it is said that for some time it became the fashion to talk as the learned doctor wrote—in polysyllables. There is a good story told how Henry Erskine (1746-1817), the famous wit and orator, dealt with a legal gentleman who had acquired this habit. Erskine happened to notice that the verbose lawyer had a bandage round his ankle. "What is the matter?" he inquired. "Have you hurt yourself?" "Oh," said the lawyer, "I was taking a romantic ramble in my brother's grounds, when I came to a gate which I was obliged to surmount, and, in doing so, the epidermis of my left ankle unfortunately came into contact with the uppermost transverse bar, and, consequently, I am suffering from an excoriation of the skin, accompanied by a slight extravasation of blood." "You may thank your lucky stars," retorted Erskine, "that your brother's gate was not as lofty as your style, or you might have broken your neck."

Money in Dirt.

People who travel on the Great Northern Railway from Amiens street Station often notice numbers of men and women searching on the rubbish dump at Fairview. These searchers make a living of sorts by collecting scrap of every description. Old rags, discarded pots and pans, bits of rusty iron, rubber tyres, jam-pots, bottles and many other things are collected, and sold to the scrap merchant for a few pence. One type of collector makes a speciality of cinders and small coal that fetch a small price in the poorest quarters of the city. Often, by the time a load of rubbish has been gathered by the various "specialists," very little of it remains on the dump. It amuses me to think that the Dublin Corporation goes to the trouble and expense of carting the rubbish from the city to Fairview, only to find that the "gleaners" very soon carry nearly all of it back again to the place whence it came. If most of the rubbish has a value as scrap, why does not the Corporation dispose of that scrap at a price that would help to pay for the cost of collection?

A Curious Incident.

A strange happening befell a friend of mine one day whilst walking down the Dublin quays, whither he had gone to purchase fishing tackle. At a narrow juncture where the line runs close to the footpath a tram passed him; he walked on noticing nothing unusual, until suddenly an exclamation halted him, and at the same time a man walking behind roughly snatched at his side pocket. Looking downwards, to his amazement he beheld leaping flames of fire coming from his pocket, and the man who had befriended him desperately at work to stifle them. An almost unbelievable thing had occurred. Just at the moment when the tram passed a passenger from the top deck carelessly threw down a lighted match which landed neatly in the pocket of my friend, setting it instantly alight. Had such a shot been taken deliberately, it would probably have gone wide of the mark. Fortunately, the Good Samaritan was successful in his endeavours to put out the flames, although he burnt his own hands in doing so.

Mum.

Most people know that large quantities of foreign wines were consumed in Dublin particularly during the eighteenth century, but few are aware that another foreign liquor—Brunswick Mum—was a favourite drink in the Irish metropolis two hundred years ago. Advertisements of this beverage are frequent in the old Dublin newspapers, one of the oldest being that which occurs in the Dublin Gazette (1708), and runs as follows:—"Right Brunswick Mum newly imported, is to be sold at Tom's Coffee House in Castle street, at 9s. the dozen without doors, and 10s. within." Mum was a kind of ale brewed from wheat in the Duchy of Brunswick, and largely imported into Ireland. During the brewing the tops of fir and beach, betony, majoram, pennyroyal, etc., were put into it. Pepys seems to have liked it. In his diary under the date, May 3, 1664, he records: "I went with Mr. Norbury near hand to the Fleece, a mum-house in Leadenhall and there drank mum; and by-and-by broke up, it being about 11 o'clock at night." The poet Phillips in "Cyder" has the line—

Sedulous and stout with bowls of fattening mum.

Left-handed Lobsters.

Anyone who cares to examine a lobster closely will find that both claws are not the same. One, like a powerful pincers, has two or three big teeth, and is used for crushing an enemy or food. The other possesses a regular line of fine teeth like a comb, and with it the lobster picks its prey to pieces, and conveys the food to its mouth. When lobsters are kept in an aquarium it is most amusing to watch one of them feeding. With the crushing claw it holds the piece of food, and in quite a dainty way it tears off morsels which it first looks at and then swings over to its mouth.

As a general rule the crushing claw is that on the left side, but in many lobsters the claws are reversed, while a very few may have two of either kind, instead of one of each. If, during a fight, one of the claws becomes damaged, the lobster promptly snaps the wounded member off at the shoulder, and a new one grows in a short time. If both claws are lost at the same time, the new ones sometimes grow with their positions reversed; that is to say, a right-handed lobster becomes left-handed.

Bishop Taylor and the Ghosts.

From a couple of connected stories told still about him in Lisburn, it seems that to his intellectual power Bishop Taylor added an honesty and simplicity that have won him an immortality among men who would not read his books. An orphan boy was left in the tutelage of one Francis Taverner, and his property for some reason was escheated to the manor. Taverner, a man in grinding poverty, determined to bid for its restoration. He approached the bishop with appeals for exorcism. He had been led a lamentable dance the past three months by the ghost of the boy's mother; an emaciation due to poor circumstances buttressed his account of sleepless nights spent thus harried over field and through copse. The bishop questioned; the details of the boy's plight emerged; and the good bishop exercised his power of exorcism by winning from the Earl of Conway the return of the escheat and becoming a second father to the orphan. At this the bishop's neat-herd thought a ghost might serve his turn; for he was mightily poorly housed. He came forward with a dismal tale of being hag-ridden by the ghost of his aged mother. Taylor was sympathetic to the point of watching with this David Hunter for the spirit to appear. It did not, but the bishop, impressed by the poverty of his cabin, obtained for him a better residence.

Lord Aberdeen.

Lord Aberdeen, who celebrated his eighty-third anniversary yesterday, had the distinction of twice filling the office of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, although on the first occasion, in 1886, it was only for a period of a few months. It was during that first brief term that an experience befell him which is rare in viceregal annals. Because of troubled times, the guard protecting the Viceroy had been increased, and patrolled with loaded arms, with orders to shoot practically on sight if suspicious. The Earl of Meath, taking a stroll one evening before dinner on the garden terrace of the Lodge, was attracted by a slight noise in the bushes, then someone called his name softly. Approaching the bushes, not without suspicion, he recognised the voice of the Viceroy, who, going out unattended, and having forgotten the password, pleaded: "Please speak to me, Meath. I'm afraid the sentry may not recognise me." So in a voice loud enough for the sentry to hear, Lord Meath called to Lord Aberdeen, and invited him to enter his own official residence.

LORD ABERDEEN.

Wexford Malt.

The Wexford malting season has now opened (writes a correspondent), and consignments are being forwarded to Dublin. Most of the malt is sent by the sea route. The vessels engaged in this traffic are old-time sailing ships and modern steel schooners equipped with auxiliary motor engines. The first cargo of the season was carried by the "Wild Wave," a picturesque old schooner, which has been at sea for close on sixty years. The skipper of this smart sailing ship spent the last few months preparing his vessel for the malt trade. The masts were scraped, oiled and varnished; the decks were tarred, and the deck-house and the bulwarks were painted white. When this spruce little craft set out for Dublin with every inch of canvas set she reminded the grizzled old seadogs on the quays of the spacious days of sail when Wexford Harbour was filled with the fleetest schooners in the Three Kingdoms.

Bigger Breakfasts.

Advocacy of bigger breakfasts might be backed by the assertion that a hearty early morning meal makes for health and longevity. That this is so was the conclusion arrived at, after expert investigation, by a big life assurance company in South Africa, which staked so much faith in its truth as to issue a popular brochure for the benefit of the miners of the Rand. Chief among the tips on good health put forward by the company was:—"Stick to the good old English breakfast. Coffee and roll business may be all right for some, but the man with a hard day's work ahead of him is a lot better for a ballast of ham and eggs inside his belt-line."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

CLOTHES AND THE MAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I am sure that in these days of settling down after the war many of your readers will be wondering what is the correct dress for the first day of the Horse Show. As the Governor-General of the Free State will be there, with top hat and black morning coat, surely I ought to wear the same? I saw many coming from the garden party at the Viceregal Lodge last week. Some men wore top hats, others low ones—only fancy the uncomfortable mixed feelings. Perhaps, you will allow me and others to find out what will be the correct thing by kindly printing this letter.—Yours, etc., "PUZZLED."

AUSTRALIAN STOCK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your issue of Thursday appears a paragraph on "An Australian Stock," in which are included these words:—"There is an element of speculation in buying such securities." As one who has a fairly good knowledge of Australian finance, I wish to contradict this statement. There is no "element of speculation" in the purchase of any Australian Stock, whether such was issued by the Commonwealth or by one of the States. Australia's financial position is sound. There is plenty of money in Australia, in evidence of which I would merely refer to a paragraph in the same issue of your paper, which reports that the Commonwealth Loan of £10,000,000 was over-subscribed by no less than two and a quarter millions. On top of that I would draw attention to the fact that Australia has this year converted nearly £100,000,000 of internal loans maturing in 1930.

Australia has lately come into the limelight because of the difficulties in exchange—difficulties which have been entirely due to lack of credits in London. To correct that position imports had to be discouraged, and steps in this direction have been taken. With every prospect of a bountiful season, the volume of primary products for export should be greater than for any one of the last three years, and the exchange position will gradually be corrected. There is nothing wrong with Australia.—Yours, etc.,

J. A. HENDERSON

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND APPEALS.

ARDARA TWEEDS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I bring to the notice of your many readers how much they could help a very poor, but industrious, people if they would give orders for Ardara tweeds for autumn suits and dresses? The people of Ardara have been weavers for generations, and make most excellent material, but now-a-days tweeds of other countries are supposed to be more fashionable, and the weavers are suffering from this mistaken idea. Here, in London, various firms, to whom these tweeds have been shown, have expressed their approval and are making them known—notably La Chasse, of 9 Farm street, where their clever young Irish designer has produced the smartest of coats and skirts, which have been ordered by numerous clients.

Surely, in Ireland, we should be the first to support our own industries and not leave it to London to make them fashionable. Mr. Neil McNelis, Ardara, Co. Donegal, would send patterns to any inquirer, and samples can also be seen at the stall of the Irish Cottage Industries at the Horse Show.—Yours, etc., GERALDINE MAYO.

DUCHESS OF YORK'S BIRTHDAY.

QUIET CELEBRATION IN HIGHLAND HOME.

In the tiny grey stone cottages of the little Highland village of Glamis there will be great rejoicing to-day when the Duchess of York celebrates her 30th birthday with her parents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, at historic Glamis Castle.

Pictures of the Duchess hang in places of honour in nearly every cottage, and the villagers, who speak of her affectionately as "Oor ain young leddy," are always glad when she spends her birthday among them.

"For the last three years the Duchess has been here for her birthday," one aged villager told a reporter yesterday. "We don't fly flags here as they do in London, but, none the less, we feel as warmly for her as any of the great folk down there."

At the castle there will be no special celebrations to mark the event. The Duchess will spend the day very quietly with the Duke and their little daughter, Princess Elizabeth. Only the Earl and Countess of Strathmore and the Hon. David Bowes-Lyon, the Duchess's brother, and his wife will be with them.

Telegrams and messages of congratulation began to arrive yesterday at the little post office, and thousands more will come to-day. Special greetings to the Duchess will come from several thousand farmers who are coming into the neighbouring town of Forfar for a cattle fair to be held there to-day.

LEOPARDSTOWN CLUB RACES.

OPENING OF HORSE SHOW FESTIVITIES.

The Leopardstown Club meeting on Saturday afternoon last served as a prelude to the many attractions which will be offered to the sporting public during the Horse Show week. It was very unfortunate that the cessation of the downpour of rain came so late in the day, as it prevented many visitors from enjoying the picturesque surroundings and excellent programme arranged for the first August meeting. Everyone came armed with a waterproof and umbrella, but, happily, these were soon discarded when the sun burst through the heavy clouds and made the course and gardens an attractive foreground for the beauty of the distant hills. The majority of women visitors wore coats and skirts carried out in somewhat dark colourings for the time of year; felt hats to tone with these costumes were almost universal, while some of the new models of tight-fitting turban hats were much admired. It is hoped that the weather will prove more propitious during the coming week, when the display of advanced autumn fashions will be eagerly looked forward to at the various festivities.

Among those noticed in the members' enclosure were:—The Viscountess Powerscourt, Lady Weldon, Sir Anthony Weldon, Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, Lady Grace, the Hon. Mrs. Dunne, the American Minister Plenipotentiary, General and Mrs. Waldron, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maher, Miss O. Plunket, Dr. and Mrs. Chaworth Nolan, Captain G. A. Boyd-Rochfort, V.C.; Mrs. D. GOOD NEWS FOR CORK UNEMPLOYED.

Corporation Housing Scheme : Cork Harbour Development : The Next Step : Waterford Scheme to provide Work : The Irish Dairy Industry.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)
CORK, Sunday.

The statement made by Mr. E. L. Clarke, manager of Ford's factory in Cork, on the occasion of a recent visit to the works by the Lord Mayor, that full work in the factory was expected to be resumed towards the end of September, has been gladly received by employés who were displaced some months ago. Mr. Clarke pointed out that many orders for tractors had been received. Not only the unemployed workmen, but business people who have suffered through the stoppage, look forward to the full resumption of work with feelings of relief.

During the visit of the Lord Mayor to the factory some matters of considerable importance to inhabitants of Cork were discussed. One was the housing problem. Mr. Clarke spoke of the acute nature of the problem, and gave the Lord Mayor one or two illustrations to strengthen his argument that something should be done to provide good housing accommodation. Four employés of the firm, he said, living together and occupying one room, were forced to pay 35s. a week apiece for board and lodgings. Men could not give of their best in labour if they had to live in such circumstances.

The Lord Mayor (Councillor F. J. Daly) replied stating that the Corporation had a scheme for the erection of over 150 houses, and were, in fact, ready to go on building houses so far as the financial position of the Corporation would permit. He was altogether sympathetic towards the appeal for more houses.

CORK HARBOUR SCHEME.

Further action by the Cork Harbour Board concerning the scheme for the development of the harbour proposed by the Ireland Corporation of America has been deferred till the next meeting, when a notice of motion by Mr. B. M. Egan, T.D., to appoint a committee to examine the scheme and its possibilities will be discussed. Some members of the Harbour Board have taken up a certain attitude towards the project, and it may be that the proposal contained in Mr. Egan's notice may not be approved, thus following the course adopted by the Board three months ago, when it refused to appoint a committee to consider the original scheme. Since then the scheme has been amended. The members of the Board, however, may be trusted to take a decision which will be in the best interests of the port.

PROPOSED WATERFORD FACTORY.

The business people of Waterford have tackled the subject of unemployment in their city, and it is to be hoped that some good may arise from the exchange of views that has taken place. Waterford, once a place of much prosperity, has within recent times received hard knocks. Committees are now working together in an effort to have some industries started. One proposal is to have a shirt factory and laundry established. Other towns in the South of Ireland might take a lead from Waterford, and set about preserving the few local industries left, not forgetting to grasp the opportunity to start new ones whenever possible. It is by the friendly co-operation of men who know local conditions best that unemployment can be reduced.

DANGERS OF MILK INFECTION.

Dr. J. Saunders, Cork City medical officer of health, in his annual report, draws attention to the absence of typhoid fever, and adds that during the half-year just completed there has not been a single case of this disease reported, and "I believe that this is the first time in the history of the city that such a record can be pointed to." This satisfactory condition of affairs is attributable, he considers, to the exceptional standard of purity which has been maintained in the water supply and to the supervision which has been exercised over the milk supply.

In this connection, he asks milk vendors to fulfil their obligations to their customers to take every precaution, particularly at this time of the year, to keep dust out of milk and to ensure that none but thoroughly sterilised utensils are used. The general health of the city is good.

HELPING THE DAIRY TRADE.

Members of the British Institute of Grocers, who are on a visit to Ireland to study methods of dairy working here, have expressed themselves pleased with what they have seen. When they visited Bruree Creamery Mr. Beeching, the leader of the party, said that they would do all that they could to help forward the dairy trade of Ireland. They were delighted with all that they had seen at the various centres visited in Southern Ireland and were convinced that the work done at Bruree should appeal to every consumer of butter. They were happy to see at Bruree a record of two championship exhibits in succession which, he said, showed a capacity for hard work, attention to business and determination to succeed.

THE POULTRY INDUSTRY.

The representatives of seventeen nations sat with Mr. P. Hogan, Free State Minister for Agriculture, at a luncheon given at the Munster Institute, Cork, on Saturday in honour of the delegates to the World's Poultry Congress, who are on a short visit to Ireland to see for themselves the methods by which the poultry industry here is carried on. It was the first time that a gathering so cosmopolitan had assembled in Cork, and Cork people are proud of having the opportunity of receiving them.

The best practical illustration of what is being done in the Free State for the poultry trade was given to the delegates when they were shown over the institute premises. There officials in the Department of Agriculture give a sound training to girl students in all branches of the industry, and through these students are illustrating to the people generally the valuable asset which the country possesses in this branch of farming.

STAGE AND SCREEN IN DUBLIN.

THIS WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS.

For Horse Show week the management of the Abbey Theatre have arranged an interesting programme. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings J. M. Synge's "Playboy of the Western World" and Lady Gregory's "Rising of the Moon" will be presented, and on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday Brinsley McNamara's three-act comedy, "Look at the Hefferanans!" will be staged. The performance will commence each evening at 8 o'clock, and the matinée on Saturday will be at 2.30.

"Dear Love," which is described as London's best musical comedy, will be the attraction at the Gaiety Theatre. The principals are Jack Williams and Eileen Moody.

Two plays will be presented at the Gate Theatre. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday Michael McLiammoir's "Diarmuid and Grainne" will be the attraction, and William Pratt's "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" will be staged on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

"Home Again" is the title of a new revue to be presented at the Olympia Theatre by Jimmy O'Dea and Harry O'Donovan. The revue had a successful English tour. The principal rôles are played by Jimmy O'Dea, Connie Ryan, Charles C. O'Reilly, Tom Dunne, J. C. Browner; and others in the cast are Lionel Day, Noel Purcell, Eileen Marmion, Molly Douglas, Aileen and Irene Hayes, Margaret Dempsey, and the Odee Girls.

At the Theatre Royal the big attraction is the talking picture, "Swing High," a drama of circus life, telling of the trials endured by members of travelling companies in 1875. The cast includes Chester Conklin, Ben Turpin, Dorothy Burgess, Bryant Washburn, George Fawcett, Helen Twelvetrees, Daphne Pollard, Fred Scott, John Sheehan and Mickey Bennett.

"No, No, Nanette," a talkie film version of the famous musical comedy, is the principal item at the Savoy. In addition there is a comedy featuring Laurel and Hardy, the popular comedy stars, while Martinelli, the famous tenor, appears in scenes from "Carmen."

John McCormack has the leading part in "Song o' My Heart," the big picture at the Metropole this week. The film, which has an all-Irish cast, will be supported by comedy, topical and interest films.

Harold Lloyd is to be seen in "Welcome Danger" at the Capitol. This is Lloyd's first talkie and is said to be his greatest comedy.

Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock" is retained at the Grafton this week.

Belle Bennett is to be seen in "Courage" at the Corinthian.

"The Love Doctor," starring Richard Dix, heads the bill at the Pavilion, Kingstown.

PAUL HENRY'S PAINTINGS.

IRISH LANDSCAPES ON EXHIBITION.

An interesting collection of the recent work of Paul Henry, about a dozen in number, is now on exhibition in the galleries of Messrs. Combridge and Co., Grafton street, Dublin. The subjects are of the genre for which Mr. Henry has achieved distinction in his art. Almost all the pictures are representations of various landscapes in the West of Ireland, scenes which Mr Henry may be said to have made his own. "Early Dawn in Donegal" is a canvas showing a misty morning. "Scenes in Achill" is such a charming work that it has been selected to be the frontispiece of Mr. Stephen Gwynn's latest book, "Ireland." A very beautiful picture is that which is named "Bog Cotton," showing a village in Achill with the blue mountains in the distance. Another attractive piece is "Cottages on the Lake," also showing lofty mountains in strikingly natural form and colour. "Pool on the Bog" is a picture which will be greatly admired. Another real gem of art is "Achill Cottages," a scene very typical of Mr. Henry, showing thatched cottages with their low whitewashed walls, with the hills at their back and the blue sea in front.

OBITUARY.

MR. W. H. M. SINCLAIR.

The death has occurred of Mr. W. H. M. Sinclair, D.L., Holyhill, Strabane. A member of one of the oldest Northern families, he was educated at Marlborough and Brasenose, Oxford, was called to the Bar, and afterwards joined the Consular Service. After travelling all over the world he retired in 1923, settling down at his family residence, Holyhill. He was a former High Sheriff of County Tyrone.

"MARY ROSE."

BARRIE PLAY AT THE ABBEY THEATRE.

When Sir James Barrie desires to give a fairy play to the theatre he makes no special effort to make it seem "real," but, then, his fairy plays seem to be more dependent upon mechanics than the supernatural. In "Mary Rose" Sir James was at his boldest, over-riding the limitations of time and space with a daring that would make an Einstein stand aghast. The past and the present are one, and the audience must accept the possibilities of life in which the spirit has escaped the physical entanglements.

The play has moments of poignant beauty, in which the mother's love for her son is revealed and beautified by a sentimental psychologist. There is no Freudian complexity about this ten-year-old play, which insinuates its meaning rather than affects the lightning-stroke. The supernaturalism of the island scene is effective enough, but who could believe in that last scene? It is possible to accept Mary's departure to the land of fairy without argument, but it certainly is not possible to accept the scene in which she meets her Australian soldier-son.

"The island that likes to be visited" may be found by all who desire to find it, and, having found it, Mary Rose's life may be credible. The tricks of memory, the mystery of growing old, the eternal boyhood of men: out of such material is Sir James Barrie's most attractive play made; and the material is so frail that the resulting fabric may be very easily broken.

Last night's production, by Madame Kirkwood-Hackett, at the Abbey Theatre gave every satisfaction to a packed house. "House full" notices were displayed before the curtain went up, and prolonged applause at the end signified approval.

Despite that popular approval, however, the production and acting were far from perfect. The gramophone should be banished as a barbarous intrusion, and Norman O'Neill's theme song used in the eerie scenes. Otherwise the staging is excellent in every respect.

The acting was very uneven, ranging from exceedingly good to very, very bad. In the name part Miss Eithne Mahon achieved a very fine performance. Starting with an advantage in physique, a sympathetic voice and a quiet manner, Miss Mahon built up a Mary Rose that came near perfection. Unfortunately, she received little support from her immediate partners. Simon Blake, as played by Mr. Lal Cranfield, was rarely credible, and the Cameron of Mr. Robert Willis was wholly incredible. Of the parson, George Amy, Mr. Val Vousden made excellent short studies, and Miss Dorothy Casey's Mrs. Morland did justice to that sympathetic soul. James Morland did not have quite justice from Mr. John Goodsir, and Mr. J. A. Hands's Australian soldier was not his best work. As the caretaker, Miss Madeline Ross would have been better without a Scotch accent.

"Mary Rose" will be repeated next Sunday evening at 8.15.

ITALIAN EARTHQUAKE

REPORT OF MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ROME, Sunday.

The Minister of Public Works reports that 3,439 workmen are engaged on the work of reconstruction and demolition in the area visited by the earthquake. Every day witnesses growing confidence among the inhabitants. Work in the fields has been resumed, and gradually the less badly damaged houses are all being re-occupied.

NOTED SWIMMER.

MISS GLEITZE TO MARRY A DUBLIN MAN.

Miss Mercedes Gleitze, the noted swimmer, is to marry Mr. Carey, a young Dublin man, in St. Paul's Church, Dover, on August 8th. The honeymoon is to be spent on the Hellespont, which Miss Gleitze will try to swim. Mr. Carey saw Miss Gleitze for the first time in Tara Street Baths, Dublin, where she was completing a 28-hour endurance test. He became greatly interested, and travelled to Stafford, Liverpool, and Barry, where Miss Gleitze figured in long-distance tests. Mr. Carey proposed to her at Barrow, and was accepted. She intends to continue her swimming activities after marriage, but Mr. Carey is to supervise her affairs.

SWIMMING.

MISS DOCKRELL HOLDS TITLE.

NARROW WIN FROM MISS M. BYRNE.

DIVING SUCCESSES FOR ULSTER.

The heavy rainfall of the early afternoon on Saturday had its effect on the attendance at Blackrock Baths; but there was a large company present, and, the rain holding off, the gala organised by the Leinster Branch I.A.S.A. and the Blackrock Urban District Council was a great success in every respect.

The Ireland-England water polo match, dealt with elsewhere, was, of course, the principal attraction. There were, however, several other items of importance, notably the two Irish ladies' championships, in swimming and diving. Miss Dockrell retained her title in the former, over 220 yards, but was given her hardest battle in an Irish championship by Miss Morgan-Byrne, who, having led till almost the finish, was only beaten by a touch. Miss Dockrell was at her best in her last length, in which she steadily overhauled Miss Morgan-Byrne; but it is doubtful if she would have been able to secure the verdict had not the course conditions necessitated a "turn" to finish on a rope little over a yard out. Miss Dockrell took the turn very smartly, indeed, a fact to which she owed her victory.

There was the usual excellent entry for the Irish ladies' diving championship, including six from the North of Ireland, five of whom were from Bangor, a club that has a splendid record in this competition. The standard of the Northern representatives was very good, and all three places deservedly went to Ulster.

A feature of the gala was the exhibition of swimming given by Mr. H. F. Case, which included swimming backward on the breast stroke, imitation of a torpedo, rolling on the surface, smoking under water, etc. The exhibition concluded with an excellent life-saving display, in which Mr. Case was assisted by Mr. H. McEvoy, and which was loudly applauded.

An enjoyable musical programme was supplied by means of the General Electric Company, Ltd., public entertainment equipment. Mrs. J. Beckett presented the prizes.

ENGLISH TEAM LEAVES FOR CANADA.

The English swimmers and oarsmen who are to represent England in the Empire Games at Ontario left Southampton on Saturday. Mr. H. T. Bretton, manager of the swimmers, said: "We have a full team and have high hopes of winning." Two of the girls in the party, Miss Wolstenholme and Miss Hinton, who hail from Manchester, are only fifteen years of age. Fourteen oarsmen were in a party under the charge of Mr. G. Drinkwater.

YACHTING.

WICKLOW REGATTA TO-DAY.

Who can say what Wicklow's luck will be to-day. Everything depends upon the weather, for otherwise there is a varied programme of sailing, rowing and swimming events provided. Since Saturday yachts have been leaving Kingstown and Howth for Wicklow, and there must be quite a good gathering of craft in harbour by this morning. Hence it is that everything turns upon the question of the weather, and yachtsmen, at any rate, have not yet lost hope of an improvement.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

The odds against racing being practicable were quite heavy on Saturday morning, there being little or no wind in the bay, but, on the other hand, far too much rain, it coming out of the south-west, and showing no signs of ceasing. However, the day began to pick up soon after noon (old time), and the later afternoon really was quite delightful.

But the morning told its tale in the thin starts, and in the races which fell through. There were no cruiser events, and the No. 1 Seapoint class did not put in an appearance. The only class, in fact, which was up to strength was that of the 21 footers, who sailed, for choice, in the D.B.S.C. handicap.

21 FOOTERS. H'CAP. FOR CLUB PRIZE (start 3.10 p.m.). It was hard luck upon Oola to be caught napping at the gun, but she was half-way through the line at the start, and was recalled. Maureen, Garavoge and Innisfallen were just safe, and then came Geraldine. Garavoge, with the windward berth, took the lead almost at once, and at the Bar buoy Geraldine was level with her. The wind was tricky here, and when going to Bullock, Geraldine got all the best of it. She drew out a fine lead, and from that on the race was hers. Innisfallen was second to her at Bullock, and at the end of the round Garavoge being third and Maureen next. On the final round (the distance to Bullock) Geraldine walked away from the others. Garavoge took second from Innisfallen on the beat into harbour just before the finish. Finish:—

Geraldine (winner) — Mr. W. McDowell	scr.	5	18	47
Garavoge—Mr. L. Gower	1 m.	5	23	1
Innisfallen—Dr. J. T. Wigham	3 m.	5	24	13
Maureen (2nd club)—Mr. G. F. Rae	4 m.	5	24	54
Oola—Mr. F. E. Bermingham	4 m.	5	26	33

17-FOOTERS: HANDICAP FOR CLUB PRIZE (start 3.15 p.m.). There were only three of them, and Bobolink and Pauline were level at the line, the latter holding the windward berth. They followed the 21-Footers out to the Bar Buoy, and there, or thereabouts, also Bobolink got the better breeze, or it gave her a fine lead. Finish:—

	H'cap.	H.	M.	S.
Bobolink (winner) —Mr. A. McMullen	4 m.	4	56	39
Pauline—Dr. H. J. Wright	scr.	4	59	25
Delginis—Capt. O'Brien-Twohig	6 m.	5	7	29

WATER WAGS: HANDICAP FOR CLUB PRIZES (start 3.25 p.m.). Kittiwake was a distance from the line when the gun went; the others were crowding up to it, and both Phyllis and Barbara were over too soon and were recalled. Coquette actually got the start, being followed by Blue Bird, Pansy, Barbara, Phyllis, and lastly Kittiwake. Coquette was still leading at the close of the first round, and when going out of harbour with Pansy and Phyllis next. On the run to Bullock the two last-named went ahead of the other. They indulged in some luffing, and during this Pansy touched Phyllis, and so her chance disappeared. Phyllis led the others home. Kittiwake had dropped out long before, and the four now left in were uncommonly near each other at the finish, which was timed—

	H'cap.	H.	M.	S.
Phyllis—Mr. G. A. Newsom	scr.	4	40	53
Coquette (3rd club)—Mr. G. H. Jones	3 m.	4	41	1

SEAPOINT BOAT CLUB.

MATCH FOR DINGHIES (start 3.40 p.m.). Recalls were the order of the day; for Redshank was brought back at the start, and thereby lost considerably. Kittiwake, Ibis and Seamew having a long lead from her. The race appeared to be a duel for first place between Kittiwake and Seamew, and at the beginning, at any rate, protracted a luffing match between the pair commenced. At the finish Kittiwake was still ahead. Redshank at the close flew a protest against the alteration without warning of the position of Seapoint Mark. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Kittiwake (winner)—Mr. A. McGoogan	4	52	42
Seamew (2nd prize)—Mr. W. B. Conyngham	4	53	31
Ibis—Mr. E. G. Peake	4	54	47
Redshank—Mr. W. Synnott-Glenn	4	59	26

HOWTH SAILING CLUB.

17-FOOTERS: HANDICAP FOR CLUB PRIZES (start 3.35 p.m.). The wind at Howth was light out of the westward, and at the start Mimosa led Leila, Zaida, Anita and Rita away on a reach to the Island Mark. Here Leila was leading, and they fetched the North Mark now in a long and short leg without much change in order, and ran back again, to reach next down to Baiscadden Mark. Leila was still in front, but Mimosa now overhauled her and led for the remainder of the race. The final round saw the yachts keeping close to each other. Anita and Rita going very well, indeed, the former winning easily on the handicap. Finish:—

WATER POLO.

ENGLAND BEAT IRELAND.

PURCELL'S ABSENCE A BIG LOSS.

VISITORS' FIRST HALF SUPREMACY.

ENGLAND .... 6 IRELAND 3

Irish hopes of an initial victory over England at water polo were lowered at Blackrock Baths on Saturday, when it was announced that Mr. Noel Purcell, who had been induced to emerge from his voluntarily imposed retirement, would be unable to play. The famous Dublin player had, unfortunately, contracted slight lumbago the previous day, and his enforced withdrawal was a serious setback. Another change was announced in the Irish defence in that W. Steele was unable to take his place in goal.

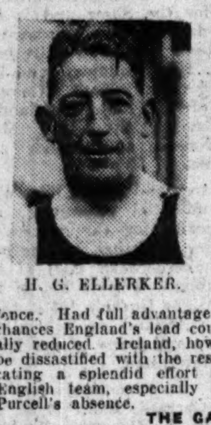
Jack Hatfield, Middlesbrough, having, it was stated, gone to Montreal for the Empire Games, was unable to turn out on the English team, but G. Borders, of the Sale S.C., Manchester, a new cap, was a capable substitute.

England won by 6 goals to 3, and for general team work and incisive attacking powers, perhaps, were worth that difference. Had Purcell been able to take his place in the Irish defence, however, the margin, if there were any, would hardly have been more than a goal.

As had been expected, the game swung on the ability of the English backs to swim down in possession and force one or other of the Irish backs to leave a man unmarked in order to tackle. England developed most of her attacks through this medium, Beaman and Hodgson being the principal executants of the manœuvre. Hodgson, especially, was prominent, and was, perhaps, the cleverest player on view.

AN EASY GOAL.

The first half was England's, who scored four goals to Ireland's one, with the advantage of the wind; but Ireland should not have been so much down at half-time, the first goal being given away by one of the Irish backs failing to cover Donoghue after Hodgson had hit the cross-bar. Moreover, Ellerker had sent the ball through, but the short whistle went as the ball was being passed to him, and no goal counted, which was hard luck on Ireland. Ireland stayed the better in the second half, in which the scoring was level. The passing, however, of the backs was none too accurate, whereas that of England was always menacing to the Irish defence. Had full advantage been taken of the Irish chances England's lead could have been substantially reduced. Ireland, however, had no reason to be dissatisfied with the result, the final score indicating a splendid effort against the formidable English team, especially having regard to Noel Purcell's absence.



H. G. ELLERKER.

THE GAME.

The first English goal came directly from a swim through by Hodgson, who hit the cross-bar with a hard shot, the ball rebounding to Donoghue, who was unmarked, and scored. The English captain, J. Budd, whose stature—he is 6 feet 8 inches in height and weighs over 16st.—rendered him a hard proposition to dispossess of the ball, scored the second. The best Irish movement of the game produced a score, the ball going smartly from O'Connor to Judd, from the latter to Ellerker, and from Ellerker to McClure, who beat Ablett all the way. Borders, however, profited from an opening made by Hodgson to score England's third, and Beaman converted a penalty for the fourth.

Ireland made several storming attacks on the English goal in the second half, and for a time were definitely on top, during which period Dockrell reduced the lead. Donoghue, however, was given a chance by a swim through of Beaman, and put on England's fifth. O'Connor sent a beautiful pass practically from his goal area up to Ellerker in the English area, and the Pembroke man scored coolly. A corner to Ireland was badly placed, and in an English attack Borders added the sixth. The game was fought out strenuously, but in excellent spirit.

MOTOR YACHT CLUB OF IRELAND.

THE CLONTARF CUP.

Notwithstanding the heavy rain, five boats turned out at Clontarf on Saturday for the first race of the series for the Clontarf Cup and for a club prize, the distance being six miles. However, misfortune was the order of the day, and only one boat (Mr. Cyril McCormack's Crafty) finished. Mr. A. S. Delany's Hold Everything got water on board and in the engine. Ouida broke a central wire just before the start. Three Points went round the course in splendid style during a trial spin, but just after the start shipped water over the engine and sparking plug. Mr. R. W. McGill's Whirlwind went well for a time, and then became choked up with too much oil in the petrol, leaving Crafty (Mr. Cyril McCormack) and Benibus (Mr. E. B. Aston) the sole survivors. Crafty was slow for the first few rounds, and then improved, doing five rounds—2 mins. 47 secs., 2 mins. 30 secs., 2 mins. 38 secs., 2 mins. 37 and 2 mins. 52 secs. A visit to the pits for more petrol seemed to have extinguished his chances, as Benibus had commenced with a round of 2 mins. 48 secs., and then 2 mins. 26 secs. (the best round of the day), 2 mins. 29 secs., 2 mins. 30 secs., 2 mins. 38 secs., 2 mins. 37 secs., 2 mins. 34 secs., and 2 mins. 37 secs., followed by 3 mins. 13 secs., during which round there was obviously something wrong, and in the next round she stopped near the eastern mark, leaving Crafty an easy winner of the special club prize and five full points towards the Clontarf Cup.

The published programme has had to be altered, and at present the fixtures of the club stand as follows:—

Reddy Cup race, postponed from 2nd August to a date not yet fixed.

16th August—Joint club races at Warrenpoint, on Carlingford Lough, promoted by the M.Y.C.I. and the Belfast Motor Boat and Sailing Club, for handsome prizes presented by Warrenpoint and by S. T. Robinson, Rear Commodore of the M.Y.C.I., including a team race for three boats.

18th August—Second and third of the series of races for the Clontarf Cup.

13th August or 6th September—The 50 miles utility class boat race at Dublin.

11th September—Motor Yacht Club of Ireland Regatta, at Athlone, on Lough Ree, River Shannon. Five challenge cups will be competed for. There will be a dinner and dance in the evening.

Competitors are requested to note the changes, as individual notice cannot be sent to each member. They should fill up and send in their entry forms.

Mr. George C. Lepper's Laragh got the winning gun in a close finish, being only five seconds in advance of Quoile. Details—Laragh (George C. Lepper), winner; Quoile (J. WESTWARD'S EASY WIN.

The regatta of the Royal Southampton Yacht Club took place on Saturday in a hard breeze from about south-west. The large yachts raced over the usual Solent course, starting and finishing off Cowes. The big class had a fine race, which, owing to the direction of the breeze, was practically a reach all round the course. This suited the schooner Westward, and she led the fleet round to score an easy win. Britannia was, however, in good form, and took second prize. Only five of the large yachts raced in the principal event, which was open to yachts exceeding 21 metres. Westward and Lulworth were scratch, and allowed the Royal cutter Britannia 1 min. 20 secs., Candida 5 mins. 40 secs., and Cambria 6 mins. 20 secs. Lulworth retired just east of Cowes, and Cambria followed suit off Egypt Point. The three remaining competitors were reached down to the Solent Bank and back to the line. Westward led throughout the final round, winning by a good margin. Finishing times:—

	H.	M.	S.
Westward (winner)	2	33	28
Britannia (2nd prize)	2	35	21
Candida (3rd prize)	2	36	24

CROSS-CHANNEL RACE.

Mrs. A. M. and Mrs. J. T. Hunt's Spica, the scratch boat in the cross-Channel race, was first to arrive home at Cowes on Saturday, at 3.50 p.m. The race, which started from Cowes on Friday at 11.30 a.m., was round the Royal Sovereign lightship, thence to Havre, and back, a distance of 238 miles.

ATHLETICS.

ENGLAND AGAIN BEATEN.

FRANCE GAINS HER THIRD VICTORY.

LORD BURGHLEY WINS THE HURDLES.

France's third victory over England, and her second in succession, was scored at Stamford Bridge, London, on Saturday, the margin in favour of the visiting side being 65 against 55. G. Bailey; while the Weight Putting, which has been won by France since the institution of the match, was again won by J. Noel. J. W. The German Athletic Championship meeting, which opened to-day, and continues over to-morrow, thus loses some of its glamour, as owing to his suspension Dr. Peltzer is unable to take part.

GAELIC GAMES.

DUBLIN BEAT LEIX IN THE HURLING FINAL.

DUBLIN .... 4-7 LEIX 2-2

At Kilkenny the crowd was hardly as large as would be expected, and the hurling was below the standard associated with first-class teams.

Leix were awarded a free, P. Kelly sending wide from forty yards. Dublin got up from the centre by Gill, and Hegarty put wide. Kelly, in Leix goal, saved from Hegarty and Burke. Leix pressed hard, and Lalor hit the upright with a fast shot. Both sides had a series of wides before Hegarty put over the opening point for Dublin after twelve minutes, and Matty Power, taking a neat centre from Gill, flashed over the bar for a grand point. A free to Leix was sent wide by Lalor, but a second free gave Cashin a chance to notch a point. Gill, on a Dublin free, dropped the ball in front of the posts. Burke putting into the net. Power crossed for Hegarty to send over another point, Dublin leading by 1-3 to 1 point at the interval.

Early in the second half Cashin notched a point for Leix, but Quinlan replied with one for Dublin, and Power flashed over another. Leeson and Quinlan worked in, and the former sent over a further Dublin minor. O'Meara came up-field, and placing for Hegarty, the latter shot into the net for an easy goal. Leix broke away, and Lalor put through a great goal. Leix were now playing in surprising fashion, and Warner added a further goal, leaving his side only 4 points behind. Gill put over the bar for Dublin, and Power, getting away on his own, put into the net. Griffin finished up with a major, Leix being outclassed at the finish.

IRISH NATIONAL FORESTERS' CUP FINAL.

SEAN DOYLES, 2-1; BRIAN BORU, 2-1.

At Bray yesterday the final of the Irish National Foresters' Cup between Sean Doyles (Templeogue) and Brian Boru (Clontarf) was decided, after a right good game, the teams finishing level. Both teams played good football, though at times they made errors, especially in finishing. Brian Borus were the first to score, when Murphy shot a goal. Sean Doyles had a point (Byrne) and a goal (Hughes), this leaving them with a point lead at the interval. O'Leary evened matters shortly after resuming, and when Fitzsimons gave Brian Borus the lead with a goal, which on the run of the play was deserved, the Sean Doyle supporters were anxious. However, near the end Goulding finished a determined onslaught by again levelling the score.

SEAN DOYLES v. HARPS, RATHMINES.

The second game, between Sean Doyles and Harps, Rathmines, was not played, as the latter failed to field a team, and the referee awarded the points to Sean Doyles.

CAVAN ABSENT.

DISAPPOINTMENT AT NEWCASTLE.

Owing to Cavan failing to fulfil their engagement to meet County Down in the All-Ireland National League match at Newcastle yesterday—the decision being communicated by wire yesterday morning—the McKelvey Club, Belfast, responded to the request of the County Down G.A.A. by sending a representative team, which provided an interesting match. In the first half the visitors played a fine game, but failed to score, while Down registered a goal and 1 point. In the second half Down predominated, although the Belfast men put up a good defence. Result—Down, 2 goals 7 points; McKelvey Club, 1 goal 3 points.

Much disappointment was occasioned by Cavan's failure to travel, and the matter will be brought before an early meeting of the Central Association.

KEEN GAME IN LEINSTER MINOR FINAL.

At Kilkenny, the Minor final produced a high standard of hurling. Leix, who excelled at ground work, soon had a point from Flynn, and the same player put through a goal. Shortall (Kilkenny) replied with two goals in quick succession for the lead. Shortall was again on the mark with a neat point, Maher putting Kilkenny in front with a goal. Kelly and Holland had a goal and a point in turn, Kilkenny holding a point lead at the interval. A free to Leix after resuming gave Holland a chance to equalise. A wide followed, Kelly, with a clever point, putting them in front. The Leix goalkeeper brought off two clever saves, but Kilkenny continued to press, and Barry and Maher each got a goal. Flynn, following a free, reduced the lead, but further scores from Ayres and Brennan left Kilkenny champions. Result:—Kilkenny, 6-3; Leix, 3-5.

COLLINS (CORK) DEFEAT BEARA.

A football match between Collins Barracks, Cork, and Beara was played yesterday at Bantry for the County Championship. After twenty minutes Collins opened with a point, Beara following immediately with a point. Collins then scored a goal, and before half time Collins were lucky in scoring another point.

On resuming Beara pressed Collins goal repeatedly, but failed to score. Collins had the better of the play, and secured another goal and 2 points. Beara pressed near the end, but failed to score, and Collins won by 2 goals 4 points to one point.

Three counties were engaged in the matches. Sligo minor football team defeated Leitrim by 8 goals 4 points to 1 goal 1 point; Sligo hurlers defeated Roscommon by 3 goals 3 points to 5 points. In the replay of the junior football match, following a drawn game at Boyle recently, Roscommon won from Sligo by 3 goals 3 points to 2 goals 4 points.

JUNIOR HURLING LEAGUE.

FIANNA EIREANN.

The eighteenth Ard Feis of Fianna Eireann was held at 41 Parnell square, Dublin, yesterday.

Delegates attended from Dublin, Cork, Belfast, Limerick, Wexford, Kerry, Cavan, Roscommon, Leitrim, Sligo, London, Liverpool, Bristol, Dundalk, and other districts.

The Chairman welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Central Executive, and, in his address, pointed out that notwithstanding all the obstacles that Fianna Eireann had to contend with the organisation was in a much healthier position to-day than for some years, which was clearly seen by the representation at the Ard Feis.

The departmental reports were adopted and the election of officers took place.

Another of the three thousand pigeons from the North of Ireland, which were liberated at Nantes, in France, on July 10, has just reached home at CARRICKFERGUS, having taken three weeks to accomplish the journey. Only about a dozen of the birds have succeeded in overcoming the head winds and storms which they encountered, and the loss to Northern fanciers runs into several thousand pounds.

LAWN TENNIS.

THE RUSHBROOKE FINALS.

MANY CLOSE MATCHES.

The finals in the Rushbrooke Club's Tournament were played off on Saturday in fair weather. In the match between Dr. Frank Crosbie, ex-Irish and Wimbledon player, and H. F. Cronin, Cronin, by his brilliant play throughout the week and his previous defeats of Dr. E. J. Mockler and M. Temple, was slight favourite. In the first set the Wimbledon player's superior court craft stood him in good stead, and he won at 6-4. Cronin then settled down to wear his opponent out, and won the next two sets. Will Crosbie making a final effort a ding-dong struggle was then witnessed. Each won their service game, and were level at four games all, but Youth gradually asserted itself, and Cronin ran out a winner.

Two young players of great promise were opponents in the final of the Rushbrooke Cup Competition, the local player, Miss Mary French, being opposed to Miss V. Mahoney, of Dublin. Miss French won the first set, following a great struggle, but Miss Mahoney, having taken the first game of the second set, experienced very hard luck. In taking a strong return from Miss French she slipped, and in endeavouring to save herself injured her hand. She pluckily continued to play, but failed to win another game, Miss French taking the set and match at 6-1. A great struggle resulted in the meeting of Major C. A. Jackson, partnered by Miss M. H. Haughton, and Dr. E. J. Mockler and Miss M. French in the Mixed Doubles for the County Cork Championship. The former pair played brilliantly, never allowing their opponents to settle down, and won in three straight sets.

Miss M. French and Miss M. Morrogh won their doubles match against Mrs. D. B. Sullivan and Mrs. F. Crosbie in somewhat easy fashion, taking the first set without losing a game. Their opponents made a great rally in the final set, but the younger pair, combining well, won the set and match at 7-5. One of the best games of the tournament was witnessed between Major C. A. Jackson, partnered by Dr. E. J. Mockler, and A. F. Toogood and S. F. Scroope in the men's open doubles. The former pair won the first set with the loss of only one game. Their opponents then rallied to take the next, and were leading 3-0 in the third and final set. Jackson and Mockler then pulled up level at four games all, and twice were within an ace of winning the match. With the score at seven games all, Toogood lost his service game, and Jackson then served to make the winning stroke on the final score 7-5. H. F. Cronin has played brilliantly, both at Blackrock and Rushbrooke, and he should be a strong candidate for a place on the team to represent the Free State at Scarborough a few weeks hence.

Mrs. Rushbrooke, assisted by Colonel D. H. Rushbrooke, D.S.O., distributed the prizes to the winners. The arrangements were admirably carried out by the Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. F. Cronin, and Mr. F. Ross. Details:—

Men's Singles (County Cork Championship), Final)—H. F. Cronin beat Dr. F. Crosbie, 6-2, 6-3, 8-6.

CO. WICKLOW AND S.E. COUNTIES CHAMPIONSHIPS.

This tournament, at Bray, the entries for which close at 10 a.m. on Thursday, August 7th, promises to be as popular as ever and as representative of the best Irish talent. Play will start on Saturday, August 9th. Messrs. M'Guire, Allman Smith, Mack, Ryan and Dr. Tottenham are among those who have signified their intention of competing, as have also the Misses H. and P. Wallis, M. French, Pearson, Mrs. Blair White and Mrs. Tottenham. An extra court being available this year, the committee is staging a new event—to wit, a women's doubles championship of County Wicklow, for which Lady Meath has kindly presented cups. Godfree, the captain and manager of the party, was unable to travel, but will follow in a few days' time.

Perry told a Press Association reporter that he was looking forward to the Championships. "We hope to do well, but even if we fail to secure a title the experience will be of great value." Lee and Perry will also visit the Argentine and play in tournaments. Miss Betty Nuthall and her brother, "Jimmy," left their home in Surrey and went by road to Southampton, where they boarded the Mauretania. This is Miss Nuthall's second visit to the States.

Miss Nuthall said that she would partner Miss Helen Jacobs in the ladies' doubles and G. M. Lott in the mixed doubles. "Jimmy" Nuthall will play with E. R. Avory in the men's doubles.

BRITISH CADETS IN FRANCE.

REVIEW AT DEPOT OF FRENCH ENGINEER REGIMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ARRAS, Sunday.

The 500 British school cadets who are making a tour of the battlefields, took part to-day in a review of the French garrison at the depot of the Third Regiment of Engineers. After Mass in the chapel, which was attended by the cadets, all the troops took up their position in front of the War Memorial of the Third Regiment of Engineers, here they were reviewed by the French Colonel Herbillon. The officers then went up to the Memorial; and Lord Leigh, on behalf of the cadets, laid a wreath of Flanders Poppies. The review was concluded by a march past of the troops and cadets, with bands playing and colours flying. A company of military cyclists took part.

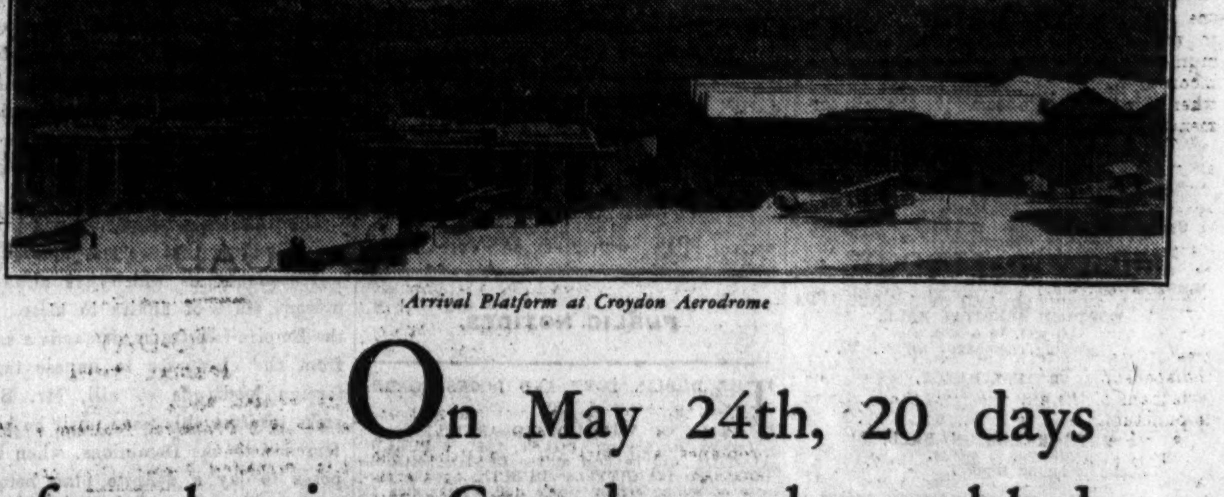
. . . Miss Amy Johnson lands at Croydon!



Arrival Platform at Croydon Aerodrome

On May 24th, 20 days after leaving Croydon, she cabled from Australia . . .

"AM DELIGHTED with WAKEFIELD ORGANISATION"

To-day, Miss Johnson returns to England—triumphant. Just three months ago she set off on her hazardous flight—unknown and unheralded. How was this young woman to overcome the perils of desert, ocean and storm? That which she attempted had never been done before by a woman, and her chances of success seemed at least remote. Yet the House of Wakefield had confidence even before the start. Her success came to us not as a surprise, but rather as a piece of pleasant news. Our confidence in her courage and skill was rewarded; only six days after the commencement of the flight, she cabled: "INDIA IN SIX DAYS ALL WELL." A simple message but one that had a wealth of meaning. The solo record to India had been broken—by a girl!

Then, a few days later, came the joyous news. Miss Johnson had landed at Port Darwin. "AM DELIGHTED WITH WAKEFIELD ORGANISATION AND CASTROL XXL GAVE MAGNIFICENT AND FAULTLESS LUBRICATION," she cabled. Our confidence had been amply justified.

* * *

And to-day, we extend to her our warmest congratulations on her safe return.

The Conservative Party.

Last Saturday, at Worcester, Mr. Stanley Baldwin defended the official attitude of the Conservative Party towards Empire free trade. If his speech lacked that spirit of aggressive determination which the country's troubles and Lord Beaverbrook's enthusiasm alike demand, at least he showed the real dangers of a split in the party's ranks. His chief anxiety was lest the new campaign should work havoc in the southern constituencies, which hitherto have been his chief prop and support. No doubt, this fear may be justified. The home counties and the towns of the south coast are inhabited largely by the rentier class, to which the slogan of the Empire crusade is especially attractive on sentimental, as well as concrete, grounds. "If you go running after false gods . . ." said Mr. Baldwin, "you will get what is the last thing you want, and that is another term of a Socialist Government." With this statement it is impossible to disagree. We do not admit, indeed, that the gods are wholly false. On the contrary, their budding worship already has weaned thousands of electors from the outworn, and usually misunderstood, dogmas of Cobdenism. Nevertheless, there can be no doubt that any measure of imperial trade development, however modified, is infinitely preferable to a continuance of Mr. Snowden's pedantry and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald's Micawber-like dreaming. Moreover, the theatrical cleavage is wholly unnecessary. The immediate need is to ensure that the Conservative Party, the only party that can make Empire free trade a reality, shall be returned to power at the earliest moment. Merely tactical matters can wait.

The differences between the two policies are so trifling that we may marvel at the unreasonableness which has allowed the present state of affairs to arise. While the Empire free trader demands a sanction from the electorate to impose taxes on foreign foodstuffs at will, Mr. Baldwin seeks to defer this issue until he has conferred with the Dominions, when he proposes to lay a definite plan before the country. The end, therefore, and, to a large extent the means, are the same. Perhaps, Mr. Baldwin has allowed himself to be depressed unduly by the rather unyielding demeanour of the Australian and Canadian Premiers. We are inclined to think that Canada and Australia, properly approached with reciprocal offers, will consent in spite of their protestations. To-day, the doctrine of protection is rooted so firmly in these Dominions that Mr. Scullin and Mr. Bennett scarcely could have spoken otherwise. Great Britain must lead the way; indeed, to lead is her duty as well as her privilege. Mr. Baldwin, however, is right when he is careful that measure should be accorded for measure. A cabinet composed solely of members of the Empire crusade might be tempted to sacrifice a great deal more than it received. For this reason the Imperial Economic Conference, which a Conservative Government would set up, would be an excellent safeguard.

In the meanwhile the day is approaching when the ordinary elector, confused by much superfluous argument of this sort, will be required to make a decision. This decision ought not to be so difficult as those in authority are trying to make it appear. The Conservative Party has undertaken to safeguard home markets at once, to arrange with the Dominions—where food taxes are involved—a concrete agreement for acceptance by the country, and to devote its attention to the whole agricultural problem. On this last point we could wish that Mr. Baldwin had been more explicit. Generally, however, a comprehensive policy has been outlined beside which the Imports Board of the Socialists is a paltry affair. It is not likely, after the recent by-elections, that many people will squander their votes on Liberal candidates; but the Empire free traders, if they take the field on a large scale, will offer an attractive lure to those who feel that desperate troubles need desperate remedies. Nevertheless, it is certain that such candidates cannot be sent to Westminster in sufficient force to take office. The Conservative Party throughout the country has little to fear if it heeds its leader's words and maintains a united front.

A Crowded Week.

To-morrow the clicking of the Royal Dublin Society's turnstiles will mark the full tide of the Free State's tourist season, and for four days Dublin will hold the attention of the social world. The Horse Show, to all appearances, will surpass its predecessors alike in interest and in attendance. A "record" number of picked horses will occupy the stalls and paddocks at Ballsbridge, and buyers from all countries will be present to lend colour to the Show's prime function. The military jumping competitions—always the centre of non-professional interest—have attracted teams from six nations; twelve Hunts have entered for the Inter-Hunt Competition; and the various side-shows, industrial and horticultural, are unusually elaborate. Crowded hotels, whose testimony is supported by the cross-Channel shipping companies, bear witness that the Horse Show will not fail for lack of visitors. Dublin has made every effort to ensure that her guests' sojourn will be pleasant. Into this week the city contrives to pack nearly as many social functions as the rest of her year contains. Ballrooms, theatres and picture-houses will vie with one another to attract the great host alike of visitors and of those residents who conserve their social energies for this time. We hope that many guests will remain when the Show is over, in order to sample Ireland's claims as a holiday centre. This is the country's opportunity to build up a steady, profitable and enduring tourist traffic. At present, it is true, Ireland's chief attractions are mainly out of doors, where a bout of bad weather can upset the most careful plans of tourist and development associations. For such emergencies it is necessary to be prepared. In the Horse Show and the great motor races Ireland has nuclei from which a flourishing traffic may grow. The tourist traffic is not the most valuable form of commerce, but modern economy recognises that its importance is great and increasing. Both Irish States have made gallant efforts during recent years to render their attractions known to visitors. They complement each other to some degree; for, whereas Northern Ireland excels in well-provided and up-to-date seaside resorts, the Free State has a strong appeal for the sportsman and the lover of fine scenery. One thing is essential to both. They must ensure that, within reasonable limits, the visitor shall receive the entertainment that he seeks; and for this end the collaboration of every section of the community is necessary. Under kindly skies—and we refuse to believe that they will be otherwise—no reason seems to exist why this week's throng of visitors should be disappointed in Ireland. If hotel-keepers know their business, and if the providers of entertainment are conscientious, the tourist will return.

Clothes and the Man.

We welcome, though we cannot answer, the question which a correspondent puts to us in another column. Ought he to wear a top hat on the first day of the Horse Show? Woman's interest in clothes is constant and perennial—there was a murderess who went to the gallows in a black silk dress. For man, clothes are among the lighter preoccupations of life; trouble and excitement expel them quickly from his mind. Thirty years ago Dublin was one of the best-dressed capitals of Europe, and was a strict observer of the social conventions. Frock coats were de rigueur in the professions; they were worn not merely on formal occasions, but as a daily uniform. The youngest barrister would have refused to walk to the Four Courts uncrowned by a top hat; almost he would have preferred to walk thither without his trousers. Then came the Great War—when, for four years the best youth of the nation wore khaki—and then the years of revolution and civil tumult. During that distressful period men were too anxious to think about clothes. "Any old thing" sufficed for a daily round that was spent amid excursions and alarms. Social functions were few and informal, and top hats kept a seclusion which was broken only by occasional airings at funerals. Gradually public order was restored; professional life became safe and regular; the Horse Show began to renew its fame, and men's minds turned again to the forsaken amenities. In the last year or two the process has gathered speed. Garden parties, race meetings and flower shows attract increasing numbers of morning coats; and masculine youth, in increasing numbers, begins to remember the poet's injunction:—

> Wear a good hat. The secret of good looks
> Lies with the beaver in Canadian brooks.

Yet, as our correspondent's question shows, the movement towards a return of the former elegance and correctness is still a little uncertain—has not yet gained a confident stride. The proper headgear for the first day of the Horse Show remains unsettled. A mixture of top hats and bowlers continues to be possible at a Viceregal garden party.

"Penny Dreadfuls."

It is certain that most men retain a sneaking affection for the "penny dreadfuls" of their boyhood's days, but are afraid to acknowledge it. Modern education, through all the high-sounding terms of the new psychology, has denounced the stories which catered for youth's piratical instinct, and only a bold man would contradict the professors. Such a man is Mr. Rodney Bennett, who, in a lecture to teachers last Saturday, made a warm defence of "penny dreadfuls." He said that they brought excitement—quite harmless excitement—into dull lives, and that, as a rule, their morality was impeccable: indeed, everything was loaded on the side of the angels. When Mr. Baldwin admits that he revels in detective stories we are attracted by this revelation of his humanity. Why then, asks Mr. Bennett, should we denounce the errand boy who leans against his bicycle to devour a "penny blood?" Men are but children of a larger growth, and the latest seven-and-sixpenny tale of murder and detection touches in Mr. Baldwin exactly the same springs of romance that, for the errand boy, are touched by "The Glazier's Revenge, or the Blood-Stained Putty-Knife." Let the boy continue to read his "penny dreadfuls," says Mr. Bennett, and let us be thankful that he is reading anything at all. We endorse very heartily this courageous vindication of a practice which, while it may have delayed many messages, has brought so much pleasure and colour into humble lives. Mr. Baldwin, we may be sure, was an insatiable reader of "penny dreadfuls" in his boyhood. We shall not argue that they helped him to become Prime Minister of England, but manifestly they did not hinder him. It was Mr. Baldwin who said that he always felt a brotherhood with the man who shared his liking for certain quotations. We should have the same feeling towards him if we should learn that, when a boy, he pored upon "Ralpho the Mysterious, or the Young Swordsman of Warsaw."

THE KING AND QUEEN AT COWES.

A STRIKING INCIDENT.

Hundreds of visitors invaded Cowes yesterday. They had hoped to see the King and Queen come ashore for the Service at Trinity Church. Their Majesties, however, remained aboard the Victoria and Albert, and were present at a Service, at which the Lessons were read by Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Buller, who is in command of the Royal yachts. There was a striking incident about noon. The Salvation Army band was heading a procession of members of the British Legion along the quayside. Immediately they came opposite the Victoria and Albert they halted, and the men stood at "attention" while the band played the National Anthem, the strains of which floated across the waters to the yachts.

In an instant the moving throng on the front was stilled, and a thousand men wearing yachting caps stood bareheaded. Yachtsmen on the small craft in the Solent joined in the tribute, and half a dozen speed boats taking visitors round the Royal yachts shut off their engines, and stood silently on the waves until the music had ceased.

The King and Queen came on the deck of the Victoria and Albert, and His Majesty acknowledged the salutation.

PRINCE OF WALES TO VISIT ARGENTINE.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUENOS AIRES, Sunday.

Sir James W. Macleay, the British Ambassador to the Argentine, has informed President Irigoyen that the Prince of Wales will attend the opening of the British Empire Industries Fair in the Argentine in 1931.

The President, in reply, states that the Prince's visit will give great pleasure to the Argentine Government, and that he himself will be especially pleased.

THE PRINCE AT LE TOUQUET.

LE TOUQUET, Sunday.

Early this afternoon the Prince of Wales went for a walk in the forest, accompanied by friends. Later he went to the golf club, where he discussed plans for a game which he will play to-morrow. This evening His Royal Highness dined with friends. It is stated here that if the bad weather continues the Prince will return to London in the near future, but if fine weather returns, as seemed possible to-night, he will remain three or four days longer.

THE PRINCESS BEATRICE.

ACCIDENT WHILE WALKING.

Princess Beatrice was unable to attend the British Legion Service at Carisbrooke Castle, Isle of Wight, yesterday, owing to shock, due to an accidental fall while walking. She is making good progress.

Princess Beatrice, who is the King's aunt, and the mother of the Queen of Spain, celebrated in April last her seventy-third birthday. Despite her age the Princess attends many functions in the Isle of Wight, of which she is the Governor, while she is also actively interested in many philanthropic institutions on the mainland. Her residence is at Carisbrooke Castle.

Later last night the Press Association was informed that there was not the slightest need for anxiety, and that it was largely on account of the dampness of the weather that the Princess had not attended yesterday's Service, which was held in the open air.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A depression off Western Scotland is filling up, but a secondary disturbance now off North-West France is likely to move up the Channel. After rain early in Southern, Midland and Eastern England, spreading from the South-West, weather will be showery generally, with bright intervals.

Ireland, all Districts.—Moderate, variable winds; bright periods; showers or rain at times; moderate temperature.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Fresh variable winds, becoming finally westerly, strong at times; bright intervals; rain at times or showers; sea rather rough to rough, perhaps, at times.

LONDON LETTER.

THE GOVERNMENT'S LAND POLICY.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

Mr. Snowden's tardy unfolding of a Government agricultural policy in the declining minutes of the session is accepted generally as an astute bit of political "shop-window dressing." It will supply the Labour Party orators with a much-needed theme with which they may divert public attention during the recess from a long list of unredeemed pledges. The grandiose promise to endow the Board of Agriculture and local authorities with powers "to acquire and manage land" makes no appeal to agriculturists who have spent years on the soil in their efforts to make financial ends meet. Indeed, they look at it askance as savouring too much of compulsion and officialism. If the decline in the industry is to be arrested and prosperity is to be brought back to the countryside, the farmer must be assured of a remunerative price for his produce, and, above all, must be induced to lay down corn. A pathetic feature of the countryside is that no fewer than 140,000 acres of corn land have gone out of cultivation during the last twelve months.

Unemployment and Industry.

Mr. Baldwin's comment yesterday that a year's administration by the Labour Government had brought the country to the verge of economic and industrial ruin was severe, but its accuracy will be contested only by those whose purpose it is to pile up taxation for the exclusive benefit of one class of the community. New taxes which in a full year will produce £46,500,000 have been imposed. The unemployment roll, which, as we were told, would be obliterated instantly by the Government, has increased by eight hundred thousand since it took office. Some of that increase is due to an increase in the amount of the dole and the greater facility with which it can be obtained by those who are "work shy" and content to sleep in the parks for the best part of the day.

Retiring Members.

Quite a number of members of the House of Commons, mostly Conservatives, have intimated their intentions not to seek re-election at the next general election. In the majority of cases either the claim of business or indifferent health influences those decisions. The latest to make the announcement is Sir Walter de Frece, who for many years has represented Blackpool. The reason for Sir Walter's retirement is the continued bad health of Lady de Frece, whose condition for a long time was bad, and a little while ago was critical for some weeks.

Holiday Crowds.

The weather has not been too gracious to the great throngs of holiday-makers. This morning broke with rain, and, to all appearance, a wet day was in prospect. The weather improved, however, during the morning, and there were occasional sharp showers, with intervals of bright sunshine. To-morrow threatens to be unsettled. Yesterday's indifferent weather did not deter those bent on holiday. All the railway stations were packed from early morning, while the motor services were used to their full capacity. The railway men had a particularly strenuous time—especially on the southern routes; for, after they had disposed of the holiday and normal traffic, they had to get the Territorials away for annual trainings. Altogether, between seventy and eighty thousand of the second line Army must have been transported all over the country, and the numbers would have been greater if the mechanisation of much of the Field Artillery had not enabled many brigades to travel to camp by road.

The Prince's Aeroplane.

Rumours that the Prince of Wales intends to devote more time to flying find confirmation in his purchase of a new machine. This is a De Haviland "Puss" Moth—an all-enclosed, high-speed touring monoplane, with 120 horse-power inverted type Gipsy engines. It has been designed to the Prince's special orders, and is undergoing trial flights at the Stag Lane Aerodrome. The colouring of the machine is blue, red and silver, with upholstery in red leather; the registered letters are "G—ABBS." There will be provision for the stowage of 35 gallons of fuel—sufficient for a journey in still air of about 735 miles without replenishment. It is expected that the Prince, who has taken a keen interest in the recently-formed Brigade of Guards' Flying Club, will become a more active member of that organisation, and will take part regularly in its flights when his public engagements permit.

An Expensive Challenge.

When one sees at Cowes such manifestations of the wealth of the yachting fraternity, it causes wonder that Sir Thomas Lipton has been left to bear single-handed the expense of rescuing the America Cup from the other side of the Atlantic. The expenses on that side invariably are divided up among a syndicate of sportsmen, with the result that no individual is taxed unduly to defend the trophy. Sir Thomas has spent a considerable fortune in his attempts on the Cup, and he deserves the best of luck in the coming race, which will be his fifth effort. On the assumption that the costs of building, equipping and fitting out are the same on both sides, Sir Thomas Lipton's expenses are much greater than those of the syndicate, since he is charged with the convoy of the challenger across the Atlantic.

Air Traffic Facilities.

An unenviable task lies before the Special Committee, composed of representatives of the Air Ministry and of the London County Council, who will try to solve the problem of a landing place for aircraft in the Central London area. The present terminal aerodrome at Croydon is not situated conveniently, since it involves a forty-five minutes' journey from Central London along some of the most congested roads. Against that disadvantage, however, is the fact that fog is less prevalent at Croydon, and the potential danger of large air liners and aeroplanes landing in the midst of a crowded city always must be considered. Among the suggestions put up for the Committee's consideration are the provision of a light electric underground railway which would enable the present terminus to be reached in ten minutes, and a fantastic scheme for the roofing of a stretch of the River Thames.

A Canal Across Britain.

A scheme which would absorb thousands of unemployed for years will be submitted to the Ministry of Labour. It is for the construction of a ship canal connecting the Solway Firth with the Tyne. Britain at that region is only about one hundred miles across, but the expense of the undertaking would be enormous, if not prohibitive. The project is not a new one. It was put forward about seventy years ago, and the plans then prepared were discovered recently; but they did not mature, since the requisite capital could not be obtained. That scheme proposed that the canal should follow generally the lines of Hadrian's Wall, which the Romans constructed across the country for their defence against the North.

HUNGARIAN ACTRESS IN MOTOR SMASH.

The car of Madame Elizabeth Pechy, a well-known Hungarian musical comedy star, has been wrecked in a collision with another car. Madame Pechy sustained serious injuries.

CAPTAIN SAUL COMES HOME.

WOULD TRY ATLANTIC FLIGHT AGAIN.

THRILLING MOMENTS ON THE SOUTHERN CROSS.

HOW COMPASSES AND WIRELESS WERE AFFECTED IN FOG.

CAPTAIN J. P. SAUL, the Irish navigator of the Southern Cross on her trans-Atlantic flight from Portmarnock Strand to Harbour Grace, Newfoundland, six weeks ago, arrived back in Ireland yesterday in the Cunard liner Laconia, which called at Queenstown.

Captain Saul, in the course of conversation with our special representative, described his experiences while crossing the Atlantic by air, and particularly the difficulty of getting through the fog banks off Newfoundland, when the compasses and wireless set became affected.

He declared that he was prepared to take part in another Atlantic flight if organised in Ireland, with an Irish crew.

LANDED AT QUEENSTOWN.

WELCOMED BACK TO IRELAND.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Captain Saul was looking very bronzed and fit, and was carrying with him many souvenirs given to him by admirers in the United States during his tour by air of that continent, when Major Kingsford-Smith and his 'plane, the Southern Cross, were completing their round-the-world flight, terminating at San Francisco.

When the tender had drawn up alongside the liner, Captain Saul was welcomed on behalf of the Irish Aero Club by Colonel Charles Russell, the well-known Irish airman; Lieutenant Arthur Russell, his brother; Dr. E. Pepper, and Mr. J. K. Smith.

As Captain Saul left the liner he was given a rousing send-off by passengers on board whose acquaintance he had made during the trip from New York.

He was given an official welcome by a committee of the leading citidens of Cork and Queenstown.

It had been arranged that Colonel Russell and Captain Saul should fly back to Baldonnel Aerodrome, Co. Dublin, but weather conditions were unfavourable, and the journey was consequently made by motor car.

A CHAT ON THE LINER.

When I spoke to Captain Saul aboard the liner Laconia, he told me of his experiences during the flight of the Southern Cross.

It was rather difficult to get Captain Saul to talk at any length, for he gave only the monosyllabic replies to questions that are always associated with seafaring men.

He admitted to me, however, that the flight was not so difficult until they flew into the fog belt several hundreds of mles off Newfoundland.

As a result of their experiences on that trip, both Major Kingsford-Smith and himself had decided that for trans-Atlantic flights multi-engined machines, with navigators, wireless and wireless operators, and pilots who were able to "fly blind" through fog, were essential for success.

Further, there was no doubt that the chief difficulty in a trans-Atlantic flight was the continuous fog, which hung over the Newfoundland coast. These fogs, he had every reason to believe, had been the cause of the failure of other flights, and the loss of personnel and machines.

HINT TO SCIENTISTS.

It was his opinion that if instruments were evolved which would make fog flying an ordinary affair, not requiring the superior skill that it did at present, a very great step forward would have been achieved in the conquest of the air and in the conquest of the Northern Atlantic. These improvements in the science of aviation would, without a doubt, come in time. For instance, the perfect gyroscopical stabiliser and control on an aeroplane would enable the pilots to devote their attention to straight flying rather than to keeping the machine on an even keel, which was one of the greatest problems in flying in fog at present.

During this period of fog flying, which started a little more than ten or fifteen hours out from Ireland, his sensations, Captain Saul explained to me, were numerous, ranging from spins and loops to every other evolution that an aeroplane was capable of performing.

COMPASS TROUBLE.

"The first hours of this flying through fog were not so bad; for we were able to fly a true course "blind"; but it was not until we were about 350 miles east-south-east of Cape Race that the compasses started to go wrong, and we were lost. The first compass to go wrong was that in the pilot's cockpit.

"Major Kingsford-Smith notified me of his predicament," Captain Saul told me, "and then followed the rather peculiar experience of trying to keep him on his course with the aid of my earth compass and a long stick. This stick, which we used for sending messages to one another, then came in useful in another sense, for I tapped him with it on one shoulder and then on the other, thus signifying to him to bear to the left or the right according as he left the true compass course.

"Unfortunately, my compass went wrong also; but it was not until Stannage's wireless appeared to go out of order that we were properly lost.

"My conclusion in this regard is that the fog was charged with electricity, which interfered with our compasses and with our wireless.

"Stannage had tremendous trouble with his wireless. He worked at it tirelessly, however, and was rewarded by getting into communication with Cape Race, and obtaining his wireless bearings from that station.

"These bearings showed us that we had only gained about 120 miles in more than three hours. Wireless messages proved our ultimate salvation. They kept us informed of the general weather conditions, and told us that Harbour Grace was the only air port that was free from fog. This determined our landing at Harbour Grace, as all other air ports, as far down as the State of Maine, were fog-bound.

"Another fact that came to light in this flight was that the calculations as to fuel consumption were incorrect; for we only had about three hours' petrol supply left when we landed."

WOULD TRY AGAIN.

Thus did Captain Saul's story of the flight of the Southern Cross conclude, and when I asked him if he were prepared to take part in another Atlantic flight organised in Ireland, with an Irish crew, he immediately declared that he was. He added that he felt that the experience he gained would be very beneficial in any other projected flight.

Major Kingsford-Smith and Mr. J. W. Stannage, the wireless operator, he told me, intended returning to Ireland at the first opportunity to return thanks personally to their many kind friends in Ireland.

Accompanied by Colonel Russell and the other members of the Irish Aero Club, who had met him on the liner, Captain Saul started on his journey to Dublin shortly before noon. They had a most unfortunate series of tyre troubles on the way up, and finally Captain Saul and Colonel Russell were given a lift from Durrow to Dublin, a distance of about seventy miles, in the car of a passing motorist, who turned out to be Commandant Liam Walsh, of the Curragh Camp. Good time was made for the remainder of the journey, and the party arrived at Baldonnel Aerodrome at 4.30 p.m., only half an hour after the scheduled time.

Owing to the unfavourable weather conditions there was a comparatively small attendance of the general public present to welcome Captain Saul, though there was a good mustering of the members of the Irish Aero Club, of which he is the assistant honorary secretary.

AT BALDONNEL.

IRISH AERO CLUB'S WELCOME.

Shortly after his arrival at Baldonnel Aerodrome an informal welcome was given by Colonel Russell, on behalf of the Irish Aero Club, to Captain Saul. Colonel Russell said that the Irish Aero Club could very well be proud of Captain Saul and of his achievement in navigating the Southern Cross over the North Atlantic in safety, for he was their second member who had participated in the only two successful flights across the Atlantic from East to West. When Colonel James C. Fitzmaurice took part in the famous flight of the German Junkers monoplane, the Bremen, he did so as the President of the Irish Aero Club. As regards the flight of the Southern Cross, they could claim even more; for all the crew of that machine were members of their club. This meant, he was proud to acclaim, that the Irish Aero Club was the only aero club in the world the members of which had flown the Atlantic from East to West to Harbour Grace, on to New York, and thence to San Francisco, on the other side of the American Continent.

THANKS OF THE CREW.

Replying, Captain Saul said that Major Kingsford-Smith and the other members of the crew of the Southern Cross had commissioned him to express their deepest thanks to the people of Ireland, to the National Army, to the Civic Guard, to the Irish Aero Club, and to the personnel of the Free State Army Air Corps for all the kindnesses that they had received at their hands. Major Kingsford-Smith spoke particularly of the wonderful courtesy received from the officers of the Army Air Corps. He was, personally, more glad than he could say that all four members of the crew of the Southern Cross had been members of the Irish Aero Club.

Captain Saul then mentioned that his first trip across the Atlantic had taken 85 days, while his trip in the Southern Cross had taken only 31½ hours. His return trip to Queenstown had taken the better part of eight days.

Talking of his experiences in America, he said that that country in regard to civil aviation was going ahead by leaps and bounds, while here in Ireland they were out of date. In the United States every town had an air port, in fact, almost every town there wanted them to visit it and open their new "Kingsford-Smith" air port, "Stannage" air port, or "Saul" air port.

Subsequently an informal reception and dinner to Captain Saul was held by members of the Irish Aero Club in 30 Upper Pembroke street, Dublin, where there was a goodly gathering of aviation enthusiasts.

THE PARROT AND THE AIRMAN.

Proposing the toast of Captain Saul's health, Mr. Osmond Esmonde, T.D., the chairman of the club, said that they were proud that before he undertook his famous flight, and now that he had returned amongst them again, he was all the time their assistant honorary secretary.

The toast was honoured amid cheers.

In reply, Captain Saul said that he would quote "Smithy's" favourite remark, "What is the difference between a parrot and an airman?" and the answer: "A parrot talks but cannot fly." (Laughter.)

Proposing the health of Mr. Osmond Esmonde, Dr. Pepper said that the club had laboured under many difficulties from time to time, but the man who had always come to their aid when help was most needed was Mr. Esmonde.

IRELAND LAGS BEHIND.

Responding, Mr. Esmonde said that it was difficult for him to talk about the future of the club, for he had tabled a motion in the Dail asking for Free State Government assistance for civil aviation. He could not say what the intentions of the Government were with regard to civil aviation. He was a loyal supporter of the Government and a proud citizen of the Irish Free State, but he would say that this Government was the only Government in the world that had so far taken no interest in the development of civil aviation. The President of Turkey had organised a scheme for the development of civil aviation in his country, as had the Shah of Persia and the King of Siam.

These were countries which they in Ireland would look upon as barbarous, yet here civil aviation had not received one penny from the Government.

At the general meeting of the Irish Aero Club some months ago he had read out a communication he had received from a responsible official of the Government, giving a written undertaking that the Government would include a subsidy for civil aviation in the forthcoming Budget. No such provision had been made in the Budget, nor had any explanation been given as to why the Government had not carried out this explicit undertaking. He would say that their failure to do so bordered on dishonour. (Cheers.)

Thanks were returned to Mr. Percy Reynolds, the honorary secretary of the club, for all the good work he had done.

FURTHER TEST OF DRUMM BATTERY.

SPEED OF FORTY-FIVE MILES AN HOUR.

The Drumm battery was subjected on Saturday to a further test, from which it emerged successfully.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock the coach, carrying twenty passengers, including Dr. Drumm, was taken to Straffan and back. A speed of 45 miles an hour was reached on the run, this exceeding by five miles the highest speed yet recorded.

As on previous tests, the coach was run on two-thirds of its storage capacity, and it returned to its starting point with a substantial reserve of power.

Subsequent to the run one of those responsible for the organisation of this and previous tests said, in an interview with an Irish Times representative, that the battery had functioned "perfectly," and everyone was "more than satisfied."

He went on to say that the coach had been designed for a speed of from 40 to 53 miles per hour, and that a car which would be capable of attaining 75 miles per hour could be designed on the same lines.

Further tests will be carried out during the week.

DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

TO-MORROW'S BIG EVENT.

THE MILITARY JUMPING.

REVIVAL OF SMALL HORSE-BREEDER.

Already many of the horses entered for competition at the Royal Dublin Society's Horse Show have reached their stalls at Ballsbridge Showyard. Yesterday and on Saturday the special railway siding opposite the Showyard was a scene of considerable activity. Several train-loads of valuable hunters and thoroughbreds were discharged, the grooms in attendance taking their charges across the road to the stalls or boxes where they will be on view until next Friday. Further arrivals will take place to-day.

This speeding-up of the arrival of horses is, doubtless, due to the fact that, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Wylie, it has been arranged to begin "vetting" the exhibits this afternoon, in order to relieve the pressure on the Veterinary Department to-morrow, when most of the judging will take place. This, it is hoped, will obviate the long delays hitherto due to thinning-out classes for "vetting," and judging those which pass the necessary tests. The arrangement probably will mean a full afternoon's work for the veterinary surgeons and stewards, who have been asked to report for duty this morning. To-morrow it will only be necessary to examine late-comers.

INTERNATIONAL JUMPING.

The orderlies in attendance on the horses of the Army teams entered for the International Military Jumping competition for the Aga Khan Cup were much in evidence yesterday, their varied uniforms attracting general attention when they emerged from the Showground, and reminding the public of next Friday's big event. For this competition the teams representing the different countries will be as follow:—

BELGIUM—Captain Ecuyer de Brabandère, Captain Misonne, Lieutenant Ganshof van der Meersch.

FRANCE—Colonel E. Haentjens, Lieutenant Clavé, Lieutenant du Breuil, Lieutenant Bizard.

GREAT BRITAIN—Major J. Hume Dudgeon, Captain the Hon. A. M. A. Baillie, Lieutenant G. C. Gray, Lieutenant J. A. Talbot Ponsonby.

ITALY—Colonel Tappi, Major Count A. Bettoni, Captain Lequio, Captain Lombardo.

SWITZERLAND—Colonel C. R. Ziegler, Major C. Kuhn, First Lieutenant F. B. Daett-Wyler, Lieutenant O. K. Degallier.

IRISH FREE STATE—Captain J. G. O'Dwyer, Captain T. P. Finlay, Captain D. Corry and Captain C. B. Harty.

The British team includes the winner of the King's Cup at Olympia, and is the actual team that won the Prince of Wales's Cup there also. The Italian and Swiss horses have come direct from Aachen, Germany, where they took part in competitions, and, as this is the first visit of the Italian representatives to the Irish Free State, their performances will be regarded with some interest. The French are the holders of the cup, and the competition for it is certain to be keen. In last year's contest France and Ireland tied with 277 points each. Sweden came next with 274 points—one point more than Switzerland and the United States of America. England's gross total was 267, and Belgium's 263. In the jump-off to decide the tie France beat Ireland by one point.

BIG ENTRIES.

Entries total 1,088, an advance on last year's figure. This includes exhibits not only from some of the leading hunting stables in Ireland, but also from some of the smaller farmers who have resumed the breeding of hunters as a branch of stock-breeding. As Mr. Edward Bohane, Director of the Royal Dublin Society, remarked in a recent broadcast talk, most of the single entries come to Ballsbridge for the first and the last time, because they regard the Show as a great sale mart. The number of exhibitors at this week's Show is 508, an increase of nearly 100 on that of former years, and all of these represent the small horse-breeder. No fewer than 601 exhibits are Irish-bred trained hunters, four years old and upwards—the greatest cross-country horses in the world.

TO-MORROW'S EVENTS.

To-morrow's programme will comprise the judging of all the principal classes—heavy, medium and light-weight hunters—in the usual rings, and thoroughbred stallions, brood mares and yearlings in the jumping enclosure.

At 12 o'clock noon the Governor-General of the Irish Free State will declare open the exhibition of Irish manufactures in the new Pembroke Hall. There will also be the usual trade displays in the Main Hall and elsewhere, a large percentage of these being of Irish manufacture, which, by the way, the Society has always encouraged since its inception.

On the balcony will be shown the prize essays on scholars' visit to the Society's Spring Show, and also a selection of the prize works in connection with the Society's national art competitions.

In the Bloodstock Sales Paddock, Messrs. R. J. Goff and Co., Ltd., will begin the sale of 700 thoroughbred yearlings, which include some well-bred stock. Last year the amount realised at these sales exceeded £100,000.

One of the chief events on Wednesday will be the Inter-Hunt Jumping Competition, the draw for which is as follows:—

Round 1—Ward Union v. Bray Harriers.

Co. Limerick v. Fingal Harriers.

South Union v. East Antrim.

Scarteen v. United.

South Co. Dublin v. Richhill Harriers.

Byes into Round 2—(Top) Old Berkely v. Mid-Antrim Harriers.

(Bottom) Carbery Hunt, who meet the winners of South Co. Dublin and Richhill Harriers.

The catering will be by Mills, Ltd.

For every day of the Show the St. Hilda's Band and the Free State No. 1 Army Band have been engaged with a repertoire of high-class music, while Miss Lily Fagan's Ladies' Orchestra will play in the Main Hall.

HUNGARIAN MORTGAGE BANK.

NEGOTIATIONS STILL GOING ON.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUDAPEST, Sunday.

Pester Lloyd learns from a well-informed source that the report of an alleged agreement between the Guarantee Trust and Hungarian financial groups, on the subject of the establishment of a Hungarian mortgage bond institution is premature.

Negotiations, the newspaper adds, are still going on. There were certain differences with regard to the interpretation of some points of a former draft.

VISITORS TO DUBLIN.

Thousands of passengers arrived in Dublin over the week-end for the Horse Show.

On Saturday morning 4,500 passengers arrived at Kingstown, and in the evening an additional 1,300 came in by mail-boat.

THE PROPOSED WORLD FLIGHT.

GREAT MONOPLANE WRECKED.

CRASHED WHEN STARTING FOR DUBLIN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HARBOUR GRACE, NEWFOUNDLAND, Sunday.

The monoplane, City of New York, in which Mr. John Henry Mears started from New York yesterday in an attempt to wrest from the Graf Zeppelin the "record" for a round-the-world flight, crashed while attempting to take-off from here early to-day.

The machine was wrecked, but Mr. Mears and his companion, Mr. Henry Brown, and a Sealyham terrier, were uninjured.

The aeroplane was starting in the darkness, aided by flares. While it was moving rapidly across the field a tyre punctured, and the aeroplane swung round at an angle into a group of trees and was smashed to pieces.

Mr. Mears set up a round-the-world "record" in 1924 with the late Captain Collyer of 23 days 15 hours. The Graf Zeppelin's "record" is 21 days 8 hours. The City of New York took off from Roosevelt Field, New York, at 6.40 on Saturday morning, and from Harbour Grace it was proposed to fly the Atlantic to Baldonnel, Dublin. From there the proposed route lay via Berlin, Moscow, Siberia, the Behring Sea, and North Pacific to Seattle and New York. The estimated distance was 17,775 miles.

BANK HOLIDAY WEATHER

The prospect of sunny weather for the Bank Holiday is not very encouraging. Wind will be moderate, with occasional showers, and some sunshine. The temperature will be moderate.

Tailwind the Second, the Sealyham mascot was presented to Mr. Mears by Miss Mary Pickford. His predecessor, Tailwind the First, who was also presented to Mr. Mears by Miss Mary Pickford, was run over and killed by a lorry after safely circling the globe with his master two years ago.

AUSTRALIAN'S BID

TO BEAT HINKLER'S "RECORD."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SYDNEY, Sunday.

Mr. A. T. Cunningham, the pilot who took off for Wyndham on Friday last on a flight to England in an endeavour to beat Captain Bert Hinkler's "record," has spent the last two days at Wauchill, and proceeds to Wyndham to-morrow.

His subsequent route will be Bima, Sourabaya, Batavia, Singapore, Singora, Bangkok, Akyab, Calcutta, Agra, Karachi, Bunder Abbas, Baghdad, Aleppo, Constantinople, Vienna and London.

LAKE OF GENEVA ACCIDENT.

THREE PERSONS DEAD.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LAUSANNE, Sunday.

The woman passenger who was injured when a seaplane crashed into the Lake of Geneva yesterday died this morning. She was Mme. Carlier, of Lille, aged 42.

The bodies of the two passengers—a married couple from Lausanne—who were killed at the time of the crash have not yet been recovered.

MISS AMY JOHNSON.

ARRIVAL IN VIENNA.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

VIENNA, Sunday.

Miss Amy Johnson arrived here at 6 p.m. from Budapest. She was in the best of spirits. Though it was raining hard all the time, a small crowd gathered to greet her, including a number of aviators.

Miss Johnson delivered a short speech.

BERLIN TO CHICAGO.

A COLD FLIGHT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

REYKJAVIK, Saturday.

The German airmen, Hirth and Weller, who are flying from Berlin to Chicago via Iceland, say that they had a very cold trip from Germany as they left their fur coats behind in order to make the 'plane as light as possible. Nevertheless, they intend to steer their course for the new world over the high ice-covered Eyjafjalla Mountains.

Their 'plane can carry fuel for sixty hours' flying, but they calculate that they should be able to make Labrador in twenty-five hours. Their 'plane is in good condition, but the altimeter is out of order, and they expect to stay here for a few days until the necessary repairs can be made.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR.

TRIBUTE TO MR. ERIC HOOK

A memorial Service was held last night at Emanuel Church, in the Grove, West Wickham, Kent, to Mr. Eric L. Hook, the airman, who perished in the jungle in an attempted flight to Australia. Mr. Hook lived at Sherwood Way, West Wickham, and his widow was present at the Service with one of the two little girls that he left.

The minister, the Rev. C. J. Barry, in announcing that a fund was being raised for Mrs. Hook, said that Eric Hook was a brave man, who made a brave and daring attempt to assert man's lordship over the elements and failed in the attempt. He stood well in the succession of all brave men, and specially his name should be written on the roll of those brave men and women who had risked all, and in some cases given their all, in the conquest of the air.

JAPANESE FLOODS.

THOUSANDS OF HOUSES INUNDATED.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

TOKYO, Saturday.

The worst floods for years have inundated wide areas along the Northern coast of the main island of Hondo, following two typhoons off the coast. It is estimated that fifty persons were killed by the collapse of buildings, by landslips or by drowning. The railway services are generally interrupted. Ten thousand houses in Osaka were flooded, 4,000 in Tokyo and 3,000 in Tottori. Other cities have suffered less severely.

MANY HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS.

WOMAN KILLED IN DUBLIN.

ON A VISIT FROM CLONMEL.

NINE DEATHS IN ROAD COLLISIONS.

On her way to catch her train for home, Mrs. Catherine Kennedy, aged 38, of 7 Albert street, Clonmel, who had been in Dublin on the Clonmel pilgrimage to the Irish Lourdes at Inchicore, was yesterday knocked down by a 'bus and killed.

The accident happened in the early afternoon, when, with three neighbours, Mrs. Kennedy was walking towards Kingsbridge Railway Station to entrain for home.

It appears that a Lone Star 'bus going in the direction of O'Connell Bridge came abreast of a tramcar opposite St. Paul's Church, Arran quay, at a spot where there is a post office pillar box at the edge of the footpath. Both vehicles were travelling in the same direction.

Mrs. Kennedy, who was walking on the outside of her three companions, was struck by the 'bus and knocked down. In her fall her head come in contact with the pillar box, and she was rendered unconscious. She was taken in the 'bus to Richmond Hospital, but was dead on arrival.

The driver of the 'bus has been arrested, and will appear in the District Court this morning.

NINE PERSONS KILLED.

ROAD ACCIDENTS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Heavy holiday road traffic in Great Britain during the week-end has resulted in a number of fatal accidents.

While motor-cycling to his home at Llansadwrn, Carmarthenshire, yesterday, for the holiday, David John Thomas, a Haverfordwest bank clerk, aged twenty-seven, collided with a stationary motor-omnibus near Carmarthen and was killed.

Robert Fitch, of Gould road, Twickenham, came into collision with a motor car near Dorking yesterday while motor-cycling, and was instantly killed.

Fitch, a garage employé, who was about forty years of age, was on his way to Selsby Bill.

MOTOR COACHES COLLIDE.

Seventeen persons were injured in a collision which occurred early yesterday between two motor coaches at Stratford, East London. The vehicles, both of which were bound for Southend, mounted the pavement and struck some iron railings in front of a house.

John Wilson, aged 73, of Tontine Park, Renton, Dumbarton, was knocked down by a motor 'bus in Main street, Renton, on Saturday, and fatally injured.

As a result of his motor-cycle skidding and striking a tree, Frederick William Loose, aged 22, of Hucknall, died at Nottingham General Hospital yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Arnold, aged 72 and 67 respectively, of Duke's avenue, Chiswick, were knocked down by a motor-cyclist while walking along the Marine Parade, Clacton-on-Sea, on Saturday. Mrs. Arnold died later in hospital, where Mr. Arnold is lying in a serious condition.

MOTOR CYCLISTS KILLED.

Alfred George Adderley, of Butlin road, Rugby, a motor cyclist, was killed at Rugby yesterday through being thrown against a tree after his machine had been in contact with a motor car.

William Henry Calvert, aged 40, of Wyke road, Wyken, near Coventry, died in the Rugby Hospital on Saturday night after being in collision with a bicycle while motor cycling at Withybrook, near Rugby.

A Birmingham motor-van, while on its way to Clacton-on-Sea, got out of control at Pailton, near Rugby, yesterday and overturned. Five of the occupants, including the driver, were taken to hospital, where three of them were detained.

Two accidents which occurred at Bournemouth during the week-end resulted in the deaths of elderly women, who were knocked down by motor cars while crossing the road.

BATHER DIES ON BEACH.

MAN DROWNED IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE YOUTH.

After bathing from Weymouth Beach yesterday John Henry Nathen, a middle-aged widower, of Barry, Glamorganshire, collapsed and died.

He was one of a char-à-bancs party from Creitkerne, Dorset, visiting Weymouth for the day.

William Grosart, aged 42, a time-keeper, of Bold street, Liverpool, lost his life in a gallant attempt to save a youth who was in difficulties whilst bathing in the canal at Barnsley yesterday.

After taking off his cap and coat Grosart jumped into the canal, but became entangled in thick weeds and disappeared.

The youth, William Fearn, aged 17, managed to reach the side.

Grosart was on a visit to relatives.

LIGHTNING STRIKE OF 'BUS MEN.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC HELD UP.

A lightning strike at midnight on Saturday of drivers and 'bus conductors employed by the Londonderry and Lough Swilly Railway on the Londonderry-Donegal routes held up the entire services yesterday, and resulted in a great disappointment to holiday-makers.

A large 'bus had been engaged to convey a number of Scottish tourists to Buncrana at 6 o'clock yesterday morning when they arrived off the Glasgow steamer; but they had to wait five hours for the train.

There would have been a big holiday rush by 'bus to Donegal, but many of these people had to go elsewhere, or travel by taxi, the drivers of which reaped a rich harvest. A large number of holiday-makers, however, found themselves stranded.

The strike, which occasioned a serious loss to the railway company, resulted, it is stated, from a misunderstanding over the suspension of a driver. The company, it appears, had intended to reinstate him, but the men believing that he had been replaced, struck work in sympathy.

Negotiations for a settlement were initiated yesterday.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

ITALY AND SOVIET RUSSIA.

COMMERCIAL TREATY SIGNED.

The Rome Correspondent of The Times telegraphed yesterday:—Much interest has been aroused by the signature yesterday of a Commercial Treaty between Italy and Soviet Russia. Signor Mosconi, Minister for Finance, and Signor Bottai, Minister for Corporations, signed on behalf of Italy, and M. Liubimoff, Deputy Commissar, on behalf of the Soviet. In the afternoon M. Liubimoff had, it is stated, a long and cordial interview with Signor Mussolini, and in the evening he was the guest of the Italian Government at dinner. M. Liubimoff is giving a dinner this evening.

The terms of the Treaty have not yet been made public, so that it is not possible to say whether it goes much, if at all, beyond the long series of commercial agreements that Italy has recently signed with other foreign countries. The official communiqué, however, describes the Treaty as marking the beginning of a more intense economic collaboration between the two countries. Although the main purpose of the agreement would seem, from the official statement, to be to favour the purchase of Italian industrial products, Italy will, it is presumed, in turn purchase Soviet products. According to a writer in the Press these will be largely petrol, coal, and other minerals which Italy to-day receives from more distant markets, and at higher prices.

THE FREE STATE AND GREECE.

MOST-FAVOURED-NATION TREATMENT.

Notes exchanged between the Irish Free State and Greece through the British Legation at Athens have resulted in a commercial modus vivendi between the two countries.

The text of the Free State Note is as follows:—

British Legation, Athens,
May 19th, 1930.

MONSIEUR LE MINISTRE,

At the instance of His Majesty's Government in the Irish Free State, and under instructions from His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, I have the honour to inform Your Excellency that the Government of the Irish Free State are prepared to extend as from to-day's date complete most-favoured-nation treatment to all goods produced or manufactured in Greece on importation into the Irish Free State, and, further, to undertake that the duty on currants, the produce of Greece, imported into the Irish Free State shall not exceed 2s. per cwt., on the understanding that so long as the Irish Free State continues to accord such treatment to Greek goods all goods produced or manufactured in the Irish Free State shall enjoy, as from to-day's date, complete most-favoured-nation treatment on importation into Greece.

I should be grateful if Your Excellency would be good enough to inform me whether the Hellenic Government agree to the proposals set forth herein as constituting a modus vivendi regulating the commercial relations between the Irish Free State and Greece, pending the entry into force of a formal Treaty of Commerce with the Irish Free State, and at the same time subject to the understanding that it may be terminated by either Government by three months' notice to that effect.

The proposed modus vivendi will not embrace the preferences which are, or may be in the future, accorded in the Irish Free State to goods which are the produce or manufacture of any other State of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

If the arrangement proposed herein meets with the approval of the Hellenic Government, this Note and the notification of Your Excellency's acceptance will constitute an agreement between the two Governments.

I avail myself of this opportunity, Monsieur le Ministre, to renew to Your Excellency the expression of my highest consideration.

PATRICK RAMSAY.

His Excellency Monsieur Karapanaiotis,
Acting Minister for Foreign Affairs,
Athens.

In reply, M. Karapanaiotis stated that the Hellenic Government agreed to the proposals in the Note pending the conclusion of a formal Treaty of Commerce with the Irish Free State.

REPORTED SHIPPING MERGER.

TWO GREAT COMPANIES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

The Roosevelt Steamship Company and associated interests are reported in to-day's Herald Tribune to have acquired control of the big International Mercantile Marine Company. The newspaper expects that the Pennsylvania Railway and the Baltimore Ohio Railway will figure prominently in the business policy of the new company, which it is reported would dispose of all foreign flag tonnage as fast as possible, and concentrate on the development of powerful American services.

Mr. P. A. S. Franklin would remain President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, while Mr. Kermit Roosevelt, President of the Roosevelt Line, would be Vice-President.

Interviewed to-day on the proposed amalgamation, Mr. Kermit Roosevelt admitted that conversations had taken place with a view to the consolidation of the two lines, but denied that any definite conclusion or agreement had been reached.

LARGE FLEETS.

The Roosevelt Company, which was founded by the late Mr. J. P. Morgan, controls a fleet of forty-six vessels, with a gross tonnage of 42,700 tons. The fleet of the International Mercantile Marine Company is divided among five lines, two of which, the Panama Pacific and the American Atlantic Transport Company, are under the United States flag, while the Atlantic Transport Company, Ltd., the Red Star and the Leyland Lines are under the British flag.

Although the International Mercantile Marine Company still acts as American agent for the White Star Line, which it disposed of to the Royal Mail interests several years ago, it is said that the arrangement could be terminated at any time if the prospective new owners of the company wished to break off their affiliations with foreign lines.

While the market for ships is none too good at present, it is rumoured in shipping circles here that the Lloyd Royal Belge Line may purchase the Red Star Line and that Furness Withy may acquire the Atlantic Transport, Ltd.

"NO DEFINITE ARRANGEMENTS."

Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, admitted to-day that some discussion had taken place regarding the possible consolidation of the International Mercantile Marine Company and the Roosevelt Line, "but," he declared, "absolutely no definite arrangements or agreements have been entered into or concluded."

AMERICAN BATTLESHIPS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.

The Navy Department is scrapping the battleships Utah, Florida and Wyoming, before October 1st, in accordance with the terms of the London Treaty. It is expected that this will mean a saving of $4,000,000 at least per annum.

MR. BALDWIN'S POLICY.

REPLY TO PARTY CRITICS.

SAFE-GUARDING.

VIEWS ON EMPIRE FREE TRADE.

In his speech to the Bewdley Division Unionist Association in the Guildhall, Worcester, on Saturday, Mr. Baldwin replied to some of the Conservative Party critics.

The meeting passed a vote of confidence in Mr. Baldwin, and approved his policy of extending safeguarding and improving the prospects of persons engaged in, or dependent on, agriculture.

Mr. Baldwin, in acknowledging the vote of confidence, said—I have just survived the most difficult, the hardest, the most anxious year that I have ever been through, not even excepting 1926. No one can fully understand what I mean until he has had the honour of leading the Conservative Party after a defeat. (Laughter.) . . . There is no more difficult task than maintaining the morale and the unity of a great party in the hour of defeat, especially where there are certain elements, which are devoting all their time and all their money to smashing up our party. They won't do it as long as I am where I am. (Cheers.) I am never going to see our great historical party become the great hysterical party.

Discussing what the Conservatives would do if they were returned to office, Mr. Baldwin said—At home the first thing is to get industry on its legs, and the first step in doing that must be the safe-guarding of the home markets against goods produced under inferior conditions of labour abroad. Side by side with the industrial problem is the whole agricultural problem. In studying that problem we have produced a programme which, so far as it goes, will, I think, be of great value.

Turning to Empire policy, Mr. Baldwin said: I want to point out as clearly as I can one or two things that are sometimes overlooked. It is, of course, a commonplace, as I have said for thirty years, that we have got to look to the Empire markets for the development of our trade before looking to any other markets in the world. But if we wish to sell more of our goods to the Dominions, it is obvious that we must be prepared to buy more goods from them, and the things which the Dominions want markets for are their primary produce. This is an old problem, and it must necessarily involve trade agreements between us and the Dominions by which they will give increased preferences for our manufactures, and we, in return, will either give preference to foodstuffs, which would involve taxation at home, or by some other alternative method such as the quota system, or as the Socialist Party will suggest, by an imports board.

EMPIRE FREE TRADE.

Here we have the great difference between ourselves and the gentlemen who call themselves Empire free traders, and I want you to get this difference very clearly in your mind, because there are a great many people, mainly in and around London, who are attracted to it by the title and are a little apt to make up by their enthusiasm what they lack in their capacity for clear thinking. The Empire free trader wants me to go to the electorate of this country and say that we mean to impose taxes on foreign food, without saying what articles are to be taxed, what the amount of tax is to be, what effect that tax would have on the cost of living, and what advantages the Dominions are going to offer in exchange for that tax. That is what I am asked to do.

I believe the only business-like policy, and the only one fair to the electorate, is to say that we will not raise this issue of food taxes until we have conferred with the Dominions and explored the whole problem, and when we can lay a definite plan before the country and state exactly what taxes, and on what, will be required and exactly what we are going to get in return. In a matter of this kind, the interests of the vast masses of the working classes in our industrial districts must be our first consideration, and they are entitled to know what is the quid pro quo if this country is called upon to make any concessions.

I see in the paper this morning that I am going to have an Empire free trade candidate run against me—whether this particular one comes forward, no doubt one will come forward. I want to remind you what has been said on this subject in the Dominions, and I want to put a dilemma to you which arises immediately an Empire free trade policy is put before the electorate, so that you may get satisfactory answers from whoever carries that standard in this constituency at the next election.

DOMINION VIEWS.

Mr. Scullin, the Prime Minister of Australia, said on January 31 last:—"There is no hope in life of getting Australia to agree to allowing the goods of every part of the Empire to enter free, no matter under what labour conditions they are manufactured." That does not look much like free trade. Mr. Bennett, the new Conservative Prime Minister, for Canada, said:—"Free trade within the Empire is impossible." Then he goes on to say:—"What is our policy? By a system of treaties giving preferences, Empire free trade could be put on a new self-contained basis, and goods now purchased outside the Empire could be bought within it."

Our policy is reciprocal preference, which can go to almost any extent that you will. For that purpose I would set up at once a permanent Imperial Economic Conference, representing every part of the Empire, which would be in continuous session, examining these very problems and bringing before us the data which is lacking at present. There is nothing the Dominions are so jealous about as their fiscal autonomy, and they will never surrender it. Many people, hearing the phrase "Empire free trade," believe that it will mean that the Dominions will take off their tariffs for us. It does not and can not mean that. That has been stated by responsible statesmen in every Dominion. What can be and will be done is to grant reciprocal preferences; we give advantages and they give advantages, and in that way a great deal can be done.

TWO QUESTIONS.

That is our course—exactly the same course as that of Mr. Bennett, the new Prime Minister of Canada. The policy of Empire free traders has never yet been clearly outlined, and I want you to ask two questions of Empire free trade candidates. So far as I understand their policy, it is protection for the farmer. It is on that that they hope to get the farmer's vote. That is coupled, so far as I understand the policy, with the free importation of Empire foodstuffs. Is that policy possible? The British farmer cannot produce wheat as cheaply as the Canadian farmer can produce it. In a short time he would be completely knocked out by Empire wheat imports. What is the remedy for that contingency? That is one question to put to the Empire free trade candidates.

The other question is—If you put a duty on foreign wheat, which ex hypothesi they are going to do, that duty has got to be probably not less than £1 a quarter. Let us assume that the country would give that protection—which I do not believe it ever will—what is going to be the result? The Empire wheat-growers could perfectly well put their heads together and import wheat into this country at very little less than the effective duty put on foreign corn, which would give the result of a completely unearned bonus to them of possibly fifteen shillings a quarter, causing a corresponding rise in the price of food-stuffs in this country. That shows the inherent weakness of that side of the policy. We tackle the question differently. We go straight to a policy that will give the farmer a remunerative price for wheat, and which will at the same time enable him to get that price without raising the price of the loaf in England. Our policy is a safer policy and a wise policy.

PARTY UNITY.

Discussing the position of the Conservative Party, Mr. Baldwin said—No one can split our party if it will stand shoulder to shoulder and not allow itself to be rattled. It can never be rattled in the North of England, and I do not believe it will be rattled here. It may, however, be rattled in the South. I am anxious to place before the electorate the earliest extracts which I have seen in the papers which support Empire free trade professing to give the opinion of Dominion newspapers on the policy of Empire free trade. And I want to say—though I hope it was owing to the haste with which these newspapers were set up—that these extracts did not convey a correct impression of what the Dominion papers said. We have several instances of that kind to put before the electorate when the campaign is resumed.

If the Conservative Party will stand shoulder to shoulder to resist every attempt that is made to divide us, if they will remain loyal to their policy and fight for it, there can be but one end to this trouble, and that will be our victory. If, on the other hand, you go running after false gods and you think you can serve the cause of your party, or of the country, or of the Empire, by splitting the Tory Party, you may succeed in splitting it, but you will get what is the last thing you want, and that is another term of a Socialist Government.

PRIME MINISTER AT OBERAMMERGAU.

VISIT TO PASSION PLAY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
OBERAMMERGAU, Sunday.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, with his two daughters, and Sir Alexander and Lady Grant, arrived here by motor car from Munich at 4.30 yesterday afternoon. In the evening the Premier had a chat with Georges Lang, the producer of the Passion Play, and also with the Burgomaster of the village. He drove to the theatre at eight o'clock this morning, and remained there till six o'clock this evening, with two hours' interval for luncheon. Mr. Macdonald followed the play with close attention, and stated afterwards that he had found the closing scenes the most interesting.

This is Mr. Ramsay Macdonald's first visit to Oberammergau, but his daughter, Ishbel, saw the play in 1922.

This evening the Premier went for a stroll through the village. He leaves Oberammergau to-morrow by motor car, and will arrive in London on Tuesday.

The play was performed amid torrents of rain. As the Prime Minister left the theatre he was given an ovation by the numerous English people among the spectators.

AEROPLANE CRASH.

FLIGHT-LIEUTENANT KILLED.

As the result of an aeroplane crash at Turnhouse Aerodrome, Edinburgh, last night, Flight-Lieutenant A. R. Miller, Auxiliary Air Force, was killed. A passenger escaped with slight injuries. The machine had just taken off when it crashed. Flight-Lieutenant Miller, an experienced pilot, had been attached to the Auxiliary for four years. He was aged 29, and lived at St. Alban's road, Edinburgh.

THE NORTHERN LINEN TRADE.

IMPORTANT FUSION.

Arrangements are almost complete for an important fusion of interests in the Northern Linen Trade. The firms concerned are Messrs. John Wilson and Son, Ltd., of Belfast, Ballymena, Whitewell and Larne, and Messrs. McCrum, Watson and Mercer, Ltd., of Belfast and Milford, Co. Armagh. Messrs. Wilson have behind them a record of a century of successful work. Even in the present period of depression they have been able to keep remarkably busy, and during the hundred years of their existence there never has been a strike among their workers. Messrs. McCrum, Watson and Mercer also have had a long and honourable career in the trade.

LOCKED-IN IN BURNING HOUSE.

THREE CHILDREN PERISH IN FLAMES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Sunday.

Three little children, living with their parents in a wooden house at Vitry-sur-Seine, were burned to death to-day in a fire which destroyed the shanty like matchwood. Two firemen were slightly injured in trying to rescue them. The parents had gone out and locked the four children in.

The fire was caused by the children playing with a lighted stove. One girl of five broke a window and called for help to a passer-by. She was rescued, but the other three were found to be dead. The fire spread to a house next door, where three children were also left at home.

Luckily they were not locked in, and escaped.

MASTER OF HUNT SHOT.

BODY FOUND BY ROADSIDE.

COLONEL SIDNEY GREEN.

Colonel Sidney Green, joint master of the Cottesmore Hounds, was found lying dead on the roadway on Saturday morning about a quarter of a mile from his house, Catmose Cottage, Oakham, Rutland. A revolver was by the side of his body.

The discovery was made by the driver of a Royal mail van. He was on his way from Uffingham to Oakham, and when nearing the latter town saw the body.

Inspector Bottom and Detective Risely, of the Rutland Constabulary, proceeded to the spot, and found Colonel Green lying dead on the right-hand side of the grass verge.

The other Master of the Hunt, Mr. W. J. Baird, was away from home, but Mrs. Baird told a reporter that so far as she knew Colonel Green had no worries. He was an exceptionally fine joint master. "I can't think of any reason for the tragedy," she added. "The Colonel was always very happy. He dined with us only a few days ago, and was then in his usual excellent spirits. It is entirely untrue that he had been disappointed in a love affair. Colonel Green was known to the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, and the Duke of Gloucester, who had several times hunted under his mastership."

LETTER TO HIS FATHER.

It is undersood that Colonel Green wrote several letters on Friday evening. Two were to his father, Mr. J. W. T. Green, aged 83, the founder of Greens' Brewery, Luton, and his younger brother, Colonel Harold Green. Other letters, it is stated were to Mr. W. J. Baird, the other Master of Cottesmore, and to Mr. Welch, the huntsman.

Until a police inspector arrived Colonel Green's staff at the hunting box did not know he was out of the house. "Colonel Green gave me his orders on Friday night as usual" the Colonel's butler told a reporter. "The air accident at Meopham was a dreadful shock to my master. The people killed in the accident were his personal friends, and the news quite altered him at the time. He seemed afterwards to be trying to hide his feelings and recover from the shock.

"My master sympathised with Lord Ednam very deeply. Lord and Lady Ednam often stayed here in the hunting season."

A hunting friend of Colonel Green's said: "I know he was greatly upset by the Meopham disaster. He knew Lord Dufferin and Mrs. Loeffler; in fact, all of them very well. Colonel Henderson was always his pilot when he flew to Paris.

"Colonel Green said to me the day after the accident—'I cannot believe they are gone; it is dreadful.' A week later I thought he had not shaken off the blow, and he told me he was out of sorts and that he could not help thinking of poor Dufferin and the others.

"He was a confirmed bachelor, and I never heard him mention a serious love affair."

INTENDED TO VISIT HORSE SHOW.

Colonel Green had returned to Oakham from Goodwood on Thursday. He visited the Rutland Agricultural Show, and was expected to leave on Saturday night for Dublin to attend the Horse Show, and afterwards to be the guest of Lord Londonderry. One of his last acts on Friday was to inspect his hunting stables and give detailed orders for a month ahead. In preparation for the cubbing season, he went round his fine stud of fourteen hunters, and especially made much of his favourite mare, Patsy, whom he has had eleven years, and on whom he had won several victories in point-to-point racing. He chatted with the stable staff, and mentioned that he had cancelled an engagement to dine later on the fatal evening, and spent a few minutes watching a boys' cricket match.

The inquest will be held at the Victoria Hall, Oakham, this morning.

The letter written by Colonel Green to Mr. Welch, the huntsman, is understood to have conveyel his thanks for Mr. Welch's help in the work of the pack.

Close friends of Colonel Green attached no credence to rumours current in Oakham that his death was the outcome of a disappointment in love, and they declared that they knew of no real reasons for suggestions that he had been in love with a young hunting woman.

"If the inquest shows that such was the case," said one man, who was on terms of close friendship with the Colonel, "I shall be utterly astonished. That is all I can say. He had many lady friends, but I do not believe that there is a woman in the world who could have upset him."

COLONEL GREEN'S WAR SERVICE.

Colonel Green, who was aged fifty-seven, was managing director of Green's Brewery, Luton. He was the eldest son of Mr. J. W. Green, of The Larches, Luton. He was joint Master of the Cottesmore since 1928. Before joining the Cottesmore pack he hunted with the Fernie Hounds. He served with the Bedfordshire Yeomanry in the war until 1917, when he was transferred to the Scots Guards; and in 1925 he was promoted lieutenant-Colonel with command of the 105th (Beds.) Yeomanry Brigade, R.A. His military service won for him the Military Cross in 1918.

Colonel Green owned Master Robert, in partnership with the Earl of Airlie, when that horse won the Grand National in 1924. He was more interested in National Hunt racing than in the sport under Jockey Club rules, but had a useful flat racer in Hunting Tower, trained for him by Captain Boyd-Rochfort at Newmarket.

MR. DE VALERA IN CAVAN.

THE LAND ANNUITIES.

At an aeridheacht mhor, which was held at Bawnboy, Co. Cavan, yesterday, a meeting was addressed by Mr. de Valera, T.D., and Dr. Ward, T.D. Mr. Smith, T.D. presided.

Mr. de Valera said that he was glad to come to that part of Ireland. It was for the small farmers and labourers that Fianna Fail was founded, to bring them together in the country areas. He referred to the amount of money sent across the water for food and clothing. There also was a shortage of houses, and how much of the material could be procured at home, he asked. All they required was the skill; they had the raw material. Thirty millions worth of goods came in from outside. England dumped her goods in their country and drove their factories out of existence.

Referring to the Shannon scheme, Mr. de Valera said that the Shannon scheme had not cost as much money as England had been over-pair every year. In regard to the land annuities, he said that they had the opinion of the best lawyers in Ireland that they should keep the money at home. It was time enough to pay when they had made out a case.

SUICIDE FROM THE AIR.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MONTPELLIER, Sunday.

A flight sergeant belonging to the Aviation Reserve, who was undergoing a period of training here, has committed suicide by jumping out of an aeroplane while near Frontignac. A letter was afterwards found in the man's pocket, addressed to a girl who lives in the neighbourhood, informing her of his determination to do away with himself.

POULTRY EXPERTS IN IRELAND.

VISIT TO COUNTY WICKLOW FARM.

THE VALUE OF MODERN METHODS.

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.

Besides being delighted with the scenic beauty of the surroundings, members and delegates of the World's Poultry Congress who paid a visit to the farm and poultry plant of Mr. Robert C. Barton at Glendalough House, Annamoe, Co. Wicklow, yesterday were favourably impressed by the thoroughness of his adoption of modern methods. This is the largest poultry farm in Ireland.

In last Thursday's Irish Times there appeared on the Irish Farming Review Page a full account of Mr. Barton's activities as a poultry farmer, with details as to the immensity of his output of eggs and table birds, all of which find a ready market in Dublin. There is no necessity for him to seek an export trade. Mr. Barton finds that producers in Ireland have a long way to go before the supply of prime table fowl exceeds the demand at home, and he believes that this particular market should be catered for first. This belief finds expression in the policy that he has adopted.

5,000 CHICKENS A WEEK.

In substantial stone buildings, formerly used for stabling, he has placed in suitably-fitted compartments a modern 16,000 egg incubator, into which about 5,000 eggs per week are placed for hatching in two batches, a similar number of chickens being taken out and transferred to the battery brooders. Here they pass from a compartment, which is heated to 90 degrees F., to one which is kept at 70 degrees throughout the year, each tray being for birds of a particular age. They are ultimately brought into a more natural atmosphere, and when ready are killed, plucked and prepared for a leading Dublin poulterer. All the time the birds intended for table purposes are kept thriving under artificial conditions, electric light taking the place of sunlight as an illuminant.

EGG PRODUCTION.

Poultry intended for egg production are reared under more natural conditions, being provided with fine roomy houses into which the sun shines freely. When the birds are hardy enough, and before they begin to lay, they are allowed to roost in the woods, which are such a feature of the property. During the present year some 27,000 chickens have been raised; 3,500 ducks and 225 geese.

Duck raising from incubators is not generally easy, but this year it has proved a success, and excellent birds have been reared, those seen on the ponds here making a perfect picture. Especially interesting were the Canadian Pekins, which, one Canadian visitor said, "beat everything they have at Glendalough House." They are really wonderful birds and lay very large eggs.

THE TRAP-NESTING SYSTEM.

There were four hundred visitors in the party yesterday, and keen interest was taken in Mr. Barton's system of feeding. Close attention was also paid to the trap-nesting arrangements, which are Mr. Barton's own design, and have had the effect of reducing the labour involved in egg recording by 25 per cent.

Mr. Fred. C. Elford, President, World's Poultry Science Association, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, when interviewed yesterday described this trap-nesting system as something absolutely new and a great labour-saver. Since his last visit to the place two years ago, he said that this farm had made wonderful headway. It demonstrated that poultry rearing on specialised lines was quite possible in Ireland, "where," he added, "you have fairly good climatic conditions and are right up against your own market in Dublin. There are not many places where this mode of farming could be adopted, because I understand that most of the poultry are kept on small farms, but here you have an example of what is possible by the adoption of up-to-date methods, coupled with good management and absolute cleanliness. You have an advantage over Canada in being able to rear chickens all through the year, and it seems to me that there is no limit to what can be done on a comparatively large scale, because there are bigger farms of this type in Great Britain and elsewhere. I have been in more than thirty countries and have never seen better chickens than those reared in Mr. Barton's batteries."

A VOTE OF THANKS.

Professor Morley Jull, Chief Poultry Husbandman, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, proposed a cordial vote of thanks to Mr. Barton for his kindness and hospitality, to the Irish Free State Government for arranging that visit, and also to the Irish Free State National Committee for organising the tour.

Mr. O'Phelan, on behalf of the Latin races represented, seconded.

Dr. J. H. Hinchcliff, Department of Agriculture, Dublin, on behalf of the Free State National Committee also thanked Mr. Barton for his kindness, and said that he was glad that the visitors had enjoyed themselves.

These speeches were greeted with loud cheers.

Mr. Barton, in reply, said that it was a great pleasure to receive them, and he thanked the Department of Agriculture for what it had done for him.

The party then boarded their 'buses and went to the Seven Churches, returning to Dublin along the coast.

To-day they go to Belfast, where they will be the guests of the Northern Government.

DELEGATES IN CORK.

MINISTER'S WELCOME.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Saturday.

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. P. Hogan, received over 300 delegates attending the World's Poultry Congress in London, when they paid a visit to the Munster Institute, Cork, on Saturday.

The delegates were taken over the spacious grounds of the Institute, and shown what is being done in the matter of training of girls in agricultural pursuits, preparing them to develop the Irish dairy and poultry trade.

Seventeen nations were represented at the luncheon given in honour of the delegates.

MINISTER'S SPEECH.

At the luncheon Mr. Hogan extended a welcome to the delegates on behalf of the Free State Government and the citizens of the Free State generally. He took that opportunity of congratulating all on the signal success of the Congress.

This is, continued Mr. Hogan, to a great extent a country of small farmers, with small capital, but big families, with one of the greatest markets in the world for poultry at its door—Great Britain. In those circumstances we could have only one view about the poultry industry. Since its inception the Department of Agriculture has always recognised the part which this industry has played in the country, and the still more important rôle it was to assume if encouraged and developed on scientific lines.

The Minister, having sketched briefly the history and work of the Munster Institute, said they had, of course, many other schools, both male and female, where poultry-keeping is taught, but it is in this Institute that the vast majority of our instructresses are trained. In one respect, I think, we can claim to be pioneers. I believe it was our agricultural committees who first realised the advantages of the establishment of egg distributing stations. Similar stations have now been established in Great Britain and elsewhere, and I think it is now becoming clear that these stations are an efficient and a relatively inexpensive method of securing a wide and rapid improvement in the industry.

Concluding, Mr Hogan said that he hoped for developments in research relating to the poultry industry, but he must admit that up to the present they had not contributed their due quota to the general stock of scientific knowledge and research.

VISITORS PLEASED.

Mr. Elford, President of the World's Poultry Science Association, said that they had always understood that the hospitality of the Irish, and especially the Irish in Munster, was above everything. So far as their reception to-day was concerned, they must admit that they were on top. On behalf of the World's Poultry Science Association, they, from so many different countries, were pleased to meet them in their own country.

IRELAND AS A PIONEER.

Mr. Percy Francis, of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, London, said that if the Congress had done nothing else than give representatives of twenty countries the opportunity of enjoying the hospitality of the Irish nation, which was famous, they were happy. "I am in the fortunate position of having spent twelve years in this country, and I am glad to be here again. In many ways this country was a pioneer in art and music. It was a pioneer in agriculture and education, and I am perfectly certain that Ireland will be a pioneer in agriculture for the whole world. The influence of the Irish on the whole world has been very great, and it will be a great benefit in the future."

Professor Rice, Cornwell University, United States, proposing the toast of the Irish Free State, said that the foundation stone must be based on research, organisation and co-operation. These, he added, were the corner-stones of prosperity.

Mr. Daniel F. Forde responded to the toast.

NEWS FROM ALL IRELAND.

IRISH QUALIFICATION.

By twelve votes to seven YOUGHAL Urban Council decided not to call on the successful candidate for the position of assistant to the Town Clerk to acquire a knowledge of Irish, there being no mention of it in the terms of the appointment.

MOTOR LIFEBOAT FOR YOUGHAL.

A letter was read at YOUGHAL Urban Council from the Lifeboat Association stating that it was intended to provide a motor lifeboat for Youghal, and asking for permission to make certain alterations in the slipway. The application was granted.

THE MISSING MAIL BAG.

In connection with the robbery of a mail-bag at LIMERICK JUNCTION last Thursday night, the name of the accused man is Philip Gorman, Limerick Junction, and not William Gorman, as previously reported. He has been released on bail and will appear at the next Tipperary District Court.

FOREIGN OATS.

LEITRIM County Committee of Agriculture and Technical Instruction has adopted the resolution of the Kildare Tillage Association calling on the Free State Government to prohibit the entry of foreign oats and to impose a tariff on imported barley. Several members suggested that the importation of barley should be prohibited.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

John Berningham (5) was killed in Clare street, LIMERICK, on Friday by being run over by a horse and dray. At the time of the accident he was crossing the street, and at the inquest opened on Saturday medical evidence showed that death was due to fracture of the base of the skull. The inquest was adjourned pending criminal proceedings against the driver of the horse and dray.

TO ENCOURAGE FORESTRY.

At the meeting of Westmeath County Committee of Agriculture, which was held in MULLINGAR, Monsignor Langan presiding, Mr. W. J. Young, horticultural instructor, suggested that it would be well if the Department gave grants towards new plantations, as small as one acre, instead of limiting the minimum area for grants to five acres. The Chairman said that it was their duty to do everything they could to encourage forestry. Owing to the wholesale cutting down of timber, their climate was getting worse. One time Ireland was covered with forests. Tree-planting was very reproductive, and then there was the ornamental aspect. Westmeath would be a charming county if properly planted with trees. The suggestion was unanimously adopted.

DOMESTIC TROUBLE.

At a Special Court which was held in DUNDALK two young farmers, Patrick and John Sullivan, of Newtownbalregan, were charged in custody with having assaulted their father, and also with damaging his bicycle. The father, Thomas Sullivan, stated that on the previous Sunday morning a row occurred because witness was wearing a cap belonging to one of the sons. The cap was taken from him, and John hit him two thumps. On the previous night, in Dundalk, witness had attempted to take a bicycle from one of the boys, and the bicycle was smashed. Mr. O'Hagan—Why did you want to take the bicycle?—Because the sons were going to Manchester, and I did not want to have it sold. Your son John was keeping company with a girl, and you objected?—Yes. The girl went to Manchester, and you feared John was going there to marry her?—Yes. Mrs. Sullivan stated that the whole trouble in the house was caused by the fact that in May last John brought the girl to the house. The parents objected, but the girl was kept on, and witness was put out of the house. On the morning of the row Patrick made a rush at witness, and she fell on the floor. District Justice Price dismissed the cases against the sons.

COMPLAINT ABOUT MEAT.

At the meeting of COUNTY WICKLOW Board of Health the Matron, County Home, Rathdrum, reported that the contractors for meat were not giving satisfaction. The meat often was very inferior. The bacon and beef had been frequently returned to the contractor with no good results. Messrs. Bourne and Doyle were appointed a deputation to interview the Matron and investigate the complaint. On their return Mr. Doyle said that the bacon supplied was certainly of a rough and heavy quality, and did not appear at all suitable for all-round use. Mr. Bourne agreed. The contractor, he said, was getting 11½d. a lb., which was a very good price. They had inspected a couple of sides of mutton, and it was of a bad colour and soft and flabby. They advertised for the best beef and the best mutton, and they should insist on getting it. Chairman—The prices at which people tender for meat here would not pay anyone to produce it. That is not our business at all. If people tender at impossible prices it is not our business, but it is our duty to insist that they should comply with the terms of their contract. The Secretary was instructed to warn the contractors that unless they complied strictly with the terms of their contract in future serious action would be taken against them.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT.

John O'Neill, of Seatown place, was charged at DUNDALK with having embezzled £25 18s. 3d. received by him while acting as agent for the Irish Life Assurance Company. Superintendent O'Byrne, who prosecuted, said that he did not propose to tender further evidence at this stage, and he asked that the case should be adjourned until September. Mr. Teevan, solicitor for the defendant, protested, and stated that while the charge hung over his client he would find it impossible to get a situation. He asked that the superintendent should withdraw the charge. The defendant had been dismissed from his employment, not for any money matter or anything that reflected upon his integrity. When he was asked to send in a final account he did so, showing that he owed the company £25. In a letter he stated that owing to family troubles he was unable to pay the sum at once, but offered to pay by instalments. Without replying to his letter the company had him arrested. Since the warrant had been issued the money had been paid, though the defendant never admitted that there had been embezzlement. Superintendent O'Byrne urged that a long adjournment would not affect the defendant, who was on bail. After discussion, the defendant agreed to the adjournment of the case until September.

PRICE OF PIGS.

At GRAIGUENAMANAGH pig market last Saturday 55s. per cwt., live-weight, was paid for fat pigs, an increase of 1s. on last week's price.

CHILD DROWNED.

While playing with a number of other children on the river bank at ENNISKILLEN, Ernest Lynam (6) fell into Lough Erne and was drowned.

PRESENTATION.

A large gathering of First LURGAN Presbyterian Congregation made a presentation to the Rev. A. A. Fulton, M.A., B.D., who had acted for the Rev. W. B. Sproule, B.A. (Minister of the Congregation), for some time, and who presided at the ceremony.

HOME HELP IN WICKLOW.

At the meeting of COUNTY WICKLOW Board of Health it was reported that the total amount expended on home help for the four weeks ended June 28 was £1,227 18s. 6d.

LURGAN TOC H.

At a meeting of the LURGAN group of Toc H. a presentation was made to Mr. A. S. Ringer-Hewitt on his severing his connection with Lurgan group to take up a position in Somerset. Commander Fforde, J.P., R.N. (retired), presided, and Mr. A. Cuppage, Silverwand, made the presentation.

CATTLE THIEF SENTENCED.

For stealing cattle—one the property of the Rev. J. W. Butler, Rector of Thomastown, and two the property of Mr. Wm. Stone—James Ryan, BALLYADAMS, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour. John Dempsey, who also was charged, was allowed out on entering into recognisances.

POST OFFICE RAIDED.

CLONAKILTY (County Cork) Post Office was broken into by burglars, who effected an entrance by breaking a window at the rear of the office, which is situate in a quiet part of the town. The object of the thieves apparently was to break open the safe, which contained the day's takings. Although they broke the handle off the safe, the raiders had to retire without succeeding in their object.

HOUSING IN OMAGH.

At the meeting of OMAGH Rural Council on Saturday it was stated that the Council already had paid, or undertaken to pay, £3,480 as subsidies for houses in the rural districts. The Northern Minister of Home Affairs sanctioned the issuing of an instalment of £1,000 on foot of a loan of £2,800, which had been sanctioned for the purpose of making supplemental housing grants.

SWORDS BAZAAR.

A baby show was one of the attractions at a bazaar and fête in aid of Saint Colmcille's Church Improvement Fund, which opened in SWORDS, Co. Dublin, last Saturday. Over fifty babies were entered, mostly from the town of Swords. The judge was Dr. Agnes Russel. The show was organised with a twofold purpose: to help the fête, and to draw attention to the excellent work being done by the Swords Infant Welfare Society. Lady Mary Corbally, the President of the Society, distributed the prizes to the prize-winners.

FATAL 'BUS ACCIDENT.

There was a sequel to the recent 'bus accident at Ballinalack on Saturday, when, in the MULLINGAR Courthouse, William McCann, driver of the 'bus, was remanded, charged "that he did, on 28th July, kill and slay Patrick Donoghue, Granard." Mr. John Wallace, State Solicitor, prosecuted, and Mr. D. Shaw defended. The evidence of Dr. Samuel Mullen was to the effect that on arrival at the scene of the accident he found the deceased man lying unconscious, with a broken bicycle nearby. The evidence of Dr. Anthony Kearney, surgeon, Co. Infirmary, was that the deceased man suffered from fracture of the base of the skull, which was the cause of death.

UNREGISTERED NURSE.

Mrs. Gertrude Quinn, Castlederg, was prosecuted at CASTLEDERG Petty Sessions last Saturday for acting as a maternity nurse without being registered by the Northern Nursing and Midwives Council. District Inspector Walshe, who prosecuted, stated that he understood that the defendant was qualified, but was not registered, and she had been warned by the police that she must get registered a year ago. Dr. Burke, solicitor for the defendant, said that this was a case of extreme emergency, and the statute made an exception in such a case. He contended that it would be harsh to convict the defendant. The Chairman said that the defendant had been warned, and he had no hesitation in convicting. She would be fined £1 and costs.

R.A.F. MAN KILLED.

An inquest was held last Saturday evening in LURGAN Union Infirmary by the Acting Coroner for North Armagh (Mr. E. C. Doogan) on the body of George Allen (28), a corporal of the Royal Air Force, stationed at Aldergrove, County Antrim. The evidence went to show that when the deceased man was returning to the aerodrome last Friday on a motor cycle the rear wheel of the machine got punctured, and the steering damper was so light that it was impossible to steer the machine, with the result that the deceased man got pitched over the handle-bars. He was conveyed to Lurgan Infirmary, where he died on Saturday morning without regaining consciousness. The medical evidence was that death resulted from fracture of the base of the skull. A verdict of "Accidental death" was returned.

CREAMERY FOR TINAHELY.

A meeting in connection with the proposed creamery for TINAHELY district was held last Friday. The Very Rev. J. Donovan, P.P., presided. Mr. Riddell, of the Irish Agricultural Organisation Society, spoke of Denmark, where he lived for a period in closest touch with a creamery. Denmark, he said, had secured the premier place in the world's butter markets because she adopted and earnestly worked the creamery system. Mr. McGauran, County Instructor of Agriculture, referred to the mistaken opinion that separated milk was valueless for feeding purposes. The separated milk retained all the feeding ingredients except butter fat, the place of which could be supplied more cheaply by oats. He believed, from his knowledge of the district, that a creamery would be a success. It was proposed by Mr. J. J. Kavanagh, seconded by Mr. P. J. Carey, and passed unanimously, that a creamery be started in the district as an auxiliary to the central creamery in Tullow.

FOUR POLICEMEN STABBED.

Four policemen were stabbed and twenty Arabs were arrested in a riot at South Shields on Saturday, when a large number of Arab seamen came into violent conflict with the police, who charged them with batons.

The four policemen were taken to the infirmary, and a number of Arabs were also injured.

The trouble occurred during the afternoon while a crew was being signed on on the steamer Linkmoor. The Arabs objected to three white men securing vacant berths, and rushed at them.

The police intervened, and the situation became so serious that they considered it expedient to charge the crowd, numbering several hundred, with drawn batons.

Pandemonium ensued for several minutes, the Arabs using sticks, knives and stones. The Arabs eventually scattered, several men being left lying injured on the ground. A police ambulance conveyed the injured to the infirmary, where their wounds were dressed. Quiet was eventually restored.

Early this morning it was stated that the injured policemen were slightly better.

Thomas Ross (28), a miner temporarily employed at a dairy, was found dead at his home at Gilmerton, near Edinburgh, yesterday, with his head in a gas oven. His son Robert, aged five, was dead in bed, and another son, William, aged eighteen months, was discovered lying under the bed. The baby was still alive and was later reported to be making satisfactory progress. Mrs. Ross was not at home, having gone into hospital the previous day.

SIR HENRY LYTTON AS HOST.

HOME SECRETARY'S TRIBUTE.

Sir Henry Lytton entertained the entire D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, now playing at Brighton, at a banquet at Brighton last night, in celebration of the honour recently conferred upon him by the King. Mr. J. R. Clynes, Home Secretary, presented Sir Henry, on behalf of friends, with an inscribed silver salver.

Sir Henry Lytton, who paid a warm tribute to the work of his fellow-artists, said that his work had always been open to a great deal of criticism. In his early days, he recalled, one critic wrote: "Mr. Henry Lytton warbled manfully through his part." Sir Henry added—The newspaper was quite right, but it should have read "wobbled."

In welcoming Mr. Clynes Sir Henry said: I am not like a politician, for I have served one party for forty-five years. There are a number of politicians who have not done that.

Mr. Clynes recalled that thirty years ago he stood on the gallery steps of the Savoy Theatre and enjoyed the work of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. He confessed that he was still a great follower of the Company. He added a word of praise for Sir Henry Lytton, on behalf of all parties in the House of Commons. "We are not united in all things," he said, "but there is no question about this."

CASPIAN EARTHQUAKE.

FIVE HUNDRED PERSONS PERISH.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
RIGA, Sunday.

It is reported from Moscow that an earthquake along the Northern and Eastern shores of the Caspian Sea has destroyed the towns of Uritsk and Chapaev, formerly Alexandrovsk and Gurev. Five hundred persons were killed and 4,000 injured. The River Ural overflowed its banks and flooded the district round Chapaev. Many villages were destroyed.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE STEADY

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Saturday.

The market opened with a slightly downward tendency, but the better tone in Utilities afforded some encouragement to operators for an advance, and the list improved slightly. However, prices generally reflected little more than the closing out of short commitments by bears anxious to even up accounts over the week-end. Week-end trade reports pointed to some improvement in retail distribution, while news from the Motor industry is more cheerful; several plants, including Ford, which have been shut down for two or three weeks, being scheduled to resume operations. Estimates point to activity in steel mill operations next week, and although they do not indicate any considerable acceleration, they, at least, make no suggestion of further recession. The market at the close was steady. Auburn Auto, Consolidated Gas, Ingersoll, Rand and Timken Roller Bearing advanced 2 to 4 points. Other firm spots included American Telephone and Telegraph, Montgomery Ward, Brooklyn Union Gas, Columbia Gas, North American, General Electric, Gillette Safety Razor, U.S. Steel, and Westinghouse Electric, while American Tobacco "B," Sears Roebuck, Southern Railway, Warner Brothers and Industrial Alcohol sagged. Government Bonds steady; Railroad Bonds firm. The day's sales totalled 364,000 shares.

WHEAT opened barely steady and ⅜c. down. Fine weather conditions for the final stage of growth in the North-West, together with a bearish Bank of Montreal crop summary and selling of October by seaboard houses, encouraged declines, but the market rallied partially on bullish advices from Australia, Russia and Germany, inducing shorts to cover. NEW YORK COTTON.

COTTON opened steady and 12 to 7 points higher, and further advanced on week-end covering due to continued dry weather in the drought area, but the improvement met some realising. Later, the market reacted partially on a bearish private crop estimate and also in unison with weakness in wheat. The closing was steady, with old contracts 6 to 3 points and new deliveries 4 to 7 points higher. Spot steady and 5 points up. At New Orleans futures opened 4 to 7 points higher, and closed 3 to 4 points up. Spot showed no change.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Saturday.

WHEAT opened steady, ⅛c. up to unchanged. Values afterwards declined on hedge selling of December by North-West houses and owing to excellent weather for harvesting in all sections of the belt, together with a forecast for scattered showers over North and South Dakota. After the market rallied partially on it being privately estimated that the worst of the farm depression is probably being seen now. Short covering assisted the rally, but at the close the market was barely steady and quotably ⅛c. to ⅜c. down.

BERNARD SHAW CRITICISED.

"IMMORTALISING HIS FATHER'S FAILURES."

Dr. J. C. Carlile, referring at Folkestone Baptist Church, yesterday, to Mr. Bernard Shaw's preface to the private edition of his works, said it would be remembered as immortalising the failures of his father.

"Shaw," he said, "appears in a new light. He is the bad Bernard Shaw contradicting his own ideals and false to his own standard.

"His father is described as the worst type of drunkard. The skeleton is taken out of the cupboard and shown in all its nakedness. It is a pity the dramatist did not remember the old Latin tag about speaking well of the dead.

"No doubt, all Shaw says about the old man's manners and drunken habits is perfectly true, but it is not chivalrous to bring him back from the dead to exhibit his nastiness as an excuse for his son's rudeness.

"It would be easy to forgive Shaw his manners if he had any worth talking about."

"No one expected George Bernard Shaw to apologise for anything," added Dr. Carlile, "but the exhibition of family portraits of the dead provided no pleasure. After all, there was a debt a son owed to his father, and there were some advantages in having a father without making him a scapegoat for one's defects."

G.B.S. REPLIES.

"A RIDICULOUS EXAGGERATION."

Mr. Shaw's reply to Dr. Carlile's criticism was truly Shavian. "Who is this Dr. Carlile? Is he a Baptist preacher? He appears to me to be the kind of gentleman who has not very much acquaintance with the drunkard. This appears to me to be the sort of reprimand which usually comes from people who think that, because the truth is unpleasant, one should tell lies. To say that I described my father as 'the worst type of drunkard' is absurd. It is thoroughly careless language.

"I really write and tell the truth, and if a story is to be told about my family, I would rather tell it myself in my own way than leave it to a gentleman who might be out just to tell lies. My father certainly drank a good deal, but to describe him as 'the worst type of drunkard' is a ridiculous exaggeration. Dr. Carlile obviously does not think before he speaks.

"Then, when Dr. Carlile talks about speaking well of the dead, how far is he willing to carry that? I wonder if he happened to be preaching about Henry VIII. or 'bloody' Queen Mary, would he say anything disparaging about them? It is better to wait until people are dead before one says anything unkind about them. The idea that we should not say anything unkind about the dead is a thoroughly false one."

The Rev. Charles Carlile, C.H., C.B.E., D.D., D.Litt., is the minister of Folkestone Baptist Church. He has been President of the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland, and is well-known as a preacher, both in this country and America. He has also written several books.

FRENCH FINANCE.

MINISTER'S FAVOURABLE VIEW.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Saturday.

In a speech at a banquet of the local Chamber of Agriculture, at Epinal to-day, M. Reynaud drew a more or less optimistic picture of France's financial position. He pointed out that the value of the securities bearing no fixed rate of interests on the Paris Bourse had almost doubled since 1926. There were also the rise in rentes. The diminution of eight milliards in the Treasury's credit balance had strengthened France's financial situation, because four milliards had been devoted to debt amortisation, and four others had been earmarked for railways, posts, telegraphs and telephones, etc. The five milliards required for national economic equipment were to hand, and there would be no issue of Treasury Bonds.

THE GOLD INFLUX.

He dwelt upon the influx of gold into France. The amount of gold—now forty-five milliards of francs—having received an increment of nine milliards of francs during the last year, the Government, he said, had put a brake on the introduction of foreign securities, so as to spare the small French investors certain losses. It had also stopped debtors who had not conformed with their obligations to French investors from making fresh issues.

Concluding, he said that the Government was the first to recognise the fact of the economic solidarity of the great markets. It would be bad policy to seek the prosperity of the French market in the weakening of other markets. Any policy of isolation, any pretention to hegemony would be dangerous. To safeguard civilisation it was necessary that the peoples should help one another. France would be the first to hold out a helping hand to those that required her aid.

FEVER PATIENT JUMPS THROUGH WINDOW.

OVERPOWERED AFTER A DESPERATE STRUGGLE.

A delirous patient suffering from fever in the Larne, Co. Antrim, Fever Hospital early on Saturday morning dashed into a children's ward and, it is stated, assaulted three nurses and jumped through a window twenty feet to the ground. He made off followed by a doctor, and at the hospital gates was stopped by a number of men, who, after a desperate struggle, succeeded in overpowering him. He was taken back to the hospital. One of the nurses received severe bruises, and the patient sustained cuts on the arm.

DUNSHAUGHLIN FETE.

A POSTPONEMENT.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, Dunshaughlin Aeridheacht, which was to have been held yesterday afternoon, was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. Matthew O'Reilly, T.D., addressed the small crowd which had assembled, and said that it was unfortunate that they had hit upon such a bad day. Mr. Frank Aiken, T.D., had been there, but as it was impossible to hold the entertainment he had gone on to Tara. Before the season was over, however, they would hold the Aeridheacht. Such entertainments were necessary in order to keep the people interested in the dancing, games and music of the country. There were things common to all Irishmen; and the nation that had not its language, culture and tradition could not organise itself for any great industrial or political movement. The common bond of nationality was the language. These entertainments gave a fellow-feeling to people, and killed bitterness. They were something upon which all could unite.

It was hopeful that in the future they might agree on the main points, because until they got a greater degree of agreement than at present, the powers to be attacked were too strong. It was necessary for this nation to unite in order to be able to destroy the great powers that she had to fight against. They had heard a discussion recently on freights and charges, inward and outward. These discussions would continue, and the people would protest against such freights and charges. The nation that had not cheap transit and freights could not start any industry. He sympathised with them on the bad weather which necessitated the postponement of the entertainment.

The Cunarder, Laconia, for the first time landed passengers at Swansea yesterday from New York. Of the seven hundred on board about two hundred disembarked, most of them being Welsh-Americans, who had come over for the Welsh National Eisteddfod, which opens at Llanelly to-day.

LUCKY PURCHASES AT SIR ABE BAILEY'S SALE.

SPORT AT ALEXANDRA PARK.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Sunday.

Racing for the coming week will be quiet after the rush of Goodwood, and a new venture has been made in giving Derby a two-day fixture, which commences on Bank holiday. Although it is not in the vicinity of Sandown, the clash is likely to affect both meetings, especially as there is always a dearth of jockeys on these occasions.

The Sussex Fortnight will be continued at Brighton and Lewes, and I am afraid the better-class races have dried up a bit. It is intended to run that gallant old warrior, Jugo, in the Brighton Stakes on Tuesday. It is wonderful how Mr. Richards's horse retains his form, and what a thousand pities that he had to be tubed.

MR. DEWAR STILL IN LUCK.

Mr. J. A. Dewar has been a very fortunate man in inheriting such a stud from his uncle, the late Lord Dewar, and it will be recalled that he won races at Ascot with The Reccerder and The Macnab. He did even better at Goodwood, and not only did these two score again for him, but Brother-in-Law, who was second to Trimdon in the Gold Vase, duly obliged last week, which made his third success. F. Darling, who had such a wonderful week, had charge of these three, and it was left to Martin Hartigan to carry on the good work at Alexandra Park with Mrs. Siddons, who lost her maiden allowance after winning the Barnet Plate. Mrs. Siddons is a mean sort of filly, who was bred by Sir Abe Bailey, and is by Gainsborough from a mare called Good Game, who used to carry the late Mr. James White's colours. She was purchased as a yearling at the sale of Sir Abe Bailey's bloodstock, which were sold on account of his poor health in October, 1928. The price paid for her was 2,200 guineas, and it is singular that Fred. Darling should have purchased Parenthesis and Quinine from the same vendor.

A ST. LEGER FANCY.

Lord Woolavington will have no cause to regret having given 6,100 guineas for Parenthesis, who has already won 2,700 guineas in stakes, and at the present time is a much respected candidate for the St. Leger. He is a beautiful colt of medium size, and Son-in-Law and Bracket, both Cesarewitch winners, are his parents.

Lord Ellesmere has certainly been most fortunate in his buying, and Quinine, who was bought for 2,700 guineas, is a year younger than Tiffin, who, I hear, is standing to Blandford. Quinine won on Friday the Nassau Stakes, and in due course will make a very valuable brood mare, as, apart from her racing, she is by a son of St. Simon, while her dam, Maranon, has bred many winners.

Sir Abe Bailey must now be regretting his illness, but it is good to see him back again with many horses in training. He has some two-year-olds who should win races, and I cannot believe that promising youngster, Miss Matty colt, gave his true running last week.

Reverting to the Barnet Plate, the winner was followed home by Orvello, who was purchased in France as a yearling for Mrs. G. H. Drummond, and I am pleased to hear that her good two-year-old, Lady Maderty, is doing well on her rest, and should be a fine filly in the autumn.

TRUNCHEON'S SUCCESS.

The Saturday which follows a meeting such as Goodwood is not an ideal one for staging a big race, but the Alexandra Park Executive gave a £1,000 handicap, with the winner to be sold for 100 guineas. Truncheon won this race, which is the Metropolitan Sale Handicap, and, although he was well fancied, Stanley Wootton allowed him to go to Mr. Horlock for 360 guineas after the race. Considering he was carrying bottom weight, and had never won even a selling race before, he may not be such a bargain as he appeared to be. Mr. Horlock ran Dandie Dinmont in this race, and this son of Buchan had some good form to his credit, but on this occasion he ran moderately. Mr. Sullivan's O'Curry was carrying top weight, but he had nothing to do with the finish.

It is seldom that Mrs. Hollins patronises races under Jockey Club Rules, and her runner was Jacob's Ladder, who was bought after winning a race at Birmingham, no doubt with the idea of being put over hurdles during the winner, but he was also negligible. Sir Charles Hyde ran a couple, and the better of these was Garnock, who finished strongly to get second place, while Whitsbury found the track too sharp for him.

A PROMISING COLT.

Lady Aylesford was present to see her unnamed colt by Chivalrous from Rule Nisi win the Maiden Two-Year-Old Plate, and apart from the delight of his carrying a penalty she was really pleased that the public had backed him. Lady Aylesford bred the colt herself, and he is certain to train on if looks count for anything. His sire Chivalrous was a good stayer, winning the Chester Cup in successive years, and this well grown colt is not nearly furnished yet. He is trained by Douglas Pennant, who is doing well with his small string of horses. Aerial Flight was not saddled after all, and the position of Minette rather suggests that she may not have won as these two were the same animal at Leicester. Aerial Flight had a pull of 7lb., and Minette, who was second, was well beaten by Lady Aylesford's colt.

Sir Richard Garton does not go in for plating, and after his rather attractive filly, Gallando, had won the Islington Plate, he allowed Mr. J. T. Downing, who has done so well with Grandflight, to buy her for 410 guineas. She is by Knockando, and must have a paddock value, as her dam is by Gallinule from an Orme mare.

There was a considerable amount of excitement at the start for the Highbury Handicap, which took place under the stands, and it was fortunate that neither Gordon Richards nor K. Robertson was hurt. Their respective mounts were Blue Don and Industrious, and they broke through the "tapes," and whereas Industrious got through all right, Blue Don was hung up for a few seconds. Industrious ran very well during the contest, but it was plain a couple of furlongs out that Mount Hawke would win, and this he managed to do after being unsuccessful since 1928.

SELECTIONS.

At Sandown to-morrow I like nothing better than BASRA in the Lubbock Sprint Handicap, and the best of the others may be Devonie, who will win more races over this distance.

Majority Calling has a big penalty to carry in the Holiday Two-Year-Old Plate, and I doubt whether she or Fiesole will concede weight to Coot or Golden End, two promising maidens. I shall decide in favour of GOLDEN END.

CAT O' NINE TAILS is by no means harshly treated in the Great Southern Handicap, and he may experience the most danger from Hush Hush.

LEOPARDSTOWN.

BAYARD WINS IN A CANTER.

DOUBLES FOR CANTY AND GARDNER.

RUSH POINT'S ILL-LUCK.

The Leopardstown meeting, usually the starting off point of the round of festivities associated with Horse Show Week, was sadly interfered with by the torrential rainfalls during the early hours on Saturday. The attendance was much smaller than usual, and not many of the cross-Channel visitors who arrived in the morning cared to brave the elements. As matters turned out, the weather was by no means unfavourable; in fact, the late afternoon turned out fine and agreeable, and very enjoyable racing was provided for those present. The sport was marked by a very fine performance of Bayard in the Leopardstown Plate, which Mr. W. J. Hilliard's two-year-old won in a style which confirmed the opinion already generally held that he is the best of the first season horses seen out so far. This was his fourth win, and his only defeat was sustained when trying to concede 14lb. to Bacchante at the Curragh, a margin of a short head depriving him of the spoils on that occasion.

AN IMPRESSIVE WIN.

In Saturday's race the only serious opposition to the crack came from Ado, whose two recent runaway wins left it an open question as to his real abilities. Mr. Mackean's colt had to concede Bayard 4lb., but this disadvantage was put aside at the start, when Ado slipped away a few lengths in front, and Bayard seemed to hang a bit. Not for long, however, did Ado hold his position at the head of affairs, for Bayard made up the gap in less than two furlongs, and thenceforward it was only a question of what distance Canty cared to allow his mount to win by. Bayard actually finished five lengths in front, but Ado was eased up before the winning post was reached. However, there was enough in the achievement to satisfy most people that if there is a better two-year-old in the country it must be a very good one. Ado was easily second best, but Bannockburn, who carried Mr. Geoffrey Allen's colours into third place, is a promising Bachelor's Double colt, who has plenty of room for improvement.

FAITHFUL TAG'S FAILURE.

The English jockey, H. Wragg, who came over to ride Bannockburn in the Leopardstown Plate, started off well by riding home Wandering Minstrel, the winner of the Foxrock Plate. Faithful Tag was trying to concede 14lb. to Mr. More O'Ferrall's gelding, who, on the first day of the Maze meeting, put up a good race with Junius. This, however, was beyond his compass, and Wragg had his mount always going easier, and if only winning by a length had more in hand than this margin would suggest.

The old-time jockey, John Doyle, got a well-merited turn of luck when Battle Bridge, ridden by his son, romped home an easy winner of the Dalkey Selling Plate. They were not a very gaudy lot he beat, and there was no desire to bid for him at the ensuing auction. He has run eleven times without success since winning a maiden plate at Baldoyle in the early part of last year, so that his score was not out of turn.

RUSH POINT'S SEQUENCE BROKEN.

An unaccountable mishap to Rush Point when leading the field in the Three Rock Plate put aside all hopes of Lieutenant-Colonel Fenwick Palmer's filly adding to her sequence of five wins recently achieved. It looked as if she crossed her legs after going a couple of furlongs, and J. Moylan was for some time unable to rise from where he had fallen. Luckily his injuries did not prove serious, and the inquiry into the matter which the Stewards held made it clear that the occurrence was a pure accident. When Rush Point was put out of action Tuneful loomed large in the picture, but was tackled close home by Inniskeen, who readily made amends for his costly failure at the Curragh.

GARDNER'S CHANCE RIDE.

E. Gardner, who rode Inniskeen, got a chance ride on Tangle in the Scalp Plate, owing to J. Moylan's injuries in the preceding race, and it proved a lucky one for him. Rascal Monk and Invader, the respective top and bottom weights, were the only ones backed with any confidence, but both ran indifferently, and Tangle was followed home by his stable companion, Broadway Joe. Redglow, who had won three good races off the reel, met his Waterloo in the Sugar Loaf Plate, failing badly to concede weight to Fan To and Supina, the former of which pair won rather comfortably. GOFF'S BLOODSTOCK SALES.

700 YEARLINGS TO BE OFFERED.

Messrs. Goff's bloodstock sales, which are annually growing in importance, will be held on to-morrow and the three following days in the splendidly-appointed paddocks opposite the Royal Dublin Society's Show Grounds at Ballsbridge. Over 700 yearlings will come under the hammer, and, in view of the wonderful success of Irish-bred horses in England and abroad, keen comptition may be expected.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

Trainer's Complaint of Handicapping.

Captain J. Renwick complained of the handicapping of Tetrapom and Lundy Light in the Catterick Handicap last Friday as compared with the handicapping at Carlisle. The Stewards, having considered the handicapper's explanation, while appreciating his reason, came to the conclusion that he had treated Tetrapom somewhat harshly, and considered that Captain Renwick was justified in calling attention to the handicapping of his horse.

Irish Filly to Run at York.

The Irish two-year-old, Bacchante, by Sansovino, out of Sacrifice, has left P. Behan's place at the Curragh for M. D. Peacock's establishment at Middleham. Bacchante, who has won two of her three races in Ireland, is engaged at York, and in the event of a good show there, further engagements in England will be made.

Valerie K. for South Africa.

Valerie K., who was purchased by Mr. E. Coutts after winning the Kirtling Claiming and Selling Plate at the Second July meeting at Newmarket, will leave at the end of the month for South Africa. Valerie K. has been coughing since her success, which has prevented her from meeting subsequent engagements.

BALDOYLE.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS

The August Bank Holiday Meeting at Baldoyle is always one of the most popular of the season's fixtures at this conveniently situated course, and if the weather is at all favourable it is safe to predict that there will be a big attendance this afternoon. For the valuable Foal Stakes we are promised a fine race, though of the nine runners declared there is the possibility that Glass Gift may not be saddled, as she went slightly amiss on Saturday. J. T. Rogers's stable will be doubly represented by Hot Sun and Love Letter, and the Heath stable will depend upon Jehad. It is likely that Luck Gift will be the sole representative of P. Behan's stable, and, with Joe Canty in the saddle, Major Connolly's gelding is certain to have strong support. The following are the probable starters and jockeys:—

BATTLE ZONE (Mr. John Doyle), 8-5 (Owner) ......Jas. Doyle
BECCAQUIMEC (Mr. R. More O'Ferrall), 8-5 (Owner) ......H. Wragg
*AGHOGHILL (Major Dixon), 8-5 (Behan)——
WAILING WALL (Mr. H. M. Hartigan), 8-5 (Owner) ......A. Barrett
HOT SUN (Mr. J. T. Rogers), 8-2 (Owner) ......D. Gallagher
*GLASS GIFT (Colonel Clarke), 8-2 (Clarke) ......Jas. Canty
LUCK GIFT (Major E. M. Connolly), 8-2 (Behan) ......Joe Canty
LOVE LETTER (Lord Furness), 8-2 (Rogers) ......E. Gardner
JEHAD (Mr. J. J. Maher), 8-2 (Blake) ......E. M. Quirke

*Signifies doubtful starter.

The English jockey, H. Wragg, will have the mount on Beccaquimec, who is much fancied, but it looks as if

SANDOWN PARK : PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

FIESOLE FOR CHIEF EVENT.

CYLLARUS FANCIED.

Racing enthusiasts are well catered for to-day with meetings at Sandown Park, Derby and Ripon. The Holiday T.Y.O. Plate is the feature at Sandown, and, unless coughing is prevalent among the entries, will engage some smart youngsters, of whom the best appear to be Fiesole, Instigator II., Majority Calling, Dayboy, Light o' Love and Enyo. It is in that order that I like them, and only in the absence of Fiesole would I look further for the winner. The Stanley House gelding is very smart, but I think Instigator II. will give him something to do. Majority Calling lived up to his home reputation when winning at Lingfield, and Dayboy was very useful early in the season. This is a race which will probably take plenty of winning. My vote goes to Fiesole; if absent, Instigator II.

There are several in the Great Southern Handicap with reasonable chances of success, and Cyllarus, who beat all but Spinner's Cottage at Goodwood, may be the best to stand by. Cat o' Nine Tails will be dangerous, and others worthy of mention are Intruder, Marlborough and Sandino. I shall rely on Cyllarus.

GREYHOUND RACING.

CORK OWNER'S DOUBLE AT SHELBOURNE PARK.

The inclemency of the weather did not deter a very large gathering from patronising Shelbourne Park on Saturday night, and they were rewarded with excellent racing. The Cork owner, Mr. R. Gorman, brought off a double by the aid of Lord Middleton and Green Gown. The former won the opening event, the Clonmel Stake, while Green Gown justified her strong favouritism by winning the Dublin Stake. Noble Macer put up a right good performance in winning the Shelbourne Stake from a "hot" field, and the son of Hurrah is one of the most improved greyhounds racing this season. Splonk's Brother gave a good display of jumping in winning the Shelbourne Hurdle, while Marshal Foch followed up recent successes by scoring in the Celtic Hurdle. Details:—

DERBY.

The principal race at Derby to-day is the Champion Breeders' Foal Plate, which looks like going to the Chattis Hill establishment, Persse having Lindos Ojos, Ojala, Miss Jinks and Venusia engaged. Berrydale is useful, and hails from a stable in form, and a good word may also be said for Coldstream and Lawless filly. My vote goes to Persse's selected.

RIPON.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS

At Ripon to-day Young Middleton, according to reports from Newmarket, is expected to take a lot of beating in the Great St. Wilfrid Handicap. Visellus is another fancied candidate from headquarters. Scottish Fusilier is in good form at the moment, but I doubt whether he will give 11lb. and a beating to Gigolo, who has my vote.

CRICKET.

A BLANK DAY IN DUBLIN.

MANY ENGLISH GAMES CURTAILED.

GOOD START BY LANCS.

It was most unfortunate that the weather on Saturday should have turned out so unfavourable, for there was a large and interesting list of matches set down for decision. Chief in interest was the match between Gentlemen of Ireland and M.C.C., which was to have started in the College Park. Rain fell from an early hour on Saturday morning, and continued till well in the afternoon, with the result that though the wicket was covered the outparts were so thoroughly saturated that at 3.30 it was decided to abandon the game for the day.

The M.C.C. team is the same as played at Cork, but a further change has taken place on the already much altered Irish side. W. F. Aylward (Pembroke) notified his inability to play, and his place will be filled by the Dublin University player, C. M. Deverell. Play this morning will start at 11 o'clock and continue until 6.30, and the same hours will obtain to-morrow.

There was no play in the match between Leinster and Phœnix at Rathmines, nor at Castle avenue, where Clontarf were at home to Railway Union.

ULSTER V. LEINSTER.

A FINE PARTNERSHIP FOR SEVENTH WICKET.

It was not possible to begin play in this match at Lurgan until 3.55 on Saturday, and there were frequent interruptions until 6.30, at which hour play ceased for the day.

Leinster won the toss and sent Ulster in to bat and had early successes, Ulster losing six wickets for 47 runs. However, on C. J. Webb and R. Carson getting together they played delightful cricket, and when Webb left he had reached 90 after a capital innings. Carson continued to hit merrily and completed a faultless 100. At 109 his fine innings was brought to a close by a catch by McCann. Ulster then declared at 253 for eight wickets, after three hours and a quarter. In the half-hour left for play Leinster scored 32 for no wicket. Play will be resumed to-day. Score:—

MERRION ON TOUR.

DRAW WITH CORK COUNTY.

Cork County and Merrion played a drawn game at the Mardyke, Cork, on Saturday. Batting first the visitors lost McCartan early, and after a good stand by Barber and Little for the second wicket, more success attended the home bowlers, and when a sharp shower drove the players to tea the total was 138 for seven wickets. Merrion declaring, left the County an hour and a half to get the runs, but they had only put on 102 for 7 when time was up. Score:—

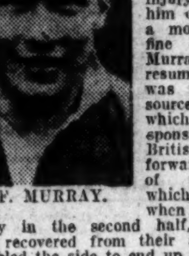
RUGBY FOOTBALL.

MURRAY RETURNS TO THE BRITISH TEAM.

HAMILTON (N.Z.), Saturday.

The British touring side in New Zealand beat a combined team representing Waikato, Thames Valley and King's County by 5 placed goals, 2 penalty goals and 3 tries (40 points) to 2 placed goals and 2 tries (16 points).



P. F. MURRAY.

The British Selection Committee were disappointed once again, when W. H. Sobey had a recurrence of his knee trouble while training at Rotura, and was unable to turn out. They were, however, lucky to be able to have the service of Murray, who had recovered from his shoulder injury, which had kept him out of the side for a month. The former fine combination of Murray and Spong was resumed, and indeed it was the dash and resource of the Irishman which was mainly responsible for the big British score. The local forwards made the best of the opportunities which came their way when the British eased up early in the second half, after which the tourists recovered from their attack of lethargy and enabled the side to end up in a final bewildering burst of scoring. Beamish, Welsh and Ivor Jones were, as usual, most conspicuous among the forwards, who did well against a stubborn opposition. A. L. Novis was tried at left centre instead of right wing, which place was taken by C. D. Aarvold. These experiments were made with a view to the final Test and worked very satisfactorily, though there was still an unfortunate tendency to inaccurate passing among the three-quarters, which somewhat nullified the good work of the halves.

Ivor Jones led a strong British rush from the kick-off, and Black scored a penalty goal. Splendid touch-finding by Bonner, who was replacing Bassett (resting), kept the British side on the attack, and Novis, after a bout of passing among the three-quarters, eluded the opposing full-back, to score a fine try, which Black converted. The Waikato forwards, playing energetically, reached British territory, but Novis got possession, and, after running about thirty yards, passed to Ivor Jones, who went over. Black missed with the kick. By accurate kicking the British maintained the attack, and Ivor Jones scored another penalty goal. A further British attack ended in Reeve scoring a most spectacular try, jumping clean over the full-back. Ivon Jones converted. Waikato rallied, and Mitchell scored a try, which Allen converted, but the visitors were soon attacking again, and from a beautiful bout of passing, Novis passed in to Spong, who scored a try, Black converting. Half-time score:—British, 24 points; Waikato, 5 points.

The second half opened with a wonderful bout of passing by the British backs which electrified the crowd, but it broke down at the last moment. The Waikato forwards rushed down the field, and Storey scored a try, which Allen converted. Reeves gained much ground with a good run, and a fine passing movement followed, the ball going to Black, Murray and Aarvold before Novis went over for a try, which Ivor Jones converted. Murray hurt his injured shoulder in spite of the rubber protection, but pluckily resumed. The powerful Waikato forwards were now playing with renewed life, and swarmed towards the British corner, but Dowcott saved the situation with a good tackle. Concentrating on spoiling, Waikato initiated some troublesome rushes, and Mitchell scored. Allen failed to convert. The British forwards appeared tired, and the Waikato pack made several strong rushes. Eventually, Spong made a lightning dash down the field, but stumbled. The locals continued to press hard, and Carlson, eluding Aarvold, scored another try, which Mitchell, however, failed to convert. Britain now improved, and Spong scored a brilliant solo try, carrying the ball about forty yards. Ivor Jones easily converted. Then Novis emulated Spong, scoring with an equally brilliant sprint, but Ivor Jones did not convert. Murray sent Aarvold over for the last try, which Ivor Jones again failed to convert.

British team—G. M. Bonner; A. L. Novis, H. M. Bowcott, C. D. Aarvold, J. S. R. Reeve; R. S Spong, P. F. Murray; D. Parker, D. A. Kendrew, H. O'Neill, B. H. Black, J. L. Farrell, W. B Welsh, G. R. Beamish, Ivor Jones.

CYCLING.

I.R.C. TWENTY-FOUR HOURS' TRIAL.

The Open Twenty-Four Hour Time Trial of the Southern Centre of the Irish Road Club will come to a conclusion at 9 o'clock this morning. Yesterday the thirteen competitors battled with rain and breeze, a downpour having set in immediately after the start of the last man from Cabra. It continued more or less without intermission during the whole of the hours of daylight, and any chance of the twenty-four hours' "record" being broken was abandoned before the trial was many hours in progress.

Up to half-time J. J. Masterson was leading the field, and looked like running out a winner. He took the lead in the early part of the day, and at 101 miles was leading J. Murphy by four minutes, J. J. Killean being one minute behind the latter, while W. J. Finn, on a tricycle, was fourth, eleven minutes behind the leader. These relatively near positions were maintained at the next checking point (141 miles), but Finn was then fifteen minutes behind Masterson, who had increased his lead on the second man from four to seven minutes.

Thirteen of the fifteen entrants took part in the trial, the non-starters being Woods and Quinn. In the early stages R. White and J. Nolan retired. At the 101 and 141 miles' points the times of the riders were:—

OPINIONS OF EXPERTS ON THE NEW BALL.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

The first general test of the new American golf ball by prominent players has resulted in interesting expressions of opinion.

Measuring 1.68 inches in diameter and weighing 1.55 ounces, this ball will be standardised by the United States Golf Association on January 1 next.

It was used in an eighteen holes competition at the Fairview Club, White Plains. The use of the new ball was made obligatory, and the test had the sanction of the Metropolitan Professional Golfers' Association.

While there was some complaint that the new ball did not putt well and that it was difficult to drive from the tee in a heavy wind, Joe Turnesa, who played against the British professionals for the Ryder Cup at Leeds a few months ago, had no protests to make. Turnesa won the competition with a fine 70, made up of outward and inward halves of 35. He gave it as his opinion that the new ball was good for putting, that it played well out of the hazards, that it was just as easy as the older ball to get direction with, and that it carried tremendous distances with the wind behind it. The professional agreed, however, that it made golfing against the wind a stiff trial.

Willie Macfarlane, who had a 77, declared that the ball interfered with his putting, but he admitted that it was easier to play from the rough.

Bobby Cruickshank, the American-Scot, also had 77, and he gave it as his opinion that the new ball was a great improvement over the old one. Further, he asserted that it would put a premium on wood play from the fairway.

Specifically, Turnesa's performance at two holes seemed to disclose the strength and the weakness of the new ball. At the sixth hole (548 yards), with a stiff wind behind him, Turnesa reached the green with his second—something, he said, he had never been able to do at that particular hole.

On the other hand, at the tenth (429 yards), where he had to drive into the wind, he failed to reach the green with his second, although he did so regularly with the old ball.

Cyril Tolley, a former British amateur champion, was defeated in the final round of the Newport invitation tournament by T. Suffern Tailer, a local golfer, by 3 and 1.

POLAND WINS CHESS CONTEST.

INTERNATIONAL TEAM TOURNAMENT.

Our Chess Correspondent writes:—The International Tournament at Hamburg, which brought together the richest variety of the world's first-class talent that the present generation has seen, has at last come to a close. It was a truer test of national strength than the ordinary form of international tourneys, which pay regard only to individual successes, and for this reason it may be compared with the athletic contest between France and England which took place on Saturday. Each country was represented by a team of four, and it is their collective scores that count.

In this competition eighteen nations took part, the British Empire counting as one nation. It will be seen that those States which once composed Russia and Austria furnished a multiple of contingents, and Denmark, Sweden and Norway formed three separate units. Victory has gone to a nation, whose political existence had for a long time disappeared—viz., Poland, with a total score of 48½ points. This will not be surprising to those who had learned to measure the chess worth of such masters as Rubinstein, Tartakower and Przieporka. Their colleague, P. Makarcyak, is a new name in this company, but he has shown his fitness for the place.

THE SCORES.

Maroczy led the Hungarian team, which finished second with 47 points. The other scores were: Germany, 44½; Austria, 43½; Czecho-Slovakia, 42½; U.S.A., 41½; Holland, 41; British Empire, 40½; Sweden, 40; Latvia, 35; Denmark, 31; France, 28½; Rumania, 28½; Lithuania, 27½; Iceland, 22; Spain, 21½; Finland, 18; Norway, 16.

This is the fourth contest of the kind, and it carries with it the possession of the Hamilton-Russell Cup, first presented at the London Congress, and won last time by Hungary. For the cup there have been only three contests, the fourth being the Olympic Tournament, which excludes professional players. Next year's contest will be held in Prague.

An individual tournament of two rounds for ladies had five competitors. In it Miss Vera Menchik aded one more to her list of successes, with the fine score of 6½ points out of 8.

VIOLETS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Where Violets, runners or divided old crowns were treated as advised in early spring, excellent results are now evident, and it is now necessary to cut away all runners and concentrate strength on the crowns for the benefit of a good flower crop in the near future. To this end a dose or two of weak liquid manure will be most helpful. Failing the liquid stimulant we have found a light sprinkling of general fertiliser, as vended by our seedsmen, equally good, well repaying small trouble and cost. The above method has again proved superior to the ordinary border treatment, for, indeed, dry sunny borders, unless getting more attention than one cares to spend on them during the busy season, have been the happy hunting grounds of the insidious red spider, and examples are not wanting to show it

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

"BLACKBERRY" CHICKENS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

There is a common belief in many places that during the time of blackberries chickens should not be hatched, and, therefore, there will soon be a cessation of hatching operations. However, we believe hatching results have been very good this year, and there will be no necessity for a continuance into the late months. When very late hatching is carried on the parent stock must be in proper condition to ensure success. Most people expect the one lot of birds to produce equally vigorous offspring from January to December, and when from natural causes the loss of vitality becomes apparent in the progeny the month is blamed rather than the stock birds. A fresh mating of young, vigorous birds is necessary to carry on for chickens during August to October. Weak fertility in the eggs is sure to result in delicate offspring.

Special Demonstration of ATKINSON'S PERFUMERY and TOILET REQUISITES

STAND No. 17
(Main Hall)
R.D.S. HORSE SHOW

Demonstration will be continued during the following two weeks in the Perfumery Dept. at Switzers

Black Tulip is the latest Atkinson creation. After immense labour and research Van Baerle succeeded in growing a black tulip, lustrous and perfect—the envy of all Holland.

With no less effort Atkinsons have produced a perfume, light yet definite and compelling, quite à la mode, in keeping with modern taste and feeling.
